Museum to pay for million dollar painting

Rembrandt ransom set at $100,000

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI) — A $100,000 ransom demanded by thieves holding a Rembrandt painting was dropped off at an undisclosed location late Saturday. Officials from the Taft Museum were waiting to recover the work of art.

"The money has been dropped off," spokesman Jim Hough said late Saturday night. "I just came from the place." Hough, who negotiated the agreement with the thieves for the museum, said he hoped the painting would be returned today.

The thieves had threatened to burn the painting unless they were paid $200,000 in unmarked bills by 2 p.m.

John Warrington, chairman of the Taft Museum Committee, confirmed that an agreement for $100,000 had been reached between the thieves and Hough at 4:45 p.m. Saturday.

"The mechanics of getting the money to the thieves and getting the painting back is yet to be worked out," Warrington said.

Earlier Saturday, Warrington said the thieves had lowered their ransom demand from $200,000 to $160,000. He said the museum refused to increase their original offer of $100,000 for the safe return of the priceless painting titled "Man Leaning on a Sill."

The painting was one of two stolen Tuesday. The other "Portrait of an Elderly Woman" was returned by Hough Thursday after the thieves gave him directions leading to a barn in suburban Springdale where the painting was found.

Hough then took it to a cocktail lounge and called television newscaster Al Schottlekote. The newsman went to the lounge and said the picture was leaning against a jukebox.

Both paintings were appraised for insurance purposes at $330,000 in 1963 but some critics said they are worth millions of dollars.

Hough shuffled telephone messages from his real estate office to Warrington who was in his law office throughout Saturday afternoon.

Warrington said he believed the thieves would not harm the priceless picture and that negotiations would continue until the painting was safely returned to the museum.

Prior to the agreement, Hough said, "I do not know who the thieves are and although I haven't seen the painting, I believe it is still in good shape."

Buses, trains mobbed as U.S. rushes home

Travelers struggling to get home for Christmas Saturday mobbed bus terminals and filled every available seat on planes and trains.

Buses and trains were packed for the second straight day at the peak of the holiday season. Heavy snow on parts of the East Coast and Midwest fouled up some airline schedules, and sent hordes of travelers to bus terminals and train stations in hopes of finding a way home.

Greyhound buses in Chicago did their heaviest ever holiday business with "wall to wall" people packed inside the city's Loop terminal, assistant regional manager Frank Peppin said.

"We are getting bombarded with people because the airlines going to northern New England and New York were all closed off yesterday because of weather conditions," said George Snider, Greyhound's assistant regional manager for New England based in Boston.

In Sacramento Greyhound said the terminal was "really mobbed." A spokesman in Atlanta, Ga., said business was heavy. Thirty extra buses were added in Baltimore, Md., where a pokesman said the depot "will be busting at the seams before the weekend is over."

Another 30 extra buses were put into service at Cleveland, Ohio. The Indiana, Ind., bus station had "so many buses goining out its hard to keep track of them," Greyhound district manager S.G. Gibbons said.

At the depot in Los Angeles, a young man in faded denim overalls on leave from the Air Force, sat on the floor and said he had been waiting more than seven hours to go home to Las Vegas, Nev.

"They ran out of room on the bus," he said, "and then they ran out of drivers. I'm anxious to get home, but I don't really mind waiting."

Many airlines reported they used all available equipment to meet bookings that filled their planes almost to 100 per cent capacity.

New York City's three metropolitan airports, Logan International at Boston, O'Hare in Chicago, Arlanta's Hartsfield, Hopkins International at Cleveland, Weir Cook in Indiana, and Baltimore Washington International said they were coping after some lengthy delays late in the week.

Some passengers had to wait until 4:30 a.m. Saturday before they could get a flight out of General Mitchell Field in Milwaukee. An airport spokesman said the "extremely heavy" traffic was expected to continue throughout the weekend.

The Albany, N.Y., county airport was closed because of snow.

Extra police and parking personnel were assigned to handle the crush of holiday travelers at Los Angeles International Airport. An airport spokesman said traffic began as "extremely heavy" Saturday morning but within a couple of hours had worsened to become "unbelievable."

Amtrak, the semi-public passenger railroad corporation, was booked solid. Trains leaving Chicago's Union Station were sold out.

Near My Lai massacre

S. Viet troops charged with recent atrocities

SAIGON (UPI) — The Viet Cong charged Saturday that South Vietnamese troops tortured old women and buried children alive last month in the same province where the My Lai massacre occurred.

Sr. Col. Vo Dong Giang, deputy chief of the Viet Cong delegation in the South, gave the names of six women, aged 40 to 80, who he said were tortured and disabled by South Vietnamese soldiers.

He also named six children aged 11 to 15 who, according to him, were tied to trees, tortured and later buried alive.

The actions were committed last Nov. 19 and 20 "to bring the population to their knees and in an attempt to impose control on this area."

He said the incidents took place in Bac Phong village of Quang Ngai province, 318 miles northeast of Saigon. That province was the scene of the 1968 slayings of My Lai villagers for which Lt. William Calley was convicted.

The Viet Cong official did not say why the alleged tortures had occurred. South Vietnamese officials were not available for comment on the allegations, which could not immediately be checked.

In Cambodia, the High Command said Saturday that a government general and two colonels have been suspended and 20 lesser-ranking servicemen and civilians arrested in the illegal sale of U.S.-made brass shell casings.

Civilian airlines to fly with military jet fuel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon Saturday announced a compromise agreement with the Federal Energy Office calling for immediate diversion of military jet fuel to keep the U.S. civilian airlines flying during the holidays.

A Pentagon spokesman said the Defense Department would provide 900,000 barrels of jet fuel to U.S. international airlines. He said an additional 600,000 barrels would be provided "if and when future conditions warrant."

The settlement represented a compromise over an original demand from energy policy chief William E. Simon that the Defense Department immediately give up 1.5 million barrels of military fuel. Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger protested Simon's original directive, and Pentagon sources said the new decision was the result of this protest.

"The Department of Defense will begin providing immediately from its existing stocks in Los Angeles 2,500 barrels per day of JP5 kerosene based jet fuel, up to a possible total of 20,000 barrels, for U.S. international airline use," the defense spokesman said.

The Pentagon announcement came as Congress adjourned until Jan. 21 without passing emergency energy legislation requested by President Nixon.

In a statement, Nixon said he could "understand the strain and frustration which marks the unsuccessful congressional effort to enact" the legislation. But he said he hoped the lawmakers will move promptly toward passage of new legislation "that will be fair and effective" when they return.

"The defense fuel terminal in Los Angeles is the only source from which airlines can obtain sufficient additional fuel quickly in order to avoid possible flight cancellations during the Christmas holiday," the Pentagon statement said.

In addition, the spokesman said, the Pentagon will, if necessary, turn over to the airlines 128,300 barrels of JP4 naptha-based jet fuel during the month of January. JP4 is a special military grade of fuel, but it can be burned in commercial airliners.

The Pentagon also agreed to cancel for the time being its order for 751,700 barrels of jet fuel drawn last month from civilian stocks under the Defense Production Act. Delivery of this fuel to the military originally was to have taken place through January.

The spokesman said Federal Energy Office officials had agreed to replace the fuel used to keep civilian airliners flying during the holiday period. He said these replacements probably would begin in January.

Cleanup in U.S. Small Business Administration

Three top officials fired in loan agency shakeup

Director acts after charges of corruption

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Small Business Administrator Thomas S. Kleppe, acting to clear his agency of allegations of widespread corruption, announced Saturday he had fired three top officials for mismanagement and improper activities.

He said dismissal notices had been served on Thomas F. Regan, former director of the SBA's Richmond, Va., district office; Russell Hamilton, former director of the Philadelphia regional office, and Joseph Clark, Hamilton's deputy director in Philadelphia..

'Mismanagement'

Kleppe said the three were fired for "mismanagement, improper administration in taking care of their responsibilities and poor judgment" in handling the agency's loan and lease programs.

He said the dismissals had nothing to do with allegations of criminal conduct made during two weeks of House hearings.

Kleppe said the firings were part of an agency "house cleaning" he had promised the House Small Business subcommittee. In three days of testimony at the subcommittee's hearings, Kleppe had promised to conduct "fast audits" of all SBA loan offices, personnel investigations and an internal reorganization.

Illegal loans

Hamilton triggered the SBA hearings when he told House investigators of illegal loan making and possible criminal activities in the Richmond office during Regan's tenure as director. The subcommittee subsequently killed a bill to finance SBA loan programs for two more years and settled instead on a temporary funding plan.

Congress this week approved legislation that would provide the SBA only $575 million until next June 30 while the House subcommittee continues its investigation of 22 SBA offices around the country.

The subcommittee heard testimony about $11.6 million in loans made by Regan's Richmond office to his brother-in-law, Joseph Palumbo of Charlottesville, Va. Most of the loans were canceled after the House inquiry began.

Hamilton testified that he tried to fire Regan for mismanagement in Richmond, but that Kleppe overruled him. Kleppe said Saturday that Hamilton was the first of his 10 regional directors to be fired during his nearly three years as SBA administration because "he's the first one to betray my trust."

KISSINGER IN FINAL GENEVA TALK

U. S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, right, gestures as he talks with USSR Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko Saturday in Geneva. Kissinger arrived in Washington late Saturday after a two-week 13-nation mission in Europe and the Mideast. For report of Kissinger's trip, see A-2.

Bitter, weary Congress quits without resolving energy crisis

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress adjourned for the year Saturday in a mood of weary acrimony, with the House and Senate blaming each other and the White House for President Nixon's failure to win broad emergency powers to cope with the energy crisis.

The energy bill, which Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield once declared must be passed before Congress could go home for Christmas, sank in a legislative quagmire during a marathon session that ended early Saturday.

The House, rejecting a pared-down Senate compromise on the energy bill, refused even to adopt an adjournment resolution during the postmidnight session.

But it relented in early afternoon, when Mansfield gave up the fight for passage as futile, and the Senate swiftly agreed with the House to quit until the second session of the 93rd Congress convenes Jan. 21.

When they return next month, the legislators will be faced once again with the emergency energy bill that ran aground Friday over a proposal to curb windfall oil corporation profits stemming from the fuel shortages.

The President issued a conciliatory statement expressing regret that "during this critical period just ahead," Congress had failed to give him the authority he requested on Nov. 8.

But Nixon said that as a former member of Congress, he understood "how difficult it is in the closing hours of a session to obtain agreement on controversial, complex legislation." He said he hoped Congress would move promptly to approve a "fair and effective" bill when it returns next month.

Mansfield criticized White House aides for trying to "dictate" the terms of the energy bill to the Senate.

House Democratic Leader Thomas P. O'Neill said "the White House has worked against us ever since we went to conference with the Senate and even in the Senate yesterday."

In an effort to overcome a filibuster led by members from oil-producing states, the Senate eliminated the windfall profits section and sent a barebones, short-term bill to the House.

But the House refused to accept it, along with several alternatives. Rep. Harley Staggers, D-W. Va., the House floor manager of the bill, complained that the Senate was "using us as doormats and I, for one, am tired of it."

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott blamed the House for not accepting his chamber's watered-down version, claiming "we've legislated, we've passed a bill."

"The House is acting out of pique more than anything else," Scott said. "It has let its personal feelings interfere."

Looking ahead, Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., told his colleagues that "we must not harden into polarization between the House and the Senate, between Congress and the White House.

"When we come back, I urge that all of us put aside the emotions of the moment, dampen the fires," Baker added. "We can't afford the luxury of winning or losing."

Many members of Congress expressed belief that the President already had the power to ration gasoline and to implement other conservation measures to reduce fuel consumption without legislative authority.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

MEET 'MERRY CHRISTMAS'

The nameplate is not just a greeting — it's her name. Merry Christmas, 24, is a secretary at Mather Air Force Base in California. She's used to the kidding and the double takes by this time when people first hear her name.

Ends 15-day mission in Mideast, Europe

Kissinger 'happy indeed' with steps toward peace

GENEVA (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger ended the most intense diplomatic mission of his career Saturday, bouyant over his stunning success in bringing Israel and the Arabs to the peace table after 25 years of bloody conflict.

"The secretary is very happy indeed," State Department spokesman George Vest told newsmen as Kissinger wound up his 13-nation tour of Europe and the Middle East with a meeting of foreign ministers at the Geneva peace conference.

"They not only have come to the table together, but they have taken the first step."

Many crises

In addition to the Middle East, Kissinger's hectic and dramatic 15-day journey touched on virtually every major crisis confronting international relations, from the energy shortage to the Vietnam war.

Saturday's session in Geneva was the last foreign minister's meeting of the opening phase of the Middle East peace conference. The ministers reached a major agreement for Israel and Egypt to begin immediate negotiations on withdrawal of troops near the Suez canal.

"The road to peace will be long and sometimes painful but what we have done here is an achievement of which the principal parties and the United Nations should be proud," Kissinger said in a statement before departing for Washington.

'Nourished hope'

"As I go back to the United States to report to President Nixon I leave with nourished hope," Kissinger said. "We have completed the first stage of the conference and we have achieved substantially what we came here to do.

Before leaving, Kissinger met in privately for the third time this week with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, who had been designated cochairman of the ministerial conference along with Kissinger. He also held other private talks with the foreign ministers of Egypt, Israel and Jordan.

Kissinger then flew to Washington Saturday night.

Vest said that unlike the opening of the conference, where both Arabs and Israelis first threatened not to remain because of dissatisfaction with seating arrangements, the meeting Saturday was cordial.

"There was no language that could have been characterized as anything but low key," Vest said.

Asked to sum up the situation briefly, Vest said "the foreign ministers have recessed, a military committee working group has been set up and nothing has been adjourned."

Kissinger was understood to feel that the Soviets played a constructive role at the conference. U.S. officials note that the major speech by Gromkyo to the conference was low key and not inflammatory.

Icy roads, closed gas stations await drivers

Travelling—it's no joy this Yule

By United Press International

Icy roads and fears of closed gas stations met Christmas holiday weekend drivers who took to the highways in some parts of the country Saturday.

Public transportation terminals across the country were crowded and some officials predicted a lighter than usual volume of auto travel and, hopefully, a reduced traffic death toll over the 102-hour Christmas holiday period.

Snow storms left roads hazardous in parts of the Midwest, East and South and new snow and winds hampered highway travel in the eastern mountains.

In addition, authorities in many states announced crackdowns on speeders and plans to rigidly enforce newly imposed 50 or 55 mile per hour speed limits to conserve gasoline.

A survey by the American Automobile Association showed most gas stations in the country would close Sunday and Christmas day but would be open at least part of Monday.

The National Safety Council estimated that between 550 and 650 persons would be killed in traffic accidents during the period that extends from 6 p.m. local time Friday through midnight Tuesday.

The estimate was reduced to 50 fatalities from what the toll might have been if the gasoline shortage did not exist, the NSC said.

A United Press International count at 3 p.m. EST showed 72 persons had been killed in traffic accidents.

A breakdown of accidental deaths:

Traffic 72
Fires 11
Planes 0
Other 5
Total 88

In one of the worst accidents of the period, four persons were killed and two others critically injured early Saturday when a speeding car ran off a highway near Ardmore, Okla., and struck a bridge railing.

Emergency state proclaimed

Embargo on oil leaves Japan in national crisis

TOKYO (UPI) — Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka proclaimed a state of emergency in Japan Saturday in an effort to tide over an "unprecedented national crisis" created by Arab's oil squeeze and the nation's overheated economy.

In a statement read by his Chief Cabinet Secretary, Susumu Nikaido, Tanaka also called for cooperation by the Japanese people to help the government to return the situation to normal.

The Arab oil embargo hit Japan hardest because it came at a time the country, which must import more than 99.6 per cent of the oil need for its economy, was experiencing its worst postwar inflationary rising prices.

The Japanese government has been in the grip of what it calls a "national crisis" since the oil-rich Arab countries announced their decision to employ oil as a weapon against Israel in the Middle East conflict.

The oil embargo forced the Japanese government to cut oil supplies to the industry by 10 per cent from last month and 20 per cent beginning in January.

"The government will make its all-out efforts to prevent social confusion and stabilize the people's livelihood so that the honest will not lose," the statement said.

Tanaka said he believed "the present situation could be overcome without fail if the giant firms refrained from unnecessarily large price boosts and hoarding, and consumers from hysterical buying."

Tanaka's declaration of the state of emergency followed the passage of two bills in the Japanese Diet (parliament) Friday empowering the government to regulate the buying and usage of oil.

The legislation gave the government powers to set the oil supply targets, and place a ceiling on oil consumption by big consumers.

Car hits Upland man in a hurry

UPLAND — An Upland man was seriously injured late Friday night when he tried to dash across Foothill Boulevard and was hit by an oncoming car.

Jerald Forbes, 41, of 2643 Woodbury Ct., said police, had just left a bar near Central Avenue and Foothill Boulevard when he tried to run across Foothill.

A car driven by Arnie Troy Isom, 48, of 4590 Mission Blvd., Ontario, collided with Forbes and sent him hurtling through the air.

Forbes was hospitalized at San Antonio Community Hospital with a broken right leg and head injuries. He was listed Saturday in satisfactory condition.

Isom was subsequently arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol.

Believe it or not! he's giving away free gas

MOUNT SHASTA, Calif. (UPI) — Service station operator Russell Brownell gave away 3,600 gallons of gasoline Saturday, but it wasn't a Christmas present.

Brownell had been overcharging a penny a gallon and gave away the gas to satisfy the Internal Revenue Service.

Motorists lined up in freezing temperatures at 5 a.m., two hours before the station's opening, for a half mile in each direction.

Each motorist filled up. Brownell said, "a lot of people were mad because they couldn't get more."

"What impressed me was that the only people who said thank you were my regular customers," he said.

Brownell gave away the gas as a way of returning to the public the value of one-cent overcharges collected during federal price freezes. The overcharge, Brownell said, resulted from a bookkeeping error.

It took two hours to dispense the 3,600 gallons among 200 or 300 people. After their long waits, drivers simply helped themselves at pumps with the price marked zero.

When Brownell turned the price back to normal, 45 cars were lined up. All but four took off.

One luckless motorist said he had been waiting two hours, and "probably used up three gallons while in line."

Higher oil, gas prices expected as five Gulf countries meet

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Persian Gulf oil ministers ended a private meeting Saturday without announcing expected price increases, but conference sources said a final agreement would raise petroleum prices next year at least 50 per cent over current rates.

The price hikes are almost certain to spell higher gasoline and heating oil prices for consumers.

The Persian Gulf states of Iran, Iraq, Kuwait, Qatar, Saudi Arabia and Abu Dhabi called the meeting Saturday to consider how much to charge for their oil from Jan. 1 to March 31 next year.

The states are members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC). Other OPEC countries—Indonesia, Libya, Algeria, Nigeria and Venzuela—sent observers to the meeting.

The ministers adjourned their talks until today.

An OPEC source said prices would be increased "not less than 50 per cent" and could be double the present $5.09 a barrel.

The sources said that in deciding the new price for Persian Gulf crude, the basis for world oil prices, the states considered the recommendations of OPEC's Economic Commission that met in Vienna Monday through Thursday to formulate a new price structure.

The Venezuelan Ambassador to Iran, Dr. Otmaro Silva, said he was not authorized to give any information about the meeting.

"It is definite we will hear about a logical and reasonable posted price fixing soon and it will be higher than earlier prices," he said.

The posted price is the rate on which oil companies calculate their royalty payments to producing countries.

OPEC sources said the Shah of Iran told the delegates at a lunch in his Niavaran Palace they would make a "logical, reasonable and pragmatic" price assessment, enabling exporting and consuming nations to "buy and sell oil in a viable manner."

2 hurt in London blast

Terrorist bombs rip entertainment area

LONDON (UPI) — Terrorist's bombs exploded in London's jammed entertainment district Saturday night, sending hundreds of Christmas partygoers rushing through the streets, police said. Two persons were injured in the second day of terror bombings in downtown London.

Police said three bombs exploded in three movie houses in London's West End, the city's entertainment center of theaters, restaurants and cabarets.

The explosions were in a movie house complex at the Swiss Center in Wardour Street, the Cinecenta in Panton Street and Jacey's in Leicester Square, police said.

A police spokesman said a man and woman were reported "slightly" injured in the blasts, believed to be part of the latest terror campaign by the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

Police said all three explosions, described as "minor," were caused by small charges under the seats of movie house. Each blast blew a hole in the floor but caused little other damage, they said.

Mrs. Betty Edwards, 36, an usheretten in one of the movie theaters, said: "There was a great flash and a bang and I was knocked sideways."

London Fire Brigade said the Swiss Center blast was followed by a fire, which was quickly controlled.

Two persons have died and more than 300 persons wounded in England by the bombings this year.

Texas widow to mark birthday on Christmas

She's going like 60, but Essie's nearing 112 years

By STEVEN REED

MCKINNEY, Tex. (UPI) — The single, sooty light bulb hanging from the ceiling of Essie Swiney's two-room cardboard shack is dim in the smoke swirling from an unvented wood burning stove.

The smoke pushes up from a small opening in the top and whips around Essie's face, across her unblinking brown eyes and sprints out a crack in a window or under a door.

Essie, the widow of long dead (1930) migrant cotton picker Jim Swiney, is 111 years old. She will be 112 on Christmas Day. In this Essie Swiney has few equals.

No other house

"I don't want to live nowhere else," said the tiny lady, stooped against the winter wind and the years. "This is my home. A woman died and gave it to me. I don't want to live nowhere else. I want to be satisfied."

For most of her life Essie Swiney has been satisfied and all the more so since she settled into the unsteady patchwork shack on an otherwise vacant lot on a narrow street in an old, black neighborhood.

"I've been here by myself for a long time," she said, leaning over the stove. The flames danced from its ancient metal body to lick within inches of her sleeves.

'Nobody bothers me'

"I live all right by myself. I got good neighbors. Nobody bothers me."

Mrs. Swiney does not feel the energy crunch. Her home is without gas or butane. In addition to the one electric light, there is an outlet for her refrigerator. There are no other appliances nor any place to hook them up.

A gray cat looks mysterious as it peers inside the open back door. It disappears and a black cat about the same size pauses on the broken plank porch, looks in and goes the way of the first.

An aging daughter, Mrs. Annie Jackson, of Deming, N. M., plans a holiday visit.

"She's coming after me," Essie explains in the presence of a social worker who acknowledges the planned visit. "She'll be here after Christmas. I like to visit."

How long has Annie been in New Mexico?

"Oh, Lord, she's been out there a long time. Sometimes I go visit her."

Isn't a Texas to New Mexico bus ride a long journey for such an old lady?

"They (bus personnel) sees after me. I been to Houston and Galveston. I go to church nearly every night. I go to my neighbors, too. They has a television, it's colored."

Laura Hicks, the social worker, says Essie is much better off now that water has been piped to within a few feet of her back porch.

"The way it used to be she had to get water from a faucet on the vacant lot which made it really rough in the winter," she says. "Essie gets $124 a month in old age assistance plus food stamps and after the first of the year it will go up to $130.

"A retired neighbor cuts wood for her stove and she gives him about $2 every time he comes by."

Essie says she doesn't read well or write much but a purse hanging on a nail is stuffed with old letters gathering dust.

Essie doesn't have any special Christmas-birthday plans, "nothing but eat and sit down" even though it will be her 112th. She thinks folks are exaggerating when they mention her age, a figure supported by census and welfare rolls.

"I don't claim nothing because I know I ain't no 111 years old. I'm about 60."

CHRISTMAS — IT'S NO. 112 FOR ESSIE

Essie Swiney, whose migrant worker husband died in 1930, sits on the porch of her patchwork home in McKinney, Tex. and talks with UPI reporter Steven Reed and welfare worker Laura Hicks. Christmas marks her 112th birthday, and while her body is bent, she refuses all help from her visitors.

Officials in Spain name 6 Basque men as assassins

MADRID (UPI) — Spanish police Saturday named six Basque separatists with political criminal records as members of the assassination squad that killed Prime Minister Luis Carrero Blanco in a bomb blast.

Police said the six suspects were still at large and launched the biggest manhunt in recent Spanish history to capture them.

They also detailed how the six tunneled beneath a street to lay an explosive charge near a church where Carrero went to mass each morning and then executed a split-second master plan to blow up his limousine.

Generalissimo Francisco Franco attended a memorial mass Saturday for his slain prime minister and was hailed by acrowd of 3,000 persons shouting "Franco, Franco!"

Police said all six suspects sought in the killing were members of the Basque Homeland and Liberty (ETA), a militant separatist organization with headquarters in southern France.

Police said the assassination team was composed of five students and one worker, all aged between 23 and 27 years. All had participated in previous bombings, bank holdups, kidnapings and other politically motivated violence, police said.

The announcement identified the six suspects as:

—Jose Ignacio Abaitua Gomeza, alias Marquin, 23, mining engineering student, from the Basque town of Guernica.

—Jose Miguel Benaran Ordenana, alias Argala, 24, student, of Arrigorriaga.

—Pedro Ignacio Perez Beotegui, 25, student, of Vitoria.

—Javier Maria Larreategui, alias Atxulo, 27, student, of Bilbao.

—Jose Antonio Urruticoechea Bencoechea, alias Jos, 22, student, of Miravalles.

—Juan Bautista Eizaguirre Santiesteban, alias Zigor, 25, worker, of Hernani.

Christmas: a day for crying in POW camps

SANTA FE, N.M. (UPI) — For five long and lonely years, Col. James Lindberg Hughes tried to block Christmas out of his mind.

"I would try not to think about anything special on Christmas. I knew it would result in an outbreak of crying, which was a form of self inflicted punishment," Hughes said.

Hughes already had enough punishment.

Shot down in an F105 fighter over North Vietnam May 5, 1967, Hughes was a prisoner of the North Vietnamese in the "Hanoi Hilton" until early this year when the United States ended its commitment in Vietnam and the prisoners were returned. Hughes came back to New Mexico March 4.

First Christmas home

This year marks the first Christmas he will have spent with his family since his ordeal in the cold concrete cells of the prisoner of war camp in Hanoi.

Only once during his five years of imprisonment was there any open observation of Christmas. Prison officials last year agreed to allow the POW's to sing Christmas carols.

For three of his five years in prison, Hughes was in solitary confinement.

"I spent three long, lonely, cold and damp Christmases like that," he said. "I purposely tried to view Christmas as any other miserable day in a prisoner of war camp. I had to do that to make it as comfortable as possible."

Hughes said this year at Christmas his prayers will be for the men still listed as missing in action and those who may still be in prison camps.

"I was downtown this morning, and after hearing some children singing Christmas carols, a friend came up to me and asked me that same question," Hughes said.

"I told him I felt that this was the finest country in the world, where we can be glad that freedom and affluency abound."

Red, white and blue license plates postponed for 1 year

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The red-white-and-blue license plates promised California motorists for the nation's 200th anniversary will have to wait at least another year, it was reported Saturday.

The state received no bids this fall for reflective material that was to make the plates more visible as well as patriotic, officials said.

But shortages were not blamed for the lack of bids. Rather, it was California's policy of issuing long-term license plates. The state stipulated that the reflective material on the new plates must remain bright and visible for at least 10 years.

In a story in a Southland newspaper, state Motor Vehicles Director Robert C. Cozens said 3-M Company, the major manufacturer of the product had not yet had 10 years to test it.

Cozens told the newspaper that 3M has had only five years of operational experience with the reflective material.

"They didn't want to be legally liable for personal injuries from traffic accidents which could be held to result from reflective failure of a plate less than 10 years old," said Cozens.

Another problem was a legislative requirement for at least two qualified bidders before any contract could be awarded. Cozens said to the best of his knowledge only 3M was interested.

S.D. council to have data on disclosure law

SAN DIMAS — City Atty. Norman Oliver promised members of the City Council and Planning Commission that he will have a memo on the financial disclosure law to them by Wednesday.

Oliver made the promise after Planning Commission Chairman Gerald Klein asked the city attorney's opinion of the proposed law that will require members of planning commissions, councils and chief administrative officers to reveal their finances as public record.

Officials will have to disclose assets of more than $1,000 and gifts and loans or sources of income over $250.

Oliver said a task force is working with the League of California Cities to prepare a statement on the disclosure law.

Recently, the entire Planning Commission of Shasta County resigned rather than comply with the law.

The new law demands that officials also reveal business connections to avoid any conflict of interest.

Kin share Christmas lunch at hospital

CHINO — Togetherness will be the theme of the noon meal at Chino General Hospital on Christmas Day.

Linda Spencer, director of nursing, and John Gaffney, western regional food services director for Dobbs House, Inc., announced that meals will be served to the patients and their immediate families so that all may enjoy the holiday together.

The two stated that what began last year as "an experiment is this year a proven success."

The noontime meal, featuring a gourmet buffet of baked ham, roast turkey and roast prime rib with all the trimmings, will be served in the patient lounge on the second floor.

"For those patients who cannot leave their rooms for medical reasons, the dietary employes will serve them and their guests in the rooms," said Miss Spencer.

Patients who have no relatives may invite close friends to the festivities.

Woman hurt in Chino accident

CHINO — Patricia Ann Hargrove, 26, 505 W. Ralston St., Ontario, was treated at Chino General Hospital for a fractured left elbow Friday night after her car and another collided in the Philadelphia and Central avenues intersection.

The second car was driven by Ysabel S. Munoz Jr., 15, 1646 Farman Place, Pomona. Police said he was not hurt.

Police are looking for a driver whose auto struck another car at the accident scene then left. The car struck was driven by Bill Roy Deloy, 20, 12480 Baker Ave., Chino, who was not hurt.

A living tree helps ecology

NEW YORK (UPI) — Are you ecology-minded? If you are, join many other homeowners who are turning to live Christmas trees for the holiday. A live tree is one with roots. You use it for Christmas indoors and then plant it later for enjoyment for years.

Get recommendations from your local nursery on varieties suitable for your area. Some of the more popular choices are Scotch pine, Douglas fir, balsam fir, blue spruce, black spruce and Eastern red cedar. Be sure there is enough room on your grounds to accommodate a growing tree of the kind you select.

IN MEMORIAM

Firemen solve it with water

DOVER, N.H. (UPI) — Four fire trucks responding to an alarm found, instead of a fire, a 10-year-old boy with his tongue stuck on a signpost. James Land got into the predicament Wednesday while waiting for the school bus in 10 degree weather. When the bus arrived, the driver didn't know what to do, so he pulled the alarm.

Firefighters solved the problem by pouring a glass of cold water on Jimmy's tongue, separating it from the metal post.

Hospital rehab unit earns certification

WEST COVINA — The Queen of the Valley Hospital's physical therapy department has been certified as an outpatient rehabilitation treatment center for the central section of East San Gabriel Valley.

This will allow the hospital to treat outpatients covered under the state Medi-Cal program on a long term basis. These patients were previously referred to the County-USC Medical Center.

The state health department approved the certification after an extensive survey of the hospital's available services and facilities.

Patients who suffered spine injuries, strokes, complicated bone structures or had amputations are most likely to be referred to the center by private physicians, officials said.

A team approach will be used in rehabilitation. This will involve more than physical and occupational therapy, they added.

"When an individual has suffered a severe disability, expertise from a number of health sectors is often required," explained Frances Laterza, department director.

"Within our hospital we have individuals and departments skilled in continuing care, social, financial and spiritual counseling who can be most helpful in the rehabilitative process."

Two families given brighter Christmas

POMONA — Two Pomona Valley families will have a brighter Christmas because of police officers, merchants and General Telephone Co. employes.

The families, each with only one parent, have a total of 17 children. They faced a bleak Christmas until workers at the telephone equipment production center learned of their plight.

In less than three weeks, more than 100 utility employes contributed two truckloads of household furniture, three bicycles, clothing and canned goods.

Pomona police supplied two boxes of new toys and local merchants provided new bedding and clothing.

Sheri Koon, a General Telephone Co. clerk, spearheaded the drive. The families were selected with assistance of local school officials.

Both families will also enjoy Christmas turkey dinners — complements of telephone workers.

CHP officer honored for long service

CLAREMONT — Elwyn Richter, assigned to the California Highway Patrol office here, has been presented a certificate marking 25 years of service with the State of California.

His state employment includes nearly three years as a correctional officer at the California Institution for Men at Chino and 22 years as a highway patrolman.

Capt. W. C. Jones, area commander, gave him the certificate Tuesday during a briefing session. It was signed by Gov. Ronald Reagan and CHP Commissioner Walter Pudinski.

Since joining the patrol in 1951, Richter has served at the Pomona, El Monte, Baldwin Park, Mariposa and Claremont offices.

He is presently assigned to special services and is in charge of inspecting two trucks and ambulances, processing abandoned vehicles and investigation auto thefts.

Richter, of Downey, plans to retire next March.

B of A report on U.S.

Economic growth forecast

LOS ANGELES — Despite growing shortages of energy and industrial materials, a Bank of America economic study foresees moderate real growth in the economy in 1974 and no recession.

The forecast, entitled "Focus on the U.S. Economy: 1974," hinges on two basic assumptions.

The first is that Middle East oil production and exports will return to pre-conflict levels in the first quarter of 1974.

Should this not occur then the possibility of a domestic recession would increase, the report says.

The second assumption is that government programs to allocate available supplies of petroleum products will favor agriculture and industry.

"Given these conditions, gross national product in current prices should advance in 1974 by somewhat more than $100 billion or 8 per cent," the study says.

"About three-fourths of the gain will be due to inflation and about one-fourth will be a real increase in goods and services."

Possible shortage of basic minerals hinted by Morton

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton says the United States may soon have a shortage of basic minerals such as iron ore and bauxite and should take steps to become less dependent on foreign supplies.

He told a news conference recently that much of the nation's supply of basic raw materials is imported and that supplying nations, taking a cue from the Arabs and their oil, could jack up prices or take other actions to curtail shipments to the United States.

"We can avoid this, but it will take a hard look and some drastic actions," Morton said. He said the nation must try to build up its inventory and production of basic materials to make it less dependent on foreign suppliers.

The U.S. Geological Survey released a study report last May saying that the country's known deposits of mineral raw materials "are seriously depleted and future supplies must come from subeconomic deposits or from potential resources yet to be discovered."

Home-rule bill OK'd for D.C. Miss Teen Ager

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate passed, 77 to 13, and sent to President Nixon recently a home-rule bill for the District of Columbia.

Residents of the nation's capital will get the right to elect their own city government for the first time in nearly a century under the bill which Nixon is expected to sign shortly.

Although the bill provides for an elected mayor and a city council, Congress and the President retain control over such key functions as the city budget.

The bill won House approval Monday by a 272-74 vote.

America and the future of man

Ultimately, public puts all power behind the law

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the 13th of 20 essays by leading men in the world's academic community. The writer of this essay is professor of law at the University of Chicago. Herein he discusses the role of law in a modern society.)

By PHILIP B. KURLAND
(Copyright, 1973, Regents of the University of California

Law is a means to an end. Its function is to provide rules for the governance of a society.

It is not, however, the creator of society; it is only the creature of society. For law does not determine its own content. Its content is determined by those to whom the society entrusts the lawmaking powers or by those who have imposed themselves as lawmakers on that society.

A system of laws, therefore, can be no better than those who make the laws. The resulting rules may be judged good or bad. But good or bad, the rule of society by law affords the only viable alternatives yet discovered to a rule by force.

Law is, then, a set of rules provided by the governors of a society to control individual behavior within that society. These governors may be the elected representatives of the people, as in a democracy; they may be self-imposed, as in a dictatorship; they may be inheritors of that function, as in a monarchy.

A rational system

Any of these forms of government is capable of utilizing law as a means of rule. But, ordinarily, when we refer to the rule of law, we refer to the promulgation of laws by a rational system rather than through arbitrary imposition by fiat.

The rule of law, as we know it, is implied in Dean Roscoe Pound's dictum: "Civilization involves subjection of force to reason, and the agency of this subjection is law."

Obviously, however, much of the behavior of individuals within a society will not be controlled by rules established by government. Certainly as a society becomes more and more complex and interdependent, the formal rules of law will be directed to more and more of its members' activities.

Nevertheless, no society however complex—at least short of George Orwell's horrific if prescient description in "1984"—can survive in the absence of mutual understanding of what is proper behavior though not dictated by law.

Without such mutual regard for appropriate behavior, what might be termed civility, society will be as riven as if it were without law.

Barbarism vs. civility

If the alternative to the rule of law is the rule of force, the alternative to civility is barbarism. And to the extent that America is threatened by chaos, it is due as much to the decline of civility as it is to the decline of the rule of law.

Law, to be effective, must represent the consensus of the society that it purports to govern. A society fragmented by differences, as this country is today, makes consensus difficult to attain. And the effectuation of the laws becomes that much harder. There must, if the rule of law is to be maintained, be at least a consensus that law is to be obeyed.

This does not mean that the law should be free of criticism, nor that the law cannot be changed. Indeed, where the mechanism for peaceful change is not provided within the system, that system can hardly claim to come within the rule of law.

But change mechanisms provided within the system cannot be equated with active obstruction or defiance of the law, whether by the lowliest individual or the highest official of the land. Both must be equally bound by the rules properly promulgated.

Our system of law is different from all others, including those of other democracies—both in details and in fundamentals. The fundamental objective of the American system is the preservation of the freedom of each individual consistent with the freedom of all other individuals in the society. Other societies have similar aspirations but the American system has been based on written consitutions which purport to control—by a higher rule of law—who shall make the rules and what rules might appropriately be made.

What's the difference?

It is not the rule of law that distinguishes the United States from so many other systems, but the constitutional limitations on the rule of law that put certain matters beyond the reach of any branch of government and restrict lawmaking powers to particular branches of government.

The American Constitution was based on the knowledge through experience that power corrupts the processes of government and threatens the freedom of the individual. Power, the Constitution writers believed, should, therefore, be dispersed rather than concentrated.

Consequently, the Constitution divided the functions of government in what was then a unique federal system between the nation on the one hand and the states on the other.

The national government was to be one of specified, limited powers, delegated from the states or the people.

History has largely destroyed this original concept of federalism, in part because the several communities that were the states became a single community that is the nation, largely through the technological revolutions in transportation, communication and the production of goods.

In part the demise of federalism has also been due to the failure of the states to assume the responsibilities that are necessary concomitants of power, and to the grasp for authority by the central government, which secured powtr through the use of the income tax as the primary source of revenues.

Concentrated powers

Within the national government, the Constitution provided for the dispersal of power through a division of authority among three branches of government, the legislative, the executive and the judical, and a series of checks and balances that each could assert against the others.

Because of their unhappy experience with the British Crown, the writers of the Constitution attempted to provide a strong legislature and a weak executive. But once again history has tended to thwart the intentions of the framers.

Since the Civil War, and more rapidly since the presidency of Franklin D. Roosevelt, power has been moving from the legislative branch to the executive. Today the president claims and exerts powers of lawmaking that are certainly inconsistent with the notion of Congressional primacy.

The shift has come both because of the unwillingness of Congress to assume responsibility and the eagerness with which the executive has grasped at all power that comes within its reach.

Increased concentration of governmental authority in the national government and, within the national government, in the executive branch, increase importance of constitutional provisions which inhibit all parts of government from infringing liberties guaranteed to the people. The Bill of Rights forbids a congeries of actions to the lawmakers of this country, whoever they might be.

But the necessity for interpretation has resulted in the Supreme Court of the United States becoming the penultimate arbiter of their meanings. (The court is only the penultimate authority because the last decision belongs not to the court but to the people, either by way of constitutional amendment—a seldom-used device—or by nonacquiescence in Supreme Court judgment, which fortunately has also been comparatively rare in American history.)

Solons, not judges

Thus, the Supreme Court, too, has become an important lawmaker, because as Bishop Hoadly (the 18th Century philosopher) had it: "Whoever hath an absolute authority to interpret any written or spoken laws, it is he who is truly the lawgiver to all intents and purposes, and not the person who first spoke or wrote them."

In part, too, the lawmaking role of the Supreme Court is based on the common-law tradition by which courts, in the course of their dispute-settling function, created rules to govern decisions in later cases. In part, also, this is due to the necessity, if we are to be a constitutional democracy, of placing somewhere the ultimate authority as to the meaning of the Constitution.

And, since the Bill of Rights is largely a limitation on the powers of the majority and its representatives, the authority seems best placed in those who are not directly responsible to the electorate for their decisions.

This does not or should not mean that the justices of the Supreme Court are free to make of the Constitution whatever their personal predilections would command. In the words of Justice Felix Frankfurter: "'Law alone saves a society from being rent by internecine strife or ruled by mere brute power however disguised . . . The conception of a government of laws dominated the thoughts of those who founded the nation and designed its Constitution, although they knew . . . that laws have to be made, interpreted and enforced by men. To that end they set apart a body of men, who were to be depositaries of law, who by their disciplined training and character and by withdrawal from the usual temptations of private interest may reasonably be expected to be 'as free, impartial, and independent as the lot of humanity will admit."

They are not perfect

Such a demand on human frailties could not be expected to be perfectly met. It has not been.

Much that the Supreme Court has done is little more than personal choice of proper rules for government, rules that the Constitution had properly placed within the competence of the democratically-chosen Congress rather than the lifetime officials whose selection was by the president with the advice and consent of the Senate, but whose independence from both other branches inheres in the office as described by the Constitution.

In this day when reason has become suspect and emotion admired, law as the epitome of reason based on experience is in danger. The danger was described by C. P. Snow in his novel "Sleep of Reason" in a way that all who lived through the holocaust of Hitlerism and Stalinism can understand perfectly.

"Put reason to sleep, and all the stronger forces would be let loose. We had seen that happen in our lifetime. In the world: and close to us. We knew, we couldn't get out of knowing, that it meant a chance of hell."

We abandon the rule of law, if we do, not with "a chance of hell" but with the certainty of it.

Christmas is... a home for a warm puppy or frisky kitten

PETS ARE LIKE FRIENDS

Of all the animals available for adoption at the Pomona Valley animal shelter, 6-year-old Karen Lodder of La Verne finds a favorite in this short-hair, eight-week-old cat. The shelter, on Roselawn Avenue and West Mission Boulevard, has 36 cats waiting to be adopted at Christmastime.

POMONA — If this Christmas season turns out to be like the one last year, plenty of dogs, puppies, cats and kittens at the animal shelter will find permanent homes before Christmas.

Following publication in 1972 of a story and pictures on the number of cats and dogs available for adoption, 33 were adopted in a single day before Christmas, with only one returned later.

The Humane Society of Pomona Valley's shelter, on Roselawn Avenue at Mission Boulevard, presently is looking for permanent homes for 176 dogs and 36 cats.

Animals at the shelter either were picked up as strays or taken there by previous owners.

"We would like to see every placeable animal in our shelter get a good home, for when they come to us, it's their last chance," said Bruce Richards, executive director of the society.

But Richards says he does not want to see animals given away as gifts and then have the new owners later reject the pets.

He suggests that persons thinking about giving an animal to someone consider whether the new owner will want and welcome the pet, whether he can afford the costs of keeping a pet, whether the owners are aware puppies need housebreaking and go through a chewing and digging stage.

"If you still want to get someone a pet for Christmas, then we hope you will consider one of our homeless pets," said Richards.

"We have them in all sizes, breeds, colors and ages. Some have already received all their medical shots, and a few are already altered."

Business hours at the shelter are Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

TWIN AFFECTION

Sarah Kren, staff member of the Humane Society of Pomona Valley, cuddles 10-week-old male and female puppies, both from the same litter. Twins are a mix of hound dog and German shepherd and can be adopted from the animal shelter.

HE'S ONE OF THREE

But all his brothers are gone. This 10-week-old short haired golden tabby is the last of a litter of three to be adopted. He peers through a window as if to ask, "Is anyone out there who wants to take me home?"

ACTION LINE

To ask help in solving problems with which you have been unsuccessful, write to Action Line, The Progress-Bulletin, P. O. Box 2708, Pomona, Calif. 91766. Sign your full name, address and phone number and include copies (not the original) of receipts or other documentation possible. If your letter is published, only your initials will be used.

Rule book doesn't cover this hazardous crossing

I am writing to see if Action Line can help us keep our children from getting hit by cars.

We live on Buchanan Drive. Our small children must cross McKinley Avenue to go the back, less busy way to Lincoln School on the other side of Garey Avenue.

Twice last week and once the week before our children were nearly hit in the crosswalk by idiot motorists trying to make the light at Orange Grove Avenue.

Several times in the afternoon a lady who lives at the corner has gone out to help the first and second graders cross because the cars won't stop.

We have called the police department and asked for a policeman to be there from 2 to 3 p.m. We have called city hall to ask that school crossing signs be put up and yellow crosswalks be painted.

In each case we were given the runaround. It seems that a child must be hit or killed before anything can be done. — Mrs. A. W., Pomona.

Buchanan comes to an end at McKinley and the crosswalk you refer to leads to a church.

Pomona follows the guidelines adopted by the League of California Cities. The policy on school routes is that a crossing guard may be placed where 200 or more vehicles make a right turn at an intersection, controlled by a signal, in the period of an hour. School crossing signs and a school crosswalk may be provided only within 1,400 feet of the nearest boundary of the elementary school, as set forth by the California Vehicle Code.

We obtained this information from Forest P. Wallick, chief of police, who pointed out that Buchanan Drive does not fall within either of the two categories.

We also talked with Eugene Domeno, principal of Lincoln School. He will ask the Parent-Teacher Association safety chairman to work on the problem. He remarks that there are other corners in the city where visibility is worse.

I asked supervisors at the company I work for why we couldn't work a 10-hour day four days a week during the energy crisis.

That way more electrical energy could be conserved and several thousand persons wouldn't have to drive to work the fifth day.

Their reply was that any company that has government contracts must pay overtime for anything over eight hours. Is this true? — H. L., Chino.

The law varies with different types of contracts, reports Mrs. Caroline Robison, assistant area director of the Wage and Hour Division, U.S. Department of Labor.

Under one type of contract which is in wide use, the firm is required to pay time and a half for work over eight hours a day or 40 a week, whichever overtime is greater.

Mrs. Robison will give you more details if you write to her at Box 81, Whittier, 90608.

Midnight Masses and candlelight communion celebrate Christmas

Christmas, the most joyous of all the seasons of the year, will be celebrated in various forms at church meetings and at family gatherings Monday and Tuesday.

Catholic parishes along with many Protestant congregations will celebrate the traditional candlelight Communion rituals on Christmas Eve. Masses and church services are also scheduled by many congregations on Christmas Day.

Music will be featured at most services and some congregations will conclude the traditional Christmas Eve services with bell ringing ceremonies.

Many families will plan activities Monday evening so that the evening will conclude with the participation in one of the many religious services offered at churches throughout the Pomona Valley.

Some fortunate people will enjoy a four-day holiday and for others the holiday will begin at noon Monday. Most people will have Christmas Day off.

Upland City Hall will be closed Monday and Tuesday. San Dimas, La Verne and Montclair city halls will close at noon Monday and will be closed Tuesday. Claremont City Hall and the Parks and Recreation Department will close Monday at 1 p.m. and on Tuesday.

Monday will be a regular work day for Chino and Walnut but both will be closed Christmas Day.

There will be no trash pickup service in any area cities on Christmas Day and trash pickup will be delayed one day because of the holiday.

The County Board of Supervisors will not hold its usual meeting Monday because of the holiday and area city councils will bypass scheduled meetings for the holiday.

Capt. W. C. Jones of the California Highway Patrol, warns holiday drivers that extra patrols will be on duty with a watchful eye toward the drinking driver.

Religious services are scheduled at the following locations:

POMONA — The traditional candlelight Christmas Eve service will be conducted Monday at 7:15 p.m. featuring the four choirs of the Pilgrim Congregational Church.

The service will feature carols and the Christmas story, directed by Frank Cummings, minister of music.

"The First Mass of Christmas" will be presented at midnight Monday with a candlelight choral service at St. Joseph Catholic Church.

Other Christmas Day Masses will be celebrated at 8, 9:30 and 11 a.m. and 12:15 and 5 p.m.

The Chancel Choir of the Westmont United Methodist Church will present the cantata "Born a King" Monday at 7 p.m. at the church. Ron House will direct the service.

A family candlelighting service will be held at 7 p.m. and a carols and candle service at 11 p.m. Monday at the First Lutheran Church. "International Christmas" will be the theme of the 10 a.m. service Christmas Day. The Rev. Norbert J. Boer, pastor, will officiate at all services.

CHINO — St. Margaret Catholic Church will celebrate the Las Posadas Children's Mass at 7:30 and the Las Posadas Concelebrated High Mass at 11:30 p.m. Monday. Christmas Day Masses will be celebrated at 8, 8:45, 10 a.m. and noon.

A Christmas Eve Communion service will be celebrated Monday at 11 p.m. at the Chino United Methodist Church.

MONTCLAIR — Christmas Eve Masses will be celebrated Monday at 7 p.m. and midnight at Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic Church. Christmas Day Masses will be celebrated at 8, 9, 11 and 12:15 p.m. No evening Mass is scheduled.

Public acts to conserve energy

POMONA — The call to conserve electricity is apparently being heard.

A "measurable" reduction in the amount of electricity used has been reported since Edison Co. officials announced the need for a cutback due to a shortage of fuel.

Vincent Martin, district manager, said Edison Co. now has enough fuel to supply all its 2.5 million Southern California customers provided:

— The suppliers of fuel meet their commitments.

— There can be a 10 per cent reduction in use by customers.

— The company is not directed to share its fuel with other departments of water and power.

"We use about 60 million equivalent barrels of fuel a year to make electricity," he said. "We have firm contracts with suppliers to supply 57 million barrels of fuel.

"If the customers do reduce their useage by 10 per cent, the other three million barrels of fuel will not be needed."

Martin credited the turning off of Christmas lights, a mild winter, and other conservation measures as prime reasons in less electricity being used this year as compared to the comparable period last year.

"Turning off the Christmas lights has helped measurably," he said.

Other conservation measures include turning off unused lights and reducing the number of lamps.

"We have proven throughout the Edison system we can cut back by 14 per cent," said Martin.

"We have removed some lamps. We turn out lights when we leave our offices. And the air conditioning systems have been placed on time clocks so the equipment doesn't operate at nights and on weekends."

The Edison Co. customers used 53 billion kilowatt hours for the 12 months ending last October, he noted. This was an average use of one billion kilowatt hours per week.

The utility is seeking to reduce that useage by about half billion kilowatt hours per month, added Martin.

A need for conservation is reflected by the addition of 45,000 new homes and 1,000 more commercial and industrial buildings during the past year.

"The best we can figure is to expect a four to five per cent increase in kilowatt hour useage because of these new connections," he noted.

Carving of ex-Montclair man displayed in Alaska

MONTCLAIR — The woodcarving work of James Schrock, formerly of Montclair, was recently displayed at the University of Alaska's William R. Wood Student Activities Center in Fairbanks.

Schrock's hand-carved "Eagle Figure" is a five-feet-tall rendition of a form used by the Tlingit tribes of southeastern Alaska coupled with flower designs reminiscent of California pop art.

Schrock, 27, is an Athapaskan Indian born in the central Alaskan town of Tanana. He and his brother, Jay, were raised in Montclair by their foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Schrock of 5525 Palo Verde St.

Schrock is currently a student in the university's Extension Center in Arts and Crafts, in which he enrolled in 1971 after attending Chaffey College.

"Eagle Figure" was begun in that same year and Schrock worked on it intermittently for two years. During the period he also illustrated six books for the Koyukon Bilingual Foundation and carved the mahogany doors for the entrance of the new Anchorage Supreme Court Building.

Christmas—the right kind of disruption

The reason we have the Christmas Rush is simple. We all keep trying to maintain our regular schedules of work, employment and daily activity — and then add to our carefully arranged hours the celebration of Christmas.

It won't work. How can you lead a normal existence of cleaning, grocery shopping and commuting while addressing Christmas cards, buying a tree, and singing in the "Messiah"? Christmas is an interruption, just the one we need.

The Yule season brings other elements, and they are most intruding. The memories of childhood and youth, the recall of family and old friends. The reminder of another time and place. In 1900, Robert Louis Stevenson wrote in Scribner's Magazine: "And in the midst of winter, when his life runs lowest and he is reminded of the empty chairs of his beloved, it is well he should be condemned to this fashion of the smiling face".

Stevenson blended sorrow and joy, past and present when he came to Christmas. Yet he welcomed the disruption, even with the hard memories of a broken family, for life must have its lift in "lowest" December.

This famous writer was asking his readers to believe that "gentleness and cheerfulness, these came before morality" and he wrote from a room and life surrounded with sickness. And the major point of his Christmas article was the recall of a poem by W.M. Henley (1888) perhaps the only poem that many will read this year:

A late lark twitters from the quiet skies;
And from the West, where the sun, his days work ended,
Lingers as in content,
There falls on the old gray city
An influence luminous and serene,
A shining peace.

Christmas helps us to discover a different arrangement for our lives, some new parcels of hope, some fresh words like "joy" and "peace". And they improve with use.

Washington press corps: a paper tiger?

Has the press always been "out to get" Richard Nixon? Is it guilty of "malicious, outrageous, hysterical" attacks on the President under the all-encompassing theme of Watergate?

Just the opposite is true, contends columnist and author Jim Bishop. "History," he says, "will show that in 1972 the American press was browbeaten into submission by Nixon."

There were 143 days, he notes, between the June 17th break-in at Democratic National Committee Headquarters in the Watergate apartment complex and election day. His review of the leading publications during that time span shows that hundreds of newspapers were so busy defending themselves against White House attacks on their integrity that Watergate was buried as a "caper."

"In spite of unremitting White House flogging," 93 per cent of all American newspapers, entranced by China trips and Soviet wheat deals, endorsed Richard Nixon for a second term. Watergate was dismissed as a minor obscenity which had been uncovered by two novice reporters of the Washington Post. The White House press corps "bought" the official line that it was just a "third-rate burglary."

Of 433 political writers in Washington, only a dozen were assigned to uncover "the writhing slime under the lid of Watergate." The Associated Press, with 65 reporters, assigned no one. United Press International, with 51, turned its back on the story.

This was hardly the demeanor of a tigerish press, says Bishop. Rather, it tended toward derelection of duty.

"Those of us who regard ourselves as reporters of discernment and conscience helped make Richard Nixon," he concludes. "Those who think the press destroyed Nixon have it backwards. He destroyed himself."

Another deflating assessment of the supposed power of the press comes in the form of a book, "Reporters and Officials: The Organization and Politics of Newsmaking," just published by Lexington Books.

The news that appears in major daily newspapers is less a sampling of what is happening in the world than a selection of what officials think, or want the press to report, is happening, claims its author Leon V. Sigal, a research associate of the 20th Century Fund.

For example, officials and agencies of the U.S. government accounted for nearly half of all news sources for page-one stories in the New York Times and Washington Post between 1949 and 1969, he says.

"Whether the topic is the military balance in Europe or poverty in Appalachia, a skyjacking over Miami or Soviet missiles launched from beneath the sea, it is likely to break into the news when it appears on the desks of senior American officials and not before then," says Sigal.

And what the newspapers say about it, he adds, "will reflect to a considerable extent what officials say about it."

Study backs higher gas prices

WASHINGTON — Private government studies, bearing out President Nixon's apprehensions, have concluded that gasoline rationing not only would create an "administrative monstrosity" but would deteriorate into a black market system.

Instead of paying higher prices to legitimate dealers, customers would wind up paying black market operators, the studies warn. Already, hundreds of thousands of barrels of fuel are available on the black market at prices substantially higher than the Cost of Living Council has authorized.

The government studies cite the World War II experience, when crime syndicates did a brisk black market business and ration stamps were widely counterfeited. Yet World War II was a time of intense national patriotism.

Without these patriotic pressures upon the consumers, suggest the studies, the black market would flourish. Ration stamps would also be easier to counterfeit on today's offset presses.

In place of rationing, the President's energy advisers favor higher fuel prices with a development tax that would divert excess profits into the search for new sources of energy.

SECRET TESTIMONY: Senate Watergate investigators are digging into charges, made behind closed doors, that President Nixon and his brother have secret bank accounts with fugitive financier Robert Vesco in the Bahamas.

The allegation of the financial link with Vesco was made by John Meier, a former consultant to billionaire Howard Hughes. Meier was once a neighbor, friend and occasional business associate of the President's brother.

A transcript of the secret session quotes Meier as saying: "I was told by Don on numerous occasions that both Don and his brother Richard — I don't know if Ed was mentioned — had accounts with Vesco in the Bahamas. That was in 1971 and 1972." Ed is the President's other brother, who carried a $200,000 cash donation from Vesco to the President's campaign committee last year.

Later in the interrogation, the transcript quotes Meier as saying: "I also had conversations with Donald about Vesco, his brother Richard and the accounts in the Bahamas. These discussions also involved Howard Hughes and Vesco."

Son works for Vesco

Donald Nixon's son, Donald Jr., went to Europe to become an aide to Vesco at Investors Overseas Services in July 1971. Young Donald is still employed by Vesco.

During the meeting with the Watergate committee staff, Meier was asked if young Donald, also a friend of Meier's, knew about the bank accounts.

"I don't know," Meier said. "Donnie seemed to be a nice young man whose political beliefs were closer to Robert Kennedy's than Richard Nixon's."

The Bahamian government recently refused to extradite Vesco to the United States to face only the least serious of four federal indictments against him.

Vesco could not be reached at his Bahamas Commonwealth Bank and sources close to him said he is now in Costa Rica, a nation that not only gives him shelter but also has granted him a diplomtic passport. Vesco could not be reached in Costa Rica.

NO COMMENT

The White House said it does not comment on charges stemming from the Watergate Committee and a spokesman told us: "I think that will be our situation."

The President's brother, however, responded angrily to the statement. Switching the call to a speaker phone so his wife, Clara Jane, could "take this down," he termed the testimony "completely false and completely a lie."

"I never had any account outside this country," he said.

Mrs. Nixon was equally angered. "I don't know why everybody is trying to get Don Nixon," she said. "He was never involved in any campaigns."

"You keep quiet, Clara Jane," Donald said. He then called investigations into his financial affairs "witch hunting," and asserted: "I've never done anything improperly or dishonestly. I never took a dime from anyone."

HUGHES APPEARANCE: Howard Hughes, the bizarre billionaire recluse, has signed an affidavit promising to appear as a witness in his suit against a number of former business associates.

The secretive Hughes, who is believed to be living at the Inn in the Park in London, has not been seen in public in years. Since surreptitiously leaving his hotel hideaway in Las Vegas in 1970, Hughes has reportedly lived in the Bahamas, British Columbia and Nicaragua.

More recently, the Hughes organization has taken an entire floor at the London hotel and posted armed guards at the entrances.

In his suit against his former colleagues, Hughes has alleged that he was overcharged millions of dollars by his associates in the purchase of gold and silver mines in Nevada.

As part of the suit, Hughes' lawyers have filed the affidavit, in which Hughes promised he will make himself available for questioning by the defendants.

The Hughes papers are in the hands of U.S. District Court Judge Aldon J. Anderson in Salt Lake City.

In his affidavit, signed in London, Hughes said: "I shall be available to appear for deposition therein, and shall appear upon proper notice in accordance with and as required by the orders of the court."

A clerk for Judge Anderson told us she did not know if the signature on the affidavit had been checked for authenticity.

Oddly enough, the Hughes document was filed at the time Chester Davis, a lawyer who is now running Hughes' far-flung operations in the United States was fighting subpoenas for Hughes executives to appear before the Senate Watergate Committee.

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES: CBS correspondent Daniel Schorr may soon be covering the Watergate trials from the inside. He has received a summons for jury duty from the U.S. District Court presided over by Judge John Sirica. . . . The sizeable crowd that congregated on the White House lawn to greet Romanian President Nicolae Ceausecu wasn't there by accident. Many were government employes who were brought in to ensure that the Communist leader had a respectable welcoming party.

Speaking of Shortages . . .

Gossip for today

All I know is what I read in the newspapers—and if their reports are true, this still just has to be the greatest of all possible nations despite some of the unfortunate things that are happening in our country today. How could it be otherwise? Among our many blessings we now have:

1. A reducing belt with a warning device on it that toots when you relax and let your stomach hang out over your belt buckle.
2. A soft drink can with a self contained chilling system.
3. A suggestion from the Agricultural Research Service that the meat shortage can be alleviated by artificially inducing cows to have twins.

And when it comes to making this the best of all possible nations, due credit should also be given to our legal experts.

1. A Colorado Supreme Court has ruled that it is not a crime for a person to wear a U. S. Flag sewn to the seat of his pants.
2. A Federal court in New York is ruling on the distance a photographer will be allowed to approach Jacqueline Onassis.

Then, under the heading of dramatic new breakthroughs for improving national health:

1. The government has ordered the country's bakers to double the iron content of white bread.
2. The American Medical Association reports that coffee may be better and a lot less expensive than drugs in calming restless children.

And finally, to offset our financial ills brought about by the devaluated dollar, some government experts are wisely urging that the $2 bill be reissued and once again put into circulation.

So, as anyone can easily see, this country's so full of such wonderful things I'm sure we should all be as happy as kings. Certainly we can look forward to a much better fate than that recently predicted by Lord Rothchild for the British Isles. He says that by 1985 the English will be the poorest and drunkest people in the world.

PAUL HARVEY

Crazy, mixed-up weather in 1973

At the risk of second-guessing our team's professional weatherman, Paul the prophet herewith predicts that tomorrow will be too hot or too cold or too wet or too dry wherever you are.

World weather-watchers, with an assist from our Skylab crew, have revised their long-range forecast. An International Conference on Radiation and Remote Probing of the Atmosphere drew a hundred scientists from 50 nations to the University of California.

There they evaluated present evidence and concluded that whatever is happening to the world's weather it's not our fault. Also, that there is no more dust in the atmosphere now than 2,000 years ago. And that with radiation-sensing satellites we are now capable of detecting changes in the world's climate which would have been imperceptible a few years ago but "man's activities show no evidence of changing his world's climate."

This contradicts the environmentalists who have blamed recent floods and droughts on manufacturing, open burning and automobiles.

But with all that we can learn from these supersensitive satellites plus human observation from Skylab, the only safe prediction for the world's future weather is that it will "fluctuate."

This year in the semiarid region below Africa's Sahara, millions are threatened with starvation due to the most prolonge drought on record. But remember, we've kept records on tha area for less than 50 years.

The edge of that parched desert is apparently creepin south some 30 miles per year, turning range land, farms an towns to sand.

Droughts have been altogether as severe this year in Russi India and China — yet Pakistan is hungry this year because flooding more vicious than in modern memory.

Our own Great Plains have had a severe drought every tw decades since before the UnCivil War. But during the past years our whole hemisphere has been cooling off.

We've had some crazy, mixed-up weather in 1973, includi an unprecedented drenching of the plains states. If the weat er clock were on time, the Mississippi River would have dri up this year instead of overflowing.

So, though the consensus of scientists now seems to be th man is not to blame, as climatologist Dr. H. H. Lamb puts "We are seeing the beginning of the greatest shift in wo climate since the 18th century."

Where man's motorcars and smokestacks and land misu appear of little consequence in altering weather patterns a cycles, nonetheless vast changes are under way, chang which may stretch out over many centuries.

Perhaps it is the tilting back and forth of the earth on axis which alters our juxtaposition to the sun. But if you w to buy into the stock market on the basis of the prognosis the weather chartists of what's in store for the United Sta the next few years, you'll buy stock in soda pop and air c ditioners and irrigation pumps. And if you buy real estate Northern states before their winters moderate, your gr great grandchildren may really have something.

ANCIENT ART — This Persian gold bracelet of the 10th-11th centuries is one of the works in an exhibition of Islamic art now being held at the county Museum of Art. Some 500 paintings, textiles, bronzes, ceramics and works of calligraphy, metal and glass are on display through March 3 in the Hammer Wing. The exhibit covers the years 700 to 1900.

Gallery displays gift of Chinese ceramics

LOS ANGELES — A collection of Chinese ceramics, the gift of the late Nasli M. Heeramaneck to the county Museum of Art, is on display in the Far Eastern section of the Ahmanson Gallery through March 3.

The comprehensive exhibit of 60 works of art traces Chinese ceramic production through many centuries, from a large Neolothic mortuary urn to the porcelains of the Ch'ing Dynasty.

Since the New Stone Age, ceramics in China have been the most enduring medium for making objects of practical utility which were often creations of great beauty. In the Far East the artistic genius of the Chinese found in ceramics a natural outlet for aesthetic expression. For more than 2,000 years they have made high-fired porcelaneous wares of unsurpassed excellence and ceramic glazes universally admired for their sumptuous textures and enchanting colors.

The Heeramaneck gift contains a number of important masterpieces of Far Eastern ceramics, according to George Kuwayama, senior curator of Far Eastern art. Among these are monumental funerary sculptures from the Han and T'ang Dynasties, with court ladies and magnificent horses rendered in careful detail.

Of special interest is the "Kneeling Lady," which has the characteristic smooth, almost abstract modeling and fine features of Han tomb sculpture. The famed Sung Imperial wares called Ting, Chun Kuan and Lung-ch'uan are also represented by deep green northern celadons, Chun wares of the palest delicate blue, white Ting porcelain with clear-cut designs and dramatic dark green Lung-ch'uan porcelain. The popular wares of Tz'u-chou are represented by group of ceramic pillows embellished with a variety of decorative designs.

A 48-page illustrated catalog by George Kuwayama will be available in the Museum bookshop for $3. Free guided tours are offered Thursdays at 12:30 p.m. The exhibition can be seen Tuesday to Friday 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and weekends 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Admission is free. The museum is at 5905 Wilshire Blvd.

A free lecture on Chinese celadon porcelains, given by Robert Griffing Jr., will be presented Jan. 27 at 2 p.m. in the Leo S. Bing Theater.

Enlighten your mind

By JEAN ADAMS

IN THE DARK: (Q.) I am photographer on my high-school newspaper staff. Each day I come into contact with several good-looking girls in the dark room. I get the feeling that they want me to do something obscene with them.

Outside they are really nice kids, but something happens to them in the dark. What should I do?—Tempted in Texas

(A.) Because this seems to be happening over and over to YOU, I believe that it is all in YOUR mind, and not in the minds of the girls in the dark with you.

Even if one should make a pass of some kind at you, remember that as a student news photographer you are in training to be a professional, and should behave in the manner of a pro. A doctor or a lawyer or a journalist would conduct himself professionally. So should you.

BAD GRADES: (Q.) My parents have told me I am not going to get anything at Christmas because my grades are bad. They say I don't try. I DO try. I sit near the front so I can see the teacher and the board better and I study in the afternoon because at night I get eyestrain. Please help me.—Unhappy Christmas in Florida.

(A.) It appears to me that you may need glasses. This might solve your problem. You should have an eye check by your ophthalmologist and a check on your general health by your family doctor.

No matter what the trouble is, your parents should not discipline you by withholding Christmas gifts. If discipline is needed, it should be in some other form. Show this to your parents.

'Gypsy' headlines subscription series

LOS ANGELES — The Theater Guild subscription series at the Shubert Theater will offer five musicals, starting with Angela Lansbury in "Gypsy" in April.

The fifth musical on the card is "Good News," a popular hit of the '20s. It will star Alice Faye and John Payne.

"Irene," starring Debbie Reynolds; "A Little Night Music," with Jean Simmons, and "Pippin," with the New York Company are the other shows of the Theatre Guild's second season at the Shubert.

"Good News" is the latest offering of producer Harry Rigby whose success first with Ruby Keeler in "No, No Nanette," — and then with Debbie Reynolds in "Irene," marked the golden return of the 20's musicals.

Abe Burrows, whose credits as writer or director encompass such works as "Guys and Dolls," "Silk Stockings" and "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," is directing "Good News" for which he has also written a new adaptation of the book.

The score, which contains such tuneful numbers as "The Best Things in Life Are Free," "The Varsity Drag" and the title song, has music by Ray Henderson and lyrics by Buddy DeSylva and Lew Brown. Other standards by the same composers such as "You're the Cream in My Coffee" and "Button Up Your Overcoat" are being included.

"Good News" also marks the re-union of Miss Faye and Payne, Hollywood motion picture musical co-stars.

"Gypsy," is the new production of the Arthur Laurents-Jule Styne-Stephen Sondheim Broadway show. Miss Lansbury's performance in this longrun sellout at London's Piccadilly Theater has been hailed by critics.

"Irene," in which Miss Reynolds has been playing to capacity audiences on Broadway, was directed by Gower Champion, with musical numbers staged by Peter Gennaro. In the title role, Miss Reynolds once again demonstrates the versatility that has been the hallmark of her career in films, television, nightclubs and now the Broadway stage.

"A Little Night Music," in which Miss Simmons will be making her musical stage debut, is the richly melodic, polished and sophisticated presentation that has been accorded, among its many theater citations, both the Tony and New York Drama Critics' Circle awards as this year's Best Musical. Suggested by Ingmar Bergman's film, "Smiles of a Summer Night," the production, for which Hugh Wheeler wrote the book, is the latest in a string of Harold Prince (producer-director) and Sondheim (composer-lyricist) award-winning musicals.

"Pippin" is an extravaganza in which the son of the French emperor, Charlemagne, experiences the realities of life. Bob Fosse, winner of an Oscar for "Cabaret" and an Emmy for "Liza with a Z," also won two Tony Awards for his direction and choreography of this Broadway hit.

All five musicals can be seen on the Theater Guild Subscription Series. Subscribers select their seat locations for the entire season, guaranteeing themselves the best seats, prior to any mail orders, parties, clubs or box office sales.

Subscribers receive their tickets by mail, well in advance of performance date, and have the privilege of exchanging them if they cannot attend their regular subscription performances. Tickets may be exchanged by mail.

Theater goers can get details from Mrs. Kay Huber, Theater Guild Manager, at the Shubert — 2020 Avenue of the Stars, Century City, Los Angeles 90067, (213)556-1613.

MSAC opens new year in artful style

WALNUT — The first of the new year's art exhibitions at the Mt. San Antonio College Gallery will open with a reception at 8 p.m. Jan. 4.

The exhibition will feature the drawings of Margaret Nielsen and the sculpture-combines and watercolors of Scott Grieger. Miss Nielsen's pieces employ a form she calls "fantastical." Greieger's sculpture-combines present an unusual approach with this medium, and his watercolors have been called "a parody on past art work."

Regular gallery hours are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Mondays through Fridays to Jan. 25.

The gallery will present "Black Artists — 1974" Feb. 1 through 23; "The Fourth MSAC Biennial: Painting and Drawing" March 6 through April 4; "Words and Images" April 15 through May 9, and the 28th annual Student Art Exhibition May 16 through June 3.

Terminal work delays opening

GRAPEVINE, Tex. (UPI) — The new 17,500-acre Dallas-Fort Worth airport is now faced with the job of getting ready for commercial air traffic.

The $700 million facility was scheduled to open Oct. 28 but airport board members said unfinished terminal facilities may delay regular traffic until January.

Narrowest street

A claimant for the world title of the narrowest street is St. John's Lane in Rome Italy, with a width of 19 inches.

Erma Bombeck

Attention: All Christmas newsletter writers.

You can't see me, but I am waving a white flag, which means I am ready to negotiate a peace settlement. Last year, when I wrote an anti-newsletter column, I really got ripped off by readers who said, "You are just jealous of other children's achievements." (You think making license plates in an institution isn't an achievement?) Another one wrote, "All right, Bombeck, the only reason you want to stamp out newsletters is that your name starts with a "B" and you have no consideration for those of us who come later in the alphabet and don't get the warm, chatty note but a simple, "Hi, More later. Merry Xmas."

But the one that got through to me was a lady who pointed out that this column is a yearly newsletter of trivia and nonsense. You know something? She's right.

And to show you what a sport I am, today's column will be devoted to actual excerpts from some of the hundreds of Christmas newsletters I received last year from other families.

"Dear Friends, This past year wasn't one of our best years. Stan and I both had surgery. Also, my father who is almost blind and has a malignancy was with us recovering from one of his 'routine' surgeries. However, Stan and I still manage to keep going in our puny ways. He goes to doctor of ulcers and I go every three weeks for vitamin B-12 shots. Supposed to be anemic and have low blood pressure, but nothing keeps me down. Our very best for a joyous holiday season."

Dear Gang: The— have a new addition this year. We bought a watchdog and she's been wonderful: bit three children trick or treating, sex-molested a prize-winning poodle and chewed up $3,000 worth of clothes and a Christmas tree."

"Dear Friend: Another Christmas finds the — family in an absolute mess. The year held all sorts of surprises like the breaking of the sewer system while reinforcing our sinking foundation."

"Christmas 1973: Fred is in his 4th quarter of — and just produced a prize-winning 16 mm film. He earned the money for the movie working in bike repair and composed part of the film's music. He is also doing a macrame wall hanging and sings in the choir.

"Happy Holidays: Ceilia is 13 now and is back on gamma globulin injections for her blood deficiency. She is hopeful the orthodontist will remove her dental braces. Her stamp collection is expanding. Grandma renewed her driver's license in September and was required to take only the written and visual test."

In other epistles, we learn that Marlo and Erica got their ears pierced, Eleanor and Vic carpeted their porch, the snowman melted and they met Cardinal Cook (not in the same day) and Dwayne got a new job in an organic fertilizer factory.

Have a Merry Christmas — Happy Hanukkah — Chinese New Year — Weekend away from the kids — (Check one).

For Sunday, Dec. 23

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Follow your impulses today, especially generous ones. You'll know instinctively the right thing to do for one you love.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You will profit in the long run if you put the needs of your mate or sweetheart above you own at this time.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Although your mind is able to grasp facts quickly, today it will be even more so. Quick decisions will be your best.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You'll feel better if you can get out in the fresh air for a little mild exercixe. Even a brief session will be beneficial.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You don't want to be around people today who take things too seriously. The youngster in you will be happier with others who think fun.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Toward afternoon you may get some drop-ins you weren't planning on. Better have some snacks set aside.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Someone you haven't heard from for a while wants to get in touch. He has some last-minute plans to share.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Conditions that have an effect upon your basic security continue to hold promise. This will enhance your attitude and optimism.

SAGGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll be rather restless! Don't get into a situation where you'll feel too pinned-down. Have your exit lines ready.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You can rely on your intuition today. It will help you perceive things more clearly. Trust the little guy inside.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Those you'll find most enjoyable are people who express new ideas you can learn from. Conservative traditionalists will bore you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You could be in for a surprise when one you thought you could never impress hangs on your every word and praises your ideas.

Your Birthday Dec. 23

Don't discuss your plans prematurely this year. Just quietly pursue your goals. When things are far enough along others will see for themselves your amazing progress.

For Monday, Dec. 24

ARIES (March 21-April 19) The demands placed upon you today by others will be rather severe. Do your best, but remember, it's impossible to please everyone.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Give of yourself without expecting anything in return. Then you'll be able to appreciate more fully whatever anyone does for you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't let your impulsive generosity lead you into debt. It will later be difficult to get out from under.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You and your mate will be overly sensitive as to how each treats the other. Don't wait for him to make the initial move.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Poor preparation could make more work for you than necessary today. Plan carefully. Find the best way to handle things.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Normally you're self-disciplined. Today, you could let your guard down a little too far. Be moderate in your activities.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Family responsibilities will be much heavier than usual. Approach them philosophically. Make them a labor of love, not a chore.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You could easily misinterpret remarks of others and respond with hostitlity. Be patient. Above all, be forgiving.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're going to have to keep a very tight rein over your finances at this time. It's not a good period to assume obligations.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be tolerant of the wishes of others. You'll be a much bigger person if you make concessions to maintain harmony.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you're attending a social function today don't overindulge and then insist on driving. Let someone else drive or take a cab.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You could be a bit too flirtatious at the office party and later regret it. Don't let temptation overpower your common sense.

Your birthday Dec. 24

You'll set very demanding goals for yourself this year and they will require much self-sacrifice. Be sure your aims are worth the effort.

Allow new pet time to get acquainted

By DR. FRANK MILLER

EASY DOES IT when it comes to taking proper care of a new pet. Remember your home is a new and potentially overpowering environment for that new family member. Be sure the surroundings are as right as you can make them before you bring the pet home. Allow plenty of time for it to familiarize itself with its new surroundings and become secure in them before apiling on new situations. Appropriate confinement insures success in the introduction process, not only for puppies but for birds, kittens, rodents, reptiles and, of course, fish.

Preplanning prevents possible problems. For example, plan to confine the new puppy to a small, easy-to-clean area until you are satisifed it is already housebroken or you help it accomplish this feat. Don't make unreasonable demands on your new pet or expect it to know what is right or wrong before it has been taught the difference. This will take time.

Don't force your attention on your new pet be it goldfish or Great Dane pup. In most cases, if you are patient the animals will demonsteate soon enough their desire to make friends. (The more exotic the animal the more time it is likely to take for this getting-acquainted process.)

DEAR DR. MILLER: First it was my seven-year-old spaniel. He has been drinking heavier and heavier lately and I have wondered about it. Now his three-year-old son is doing the same thing. At this point, they are both drinking like fish. It would be a real problem if they didn't have a doggy door where they could come in and out as they wanted to. It does make me curious, though, as to how you would account for their drinking habits?—T. A.

Dear T. A.: Both may be hitting the water bowl heavily lately because of some dietary change. There could be a possibly higher percentage of salt or even sugar in their diet which would stimulate them to drink more. It could also be that the youngsters is merely mimicking his father; he might just be drinking to keep up with his "old man." Your senior spaniel could, at his age, have an organic problem which causes his excessive thirst. Most commonly this would be a kidney condition, less frequently a hormone imblance and-or a pancreatic disturbance with a related diabetes syndrome. Diet lists, urine samples and the dogs themselves should all be checked out by the doctor.

Would-be helpers 'meanest he met'

WARRENTON, Mo. (UPI) — When two men pulled alongside O.W. Williams in a pickup truck recently during a snowstorm, Williams expected them to help him get his stalled car moving again.

Instead, the men pushed his car into a deep ravine and stole his snow scraper.

"Those are the two meanest men I ever met," Williams said.

THE BATTERING RAMS

Rams, Cowboys duel in Dallas showdown

DALLAS (UPI) — The playoff-tested Dallas Cowboys and the surprising Los Angeles Rams tangle today to decide one team in the NFC championship game and to decide what kind of holiday season the clubs will have.

"Half of us are going to have a sad Christmas," said Cowboy coach Tom Landry on the eve of the contest, "and the other half is going to have a very merry one."

Excellent weather is forecast for the game at Texas Stadium, where temperatures are predicted in the 70s. The contest will be televised on channel 2 at 1 p.m. A pre-game telecast begins at 12:30.

"Dallas comes into the playoffs as one of the hottest teams in pro football," said Los Angeles coach Chuck Knox. "Their defense has been playing fantastically well.

"They have been in the playoffs year after year (this is the eighth straight), they have been to the Super Bowl, they have won the Super Bowl and they have had one All-Pro after another.

"You walk down the street and ask people to name some Dallas Cowboys and they can name them all. People have a hard time naming many of our players."

Two Ram players well known to Dallas fans, however, are quarterback John Hadl and flanker Harold Jackson, who teamed for four touchdowns in the regular season meeting between these two clubs—a 37-31 triumph for Los Angeles.

All week replays of the Hadl Jackson show have been shown on Dallas television stations.

"That last game seems to have gotten the attention of everybody," said Landry. "But the strength is still their running game. You don't expect to stop their running game. You just hope to slow it down."

Larry McCutcheon, who gained 1,097 yards despite missing two games, and Jim Bertelsen (854 yards) make up the consistent Ram running attack which does so much to set up the accurate passing of Hadl.

The Cowboys will counter with Calvin Hill (1,142 yards) and Walt Garrison (440), both of whom carry injuries. Both, however, will start.

But Dallas hopes could ride chiefly with its suddenly stingy defense and the recently on target throwing of Roger Staubach.

The Cowboy defense has allowed only one touchdown in the last three games and Staubach has hit more than 70 per cent of his passes over the same stretch.

That same three-game period coincides with the time that Landry has returned to calling the plays himself.

"Roger has accepted my calling the plays," Landry said. "He does things that are best for the team."

Los Angeles, playing with few peaks or valleys all season, finished with its best record in history—12-2. Dallas wound up 10-4, having to win the last three games to ensure a playoff berth.

The Rams bring the NFC's No. 1 offense and defense into the game while Dallas ranks No. 2 in offense and No. 3 in defense.

Tarkenton is a winner in his first playoff game

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI)—Fran Tarkenton played 13 years of professional football before he finally got into his first playoff game Saturday.

He wasn't about to waste the opportunity with the kind of conservative, play-it-safe strategy you usually associate with pro football playoff games.

"They can't say we went out there and sat on the ball. We came out throwing at the start and we were throwing at the finish," Tarkenton said after he led the Minnesota Vikings to a 27-20 NFC playoff victory over the defense-minded Washington Redskins. Minnesota will now meet the winner of Sunday's Dallas-Los Angeles game on Dec. 30 for a berth in the Super Bowl.

Tarkenton made the Viking strategy obvious the first time they had the ball when he threw a long bomb on a third-and-one play from the Minnesota 22. John Gilliam was in the clear but the ball skidded off the end of his fingertips.

"I really felt bad about missing that one," Gilliam said. "We hadn't used that play all year. Usually I go out of the game on a short yardage situation like that. But we figured they'd be looking for the run in that kind of situation and we worked on it during the week."

Gilliam, who also dropped a sideline pass in the first half, redeemed himself in the fourth period when he burned reserve back Speedy Duncan on touchdown catches of 28 and six yards.

When the Vikings failed to get a first down in the first period, the critics were wondering if Tarkenton was again going to fail. But he took charge in the fourth period after the Vikings fell behind 13-10 and directed the 71-yard touchdown drive in eight plays that put the team ahead to stay.

"I've been called a loser and I've been called a scrambler," Tarkenton said. "The only thing I want to be known as is a winner."

The Vikes trailed 7-3 at halftime and credited Carl Eller's emotional halftime outburst for spurring them on.

"Eller didn't write on the blackboard," Oscar Reed said. "He punched it, tossed it around and kicked it. Man, he was really worked up. He told us to get off our dead behinds and start playing football."

That's what the Vikings did in the final period when Tarkenton's two touchdown passes turned the game around.

Tarkenton's first touchdown pass to Gilliam, who couldn't hold on to a pair of important tosses in the first half, climaxed a brilliant 71-yard drive in eight plays to wipe out a 13-10 Washington lead.

On Washington's next offensive play, Nate Wright picked off a pass by Billy Kilmer—the Washington quarterback who played an excellent game considering the fact that he got out of the hospital on Thursday.

Wright returned the ball 26 yards to the Washington 8, and two plays later, Tarkenton came up with the kind of patented "Scrambling Fran" play that has given him his reputation. Trapped behind the line of scrimmage, he darted to his left, reversed his field, and then started running to his right as his receivers moved frantically in the end zone. Tarkenton then hit Gilliam in the right corner of the end zone for the touchdown.

That made it 24-13 and proved to be the difference after Washington's Ken Stone blocked a punt and Kilmer fired a 28-yard touchdown pass to Roy Jefferson with 5:28 remaining in the game.

Fred Cox kicked a 30-yard field goal with 1:40 remaining to give the Vikings their final victory margin of seven points. The Vikings had been favored by eight.

A Tarkenton scramble on his second touchdown pass was the kind of play that used to drive Coach Norm Van Brocklin wild in Tarkenton's first stint with the Vikings. It was Van Brocklin who first hung the tag on Tarkenton as an exciting player who would blow as many games with his unorthodox play as he would win with them. But now Tarkenton has led the Vikings to 13 wins in 15 games this season.

F. Robby, Wills in run for Yank job

NEW YORK (UPI) — Frank Robinson, Dave Bristol, Eddie Stanky, Maury Wills, Bill White, etc.—all the familiar names—have returned to the forefront as candidates for the New York Yankee managerial job in the wake of Joe Cronin's turnabout decision last week that made Dick Williams still property of the Oakland A's.

With Williams having been snatched from beneath their Christmas tree and replaced by a stocking full of coal by Cronin and A's owner Charles O. Finley, the Yankees now face a decision of either (1) finding a new manager to replace the departed Ralph Houk or (2) compensating Finley with some prize players.

While Finley has previously demanded players such as all stars Bobby Murcer and Thurman Munson as payment for the rights to sign Williams, in recent weeks he "softened" his asking price to the two prize Yankee farmhands, outfielder Otto Velez and pitcher Scott MacGregor.

It would now appear the Yankees, if a lesser compensation with Finley can't be agreed upon, will have to find a new manager while Williams sits out the two remaining years on his contract.

Robinson, Wills, White and current Yankee Coach Elston Howard would all give the New Yorkers a glamour image of having hired the first black manager. Wills and Howard are known to be interested, but prying Robinson away from the California Angels could possibly open up a new can of Williams-like worms.

PGA plans new format

NEW YORK (UPI) — A new plan of "designated tournaments" in which certain leading professional golfers will be obligated to compete will be started in 1974 by the PGA Tournament Players Division, Commissioner Joseph C. Dey, Jr. announced Sunday.

The number of these tournaments would not exceed ten in one year and will be put into effect gradually. Only two or three of the designated tournaments will be employed in 1974 and more in subsequent years as first-class courses are available.

These tourneys will be scheduled only on outstanding courses, with not more than two held on consecutive weeks.

Vegas visit: Poly rolls snake eyes

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

LAS VEGAS — Cal Poly's basketball team returns to California today like most visitors enjoying a trip to the gambling spa.

It lost.

Actually, lost is a rather tame word.

The Broncos must feel like the roulette wheels were spinning, spinning, and spinning all night in suffering a 110-61 humiliating defeat to Jerry Tarkanian's Nevada-Las Vegas quintet before a sellout crowd 6,207 at the Las Vegas Convention Center Saturday night.

Poly was never in the game. Tarkanian, who has recruited almost as many prep All-Americans as there are showgirls in Las Vegas, has his young Rebels rolling. UNLV has won seven in a row since the opening loss to Texas Tech.

The cards were stacked against Poly all the way. For one thing, the Broncs were dead tired after a long drive here Saturday morning following Friday night's close win over North Dakota St. Adding to Poly's woes were lack of help from top Poly scorers Horace Aubrey and LeRoy Williams.

Aubrey saw only limited duty because of a sprained ankle suffered Friday against No. Dakota while Williams got into his usual foul problems, playing only 18 minutes because of his ability to draw personals.

At least Poly coach Don Hogan wasn't a total loser. Aware of the social significance of playing in Las Vegas, the dapper Bronco mentor stunned everyone—especially Tarkanian—by wearing his snazzy tuxedo on the bench.

"It didn't help," Hogan laughed after the game. "We've had it. We're dog tired and I'm glad we're through playing the likes of Long Beach St. and Las Vegas. Judging by comparative scores, you'd have to say Las Vegas is the best of the three, but we contributed a lot to their success tonight."

Tarkanian, who is building an empire here to prove that there can be other sports in Las Vegas besides rolling the dice, added, "our defense was just super tonight. I'm impressed our team played so hard in the second half after having such a big lead. Some of my previous teams would have let down in that situation."

Rebel assistant Dan Ayala, the former Poly head coach, shook his head in saying, "Poly had it tough tonight. I felt sorry for them."

Freshman Frank Prince from Pomona High led the Broncs' "attack" with 11 points while Alphonso Adair contributed 10. Rickey Sobers and Jimmy Baker shared the UNLV scoring honors with 18 points apiece.

The Rebels shot 53.4 per cent while Poly hit on only 38.7 with UNLV also holding a 57-38 rebounding edge.

Hogan is thankful Christmas is here but would be much happier if Santa Clause could leave a pair of 6-10 players. "It's Christmas time," the dapper coach said. "We should get in the spirit of receiving because we've been giving long enough."

Bruins overwhelm St. Bonnie

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Top-rated UCLA put six men in double figures Saturday night and the Bruins demolished previously unbeaten St. Bonaventure 111-59 for their sixth win of the year and 81st in a row over four seasons.

Junior forward Dave Meyers led the Bruin onslaught with a career high of 16 points while Keith Wilkes and Ralph Drollinger had 14 each.

All-America center Bill Walton, playing only 22 minutes, had 13 points and 17 rebounds for the Bruins and guards Pete Trgovich and Andre McCarter added 10 apiece.

Center Glenn Price paced the Bonnies' attack with 21 points while forward Essie Hollis had 14. St. Bonaventure suffered its first loss in seven starts.

UCLA's 111 points was a season high, eclipsing the 110 points scored Friday night against Ohio University. All 14 Bruins who played scored.

The Bruins broke it open midway in the first half by outscoring the Bonnies 35-4 in an 8½-minute span.

UCLA hosts the third Bruin Classic next weekend.

Anderson, Williams lead SC

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Dan Anderson and Gus Williams each scored 16 points Saturday night as 10th-ranked University of Southern California toppled Ohio University 80-68 in a ragged intersectional basketball game.

Williams tallied 10 of his points in the second half and Anderson hit for 12 of his in the first half.

But Bill Brown, Ohio's 6-5 senior forward, was the game's to individual scorer with 25, 17 in the second half.

USC scored only one field goal in the first 5½ minutes of play, a layup by Mike Westra, who wound up with 15 points.

Both teams started slow and the score was tied 4-4 after six minutes of play.

After the score was deadlocked at 10-10, 7:53 into the period, George "Big Daddy Time" Green led a Bobcat rally that put Ohio ahead by 8 points twice, 20-12 and 22-14.

USC came to life to outscore the Bobcats 23-10 in the final 6½ minutes of the first half to take a 43-33 lead at the intermission.

The Trojans outscored Ohio 12-6 in the first 7:33 of play in the second half to tace a commanding 57-39 lAD.

Ohio could never get closer than 8 points of USC the rest of the game.

USC now has a 6-1 record and Ohio is now 2-4.

Vermeil keeps seven coaches

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Dick Vermeil, UCLA's newly named head football coach, has announced he will retain seven of Pepper Rodgers' assistant coaches for the 1974 season.

Vermeil, finishing out the season as an assistant coach with the Los Angeles Rams, was named as Rodgers replacement a week ago. Rodgers took the head coaching job at Georgia Tech after a three-year term at UCLA.

UCLA officials said Vermeil will keep Lynn Stiles, Terry Donahue, Jerry Long, Dick Tomey, Billie Matthews, Jim Criner, and Carl Peterson on his staff for next year.

Miami, Ohio beats Florida in Tangerine

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Fullback Chuck Varner scored on a three-yard plunge and David Draudt booted three field goals Saturday night as Miami of Ohio climaxed a perfect season with a 16-7 victory over frost-bitten Florida in the Tangerine Bowl.

The win ended the best season in Miami's 85-year history at 11-0. Florida finished at 7-5.

The Gators and the 17th-ranked Mid-America Conference champions fought a rugged defensive battle in the first half, only to see Florida fall apart offensively in the third period.

Draudt's 26-yard field goal in the first quarter gave the Redskins a 3-0 halftime lead, and Miami blew two scoring opportunities just after halftime before striking for ten more points on Draudt's second kick of 45 yards late in the third quarter.

The Gators scored with 2:15 left in the game on a one-yard run by running back Nat Moore, but an on-side kick attempt fizzled as Miami went into a time-consuming ground series that was interrupted by Varner's surprising 34-yard spring to the Gator 15, which set up Draudt's final field goal of 27 yards.

The second half started with an interception by Dan Rebsch that gave Miami the ball on the Florida 29. A fumble ended that threat, but the Gators promptly returned the ball on an interception by John McVay, which gave the Redskins a shot from their own 34.

Miami marched to the Gator nine, but a 17-yard clipping penalty and a five-yard sacking of Redskin quarterback Steven Sanna by Gator tackle John Lacer forced the Redskins to punt.

Moore raced 33 yards to midfield on the next series but a fumble set up a 45-yard field goal for Miami by Draudt.

On the next kickoff, Larry Brinson fumbled at the Florida eight, setting up the final touchdown.

From the start, bitter cold was a major factor as temperatures dropped from freezing at the kickoff to the low 20s by the final gun.

SMU coach on probation

DALLAS (UPI) — Southern Methodist President Dr. Paul Hardin said Saturday head football coach Dave Smith had been placed on probation by the school for violation of NCAA rules and was "subject to immediate dismissal" if he violated any other regulations.

Smith admitted last week he approved cash payments to members of his specialty team this season as bonuses for exceptional plays.

Earlier this month, Hardin told Southwest Conference officials of the violations and league officials are now investigating Hardin's reports.

"He has been reprimanded and advised that the contract, reached by him, is no longer in affect, and that he now has a one-year contract."

Walnut, Garey tourney champs

Four local teams competed in the finals of tournaments outside the valley area Saturday night.

Walnut won the Laguna Beach Tournament championship with a 57-51 win over host Laguna Beach while Ontario lost a bid for seventh place via an 82-51 drubbing at the hands of Norwalk.

Damien's bid for a third place finish in the Pius X tourney was unsuccessful as the Spartans fell to St. John Bosco, 69-53, and Garey captured the Holiday Classic in Las Vegas with a 70-65 win over Western.

Lance Parrish turned in last minute heroics to provide Walnut with its slim victory over Laguna.

The Mustangs led by 10 points most of the game only to have Laguna take the lead 48-46 with 2:52 remaining in the fourth quarter. The teams exchanged baskets with the tourney hosts holding a slim 51-50 edge.

Parrish then scored on a driving layup to regain the lead, 52-51, with 48 seconds left. Seventeen seconds later, the Mustang guard added a three-point play to give Bill Murray's 'Stangs a four-point cushion. Center Steve Will iced the game with a pair of free throws to give Walnut its 57-51 final.

Mustang forward Kirk Christ led all scorers with 23 points while guard Marcello Maurin tossed in 10. Will finished with 11 points.

Dave Kisselbach paced Laguna Beach scoring with 14 points while Mark Rathbun chipped in 13.

Christ was selected Most Valuable Player of the tourney with Maurin being named to the All-Tournament team.

Norwalk tallied 33 points in the fourth quarter to dump Ontario, 82-51.

The Jaguars were outplayed by their taller counterparts, as Norwalk guard Scott Shelley pumped in 22 points, 14 of them in the last period. Joe Jefferson led Ontario with 17 points.

Damien was outscored 42-24 in the second half as the Spartans lost a 69-53 contest to St. John Bosco for third place in the Pius X tourney.

Despite the loss, forward John Pignotti scored 19 points with Brian Krueger adding 10 points.

Delbert McDonald, with 19 points, Bill Evans, with 18 points, and Gary Carpenter, with 16 points, lead a balanced attack as Garey downed Western 70-65 to win the Holiday Tournament at Las Vegas.

Carpenter was selected for the All-Tournament team.

Berry leads Kings in wild win over Stars

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Bob Berry scored twice as the Los Angeles Kings used four power play goals to beat Minnesota 5-2 Saturday night for their first win over the North Stars in nearly four years.

The bruising contest was enlivened by four major fights and 127 penalty minutes meted out by referee Andy Hellemond.

The Kings ended a jinx that had seen Minnesota post 17 wins and 4 ties over Los Angeles since the Kings beat the North Stars and goalie Cesare Manniago March 28, 1970.

Only the first goal of the night, Frank St. Marseille's 100th career goal, did not come as a result of a power play.

In addition to Berry's two goals with Minnesota shorthanded, Tom Williams and Sheldon Kannegiesser, also beat Manniago on power plays.

Both of the North Star goals, Lou Nanne's in the first period and Murray Oliver's in the third session, came with Los Angeles minus a man.

Berry's first goal in 14 games broke a 1-1 tie at 12:03 of the first period. His second tally came a minute and a half into the final period and put the match away at 4-1.

Los Angeles' Phil Hoene was handed a game misconduct only 20 seconds after the opening faceoff when he joined in a fight between teammate Don Kozak and Minnesota's Barry Gibbs.

In the third period, the North Stars' Bill Goldsworthy drew a match misconduct for kicking Bill Lesuk while they were wrestling on the ice.

Kings' defenseman Terry Harper was also ejected on a game misconduct with 1:40 after brawling with Dennis Hextall.

Santa Anita racing starts Thursday

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI) — Santa Anita launches its 75-day season Thursday with the $30,000 Palos Verdes Handicap at six furlongs featuring sprint stars Ancient Title, Briartic, Kick of Cricket and Zulu Tom.

Despite President Nixon's call for a voluntary shutdown of gas stations on Sundays, the track willl stick with Sunday racing programs.

However, Santa Anita has announced a program designed to encourage its patrons to conserve on fuel. Racegoers traveling to and from the track by bus will get a discount on general admissions and free parking will be supplied for cars occupied by four or more adults.

The meeting, which runs through April 8, will feature six classics of $100,000 or more, the first being the $100,000-added Charles H. Strub Stakes for 4-year-olds at a mile and one-quarter Feb. 9.

The $25,000 La Habra Stakes for 3-year-olds will be held at six furlongs next Friday with the $50,000 California Breeders' Champion Stakes for 2-year-old California foals set at seven furlongs next Saturday.

Troy seeks 5th Rose Bowl win

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Appearing in the Rose Bowl for the sixth time in eight years, University of Southern California will be out to make it five straight victories for the Pacific-8 over the Big Ten when the Trojans face Ohio State on New Year's Day.

"Of course, I like our chances," said USC coach John McKay. "I definitely think we can win. But this Ohio State team seems a lot better than last year's."

A year ago, McKay's Trojans won the national championship and capped off a perfect 12-0 season with a 42-17 romp over the outmanned Buckeyes in the Rose Bowl.

Because of the Pac-8's recent success against the Big Ten and the Big Ten athletic directors' decision to go with Ohio State over Michigan, there is strong pressure on Buckeyes' coach Woody Hayes to turn it around for the Midwest against the West Coast.

Hayes, whose team was ranked No. 1 in the country most of the season, promises it will be different in 1974.

"This time we will not fail you," he said in Columbus before enplaning for Los Angeles. "We've been given a second chance."

Hayes does have the players to break the Pacific-8's four-game Rose Bowl winning streak and his Buckeyes have been installed as slight favorites.

Ranked third in the final UPI coaches' ratings behind national champion Alabama and Oklahoma, 9-0-1 Ohio State placed four men on the All-America first team this year.

Picked from 9-1-1 Southern Cal, rated seventh, were senior flanker Lynn Swann, junior linebacker Richard Wood and senior defensive back Artimus Parker.

Teacher vs. pupil in AFC playoff

MIAMI (UPI) — An apprehensive teacher takes on a confident, self-assured pupil in Miami's Orange Bowl today when the world champion Miami Dolphins play host to the Cincinnati Bengals in a first-round AFC playoff game.

"Paul Brown's greatest asset is his ability to teach," said Shula, whose Dolphins were 12-2 this season and captured the AFC East title. "Once you learned something from Paul Brown, you never forgot it."

Brown, who led his Bengals to a 10-4 record, including six consecutive victories at the end of the season for the AFC Central title, will find out for certain today how much Shula has retained.

A sellout crowd of more than 80,000 fans will watch the nationally-televised game, but the south Florida area will be blacked out since there were still tickets unsold at the 72-hour pre-game deadline. The game has no special monetary value, with players receiving only a regular one-game salary.

Both teams are well balanced but mistake-proof Miami seems to have the edge in experience. Oddsmakers think so, too, and have established the Dolphins as eight-point favorites.

Miami offers a powerful running attack led by Larry Csonka and Mercury Morris, a brilliant tactical quarterback in Bob Griese, possibly the game's most dangerous receiver in Paul Warfield and an opportunistic defense headed by end Bill Stanfill and safeties Dick Anderson and Jake Scott.

That defense could be weakened, however, by the absence of tackle Manny Fernandez, listed as doubtful with a thigh injury. He will be replaced by Maulty Moore.

Balance is also the keynote for Cincinnati. Ken Anderson, the quarterback matured late this season and combined with wide receiver Isaac Curtis for a devastating long-range punch. Rookie Boobie Clark and Essex Johnson both came very close to the 1,000-yard mark this season and double as dangerous receivers. A defense headed by tackle Mike Reid and middle linebacker Bill Bergey takes a back seat to none.

"I'm happy Paul is in the playoffs," Shula said. "I think he did one of his best jobs of coaching this season. He stayed with his young players and he's going into the playoffs with a team on the rise.

"Anderson has a better understanding of the tools he has to work with and defensively, Bergey always has been outstanding. They're sound everywhere you look and they have tremendous team speed. Let's face it, when you get down to just eight teams, everywhere you look there are great football teams.

Anderson came on strong in the final six games as the Bengals averaged 28 points a game to overtake Pittsburgh and Cleveland in the AFC Central race. He and Curtis were awesome in the crucial last two games, combining for five TD passes.

"A lot of people said that Kenny Anderson didn't have it as a pro quarterback," Brown said. "Now those same people are climbing on his bandwagon. He's pulled games out for us time after time. He took command and won for us in a difficult situation, when we really had no one else. He has unusual poise for a guy his age."

Anderson, a 24-year-old, four-year veteran from little Augustana College in Illinois, feels the sudden development of Curtis as a wide receiver gave the Bengals the spark they needed.

"Isaac has great physical equipment to start off with," Anderson said, "and when he learned what the game is all about, he became awesome. He had trouble reading defenses earlier in the year, getting to the open zones, but once he got the knack of it, he was out of this world. Before, he had to think —now he reacts.

"I'm very confident going into these playoffs," Anderson added, "A Super Bowl situation for us doesn't sound out of place at all. It takes three wins and I feel we can play on a par with any team at any time."

While the Bengals surged to win the AFC Central title, no one was more shocked than Nick Buoniconti, the Dolphins' star middle linebacker.

"We played them in pre-season and I didn't give them a chance," he said. "I thought they were at best a 7-7 team. Anderson was confused and Clark and Curtis weren't even playing. But the last four games, they've shown as good an offensive team as there is in the NFL.

"I don't know of a team that can put the ball in the end zone as well with the possible exception of the Jets when Joe Namath is healthy.

Pioneer wins junior high tourney

CLAREMONT — Pioneer Junior High gained a come from behind victory over Upland Junior High 37-34, to win the championship of the El Roble-La Puerta Christmas basketball tournament held at El Roble Junior High.

Pioneer trailed from the outset but gained the lead in the final two minutes of the contest.

Co-host La Puerta captured the consolation championship by beating Ramona Junior High of La Verne, 23-17.

The two-day tournament was a first annual affair that also included eighth grade teams from Magnolia and Ramona Junior highs of Chino, Alta Loma and El Roble.

Pioneer topped Magnolia and El Roble to get into the title game Saturday. Upland defeated Alta Loma and Ramona of Chino.

The eight-team tournament was a final tune up for the league schedule which begins Jan. 14. Each team in the tournament is a member of the junior high alignment.

Raiders nearly perfect 33-14

Pittsburgh blasted

OAKLAND (UPI) — The name of the game is pass, run and defend, and the Oakland Raiders did all three with near perfection Saturday in an overwhelming 33-14 victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers in the opening round of the AFC Playoffs.

The Raiders, who meet the winner of today's Cincinnati-Miami game for the AFC championship on Dec. 30, dominated the Steelers from start to finish as 46-year-old George Blanda booted four field goals, Marv Hubbard ran for two touchdowns on one-yard dives and Willie Brown scampered 54 yards for a score with a pass interception.

George Atkinson and Phil Villapiano also intercepted passes as the Raider defense shutoff the Pittsburgh running game and forced quarterback Terry Bradshaw to throw most of the time while on the run. Bradshaw did wind up with 167 passing yards, 25 more than Ken Stabler, but the Raider running backs, led by Hubbard, churned out 232 yards to Pittsburgh's 65, and that made the difference.

Everyone, including Raider Coach John Madden and Steeler Coach Chuck Noll, agreed Brown's interception and run for a third quarter score was the turning point of the game.

At that point, the Raiders led by 16-7 and the Steelers seemed to be moving the ball near midfield when Brown stepped in front of Preston Pierson on a sideline pass play, tipped the ball into the air and then ran the distance for a 23-7 edge. The Steelers never recovered after that.

"That was the play," said Madden, "that turned the game in our direction and forced Pittsburgh to open up a little more, and then when we got another interception a few minutes later (Atkinson) and we were in good shape."

"They beat the hell out of us, it's as simple as that," said Noll. "Their line (defense) blew us out and their backs ran through tackles. Not very much about the game was worth a damn as far as we're concerned. I thought we had a chance early in the fourth quarter when we got close (14-26) but they took the ball right down there and our defense wasn't able to stop them."

The score did not even begin to tell how much the Raiders dominated the game. Hubbard scored his first TD the first time the Raiders got the ball in the game and with the Oakland defense completely bottling up the Pittsburgh offense, the closest the Steelers got was a 10-7 deficit at halftime.

The Raiders scored a touchdown and two field goals on three pass interceptions and did not make a single mistake en route to the victory which atoned for a loss to the Steelers in the opening round of the 1972 AFC playoffs.

Blanda, who celebrated his 46th birthday last summer, booted field goals of 25, 31, 22 and 10 yards, and the only time he missed was on a 49-yard try late in the game when the Raiders were merely playing out the clock.

Pittsburgh quarterback Terry Bradshaw, harassed throughout by the Oakland front four of Tony Cline, Otis Sistrunk, Art Thoms and Horace Jones, rarely had a chance to set up on passing plays. However, he accounted for all the Steeler points with a four-yard throw to Barry Pearson with 1:55 left in the second quarter and a 26-yard toss to Frank Lewis with 9:12 remaining in the game.

Hubbard's first touchdown and Blanda's initial field goal staked the Raiders to a 10-7 lead at the half and Blanda followed with two more field goals and Brown ran 54 yards with his pass interception in the third quarter for a 23-7 margin.

Blanda nailed his fourth field goal in the third minute of the final quarter and then, with the Raiders conceding short passes, Bradshaw passed to Lewis to close the gap to 26-14, but that score proved academic when Hubbard, carrying the ball on every other play, marched the Raiders to the Pittsburgh one with less than two minutes remaining. He then dived over for the final score.

Happy to trim the market

By JOHN F. SIMS

BEIRUT (UPI) — Beyond the Arab oil war against the West lies an apparent paradox—the Arab oil producers say they will be happy to see industralized nations reduce their dependence on oil and seek alternative sources of energy.

The use of the so-called "oil weapon" in support of the Arab nations who fought Israel in the October war has dramatically illustrated a problem the United States and other western nations thought they would have to face only in the 1980s.

The boycott and production cuts introduced by the Arab oil producers—intended to pressure the West and Israel into a Middle East settlement on Arab terms—have thrown into sharp relief relations between oil producers and oil consumers.

If there is a Middle East settlement that satisfies the Arabs, will they then resume deliveries at a level to suit Western demand?

Arab oil experts say deliveries will resume, and even rise. The real question remains: at what price?

In the latter question, the Arab oil producers are joined by the other international oil sources.

"Prices have to increase in order to slow down the use and stop the wastage of oil,' said Abderrahman Khene, secretary-general of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC).

"I am personally of the opinion that the price of crude oil has to be increased to the same level as other sources of energy, such as nuclear power and coal gasification, in order to lighten the present burden on oil," Khene said.

Dr. Nicholas Sarkis, head of the Arab Center for Oil Studies, takes the argument one step further: "The European countries, with their taxes on oil products, have been making more money out of Arab oil than the producing countries.

"For years now coal has been a subsidized product in Europe,'' he said. "This means, in effect, that the Arab oil producers were subsidizing European coal. This situation had to change."

And it has changed.

The OPEC countries—Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Iraq, Iran, Libya, Venezuela, Nigeria, Indonesia, Abu Dhabi, Qatar and Bahrein — recently have increased crude oil prices by amounts varying between 17 per cent and 90 per cent.

A barrel of Arabian light oil—the markao crude used as a basis for calculating all other crude prices—has risen from $1.80 in 1970 to more than $5 today.

With the United States and Holland under embargo, and other countries suffering cutbacks, the lust for non-Arab oil has driven prices as high as $15 a barrel for a recent shipment of Nigerian crude.

"Just a few months ago, in a lecture, I predicted the price of oil would reach $10 a barrel by 1980," said Dr. Nadim Pachachi, a former secretary-general of OPEC and now a Beirut based oil consultant.

"That price has already been surpassed in limited cloud of cigar smoke in his overheated office. "These prices are not, of course, a true reflection of market values—but they are a warning."

In the past, oil prices were fixed in negotiations between the oil producers and the seven major oil companies. But recent decisions by the producing countries have swept away this regulating procedure.

"In the future, oil prices are going to be fixed by the market, just as for any other commodity," Pachachi said.

The market value of oil will be fixed when Iran in the near future accepts bids for the crude lifted from its now 100 per cent Iranian-owned fields.

Saudi Arabia is seeking a revision of its accord with Aramco — the American-owned consortium that operates 95 percent of the Saudi Fields—to obtain a 51 percent interest in the company immediately instead of in 1982, as previously agreed.

"All this oil up for bids on the open market is going to show us where prices are going," Pachachi said. "But you can be sure of one thing—they are not going down."

The industrialized nations face real problems until the supply of Arab oil is fully resumed. Japan and West Germany already are prepared for a "zero growth" 1974 because of energy shortages, and western economists who had predicted a business slowdown next year now say the oil cuts could push the situation further—into a fullscale recession.

Such a development would hit the developing nations hardest. They will not only find it difficult to pay increased prices for the oil they need, but they will lose again because of decreased demand for their raw products. Additionally, countries with balance of payments deficits are going to fall further into deficit because of the sharply increased outflow of cash to pay higher oil prices.

"The long term answer is alternative supplies of energy," Pachachi said. "But there is no way coal gasification, or shale oil processing, or even nuclear power can have a significant effect within less than five years."

The Arab oil producers are hoping the higher prices they want for their oil will force the United States and Europe into a speeded-up search for alternatives.

"Oil is a wasting asset," Pachachi warned. "It would not be very wise of the Arab producers to continue supplying cheap energy to the West to the detriment of their own futures. The Arab countries do not get an oil depletion allowance from the United States."

Weekly stocks roundup

Wall Street's only storm outside

By LEE MITGANG
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stock prices were mixed on the New York Stock Exchange this week in the dullest trading in months.

With investors apparently hibernating in the wake of an East Coast winter storm that shortened Big Board trading by an hour on Monday, the Dow Jones industrial average rose 3.08 to 818.73.

The only significant move in the average this week occurred Tuesday, when an implied relaxation in the Federal Reserve's tight money stance, and hopes for a quick end to the Arab oil embargo, sparked a technical rally in which the Dow climbed 18.37 points.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index gained 0.25 to 93.54. But the NYSE index fell 0.60 to 49.68.

Declines outnumbered advances, 968 to 814, among 2,000 issues crossing the tape.

Volume for the week totaled 89,245,880 shares compared with 95,013,364 a week earlier, and with 83,869,260 the year before.

The market's unaccustomed peace and quiet drew widely different reactions from Wall Street's analysts.

"Investors seem to be backing away from emotional extremes," Monte Gordon of Dreyfus Corp. commented. He said Wall Street may be beginning to take the prospects of an economic downturn more in stride. Hopes are running high, he said, for a settlement of the Middle East situation, and an end to the Arab oil embargo.

Ronald Cooper of W.E. Hutton said while end-of-year tax selling has been heavier this month than usual, the market could be bracing itself for one last rally before the close of 1973. He pointed out pension funds and other institutional traders normally pour money back into the marketplace in the final sessions of the year.

The improvement might be only temporary, Cooper cautioned. "With so many economic uncertainties to worry about," he sees a good possibility the Dow industrials could plunge back to the 750-800 level in a test of the recently-established 1973 low of about 781.

On the other hand, Robert Amster of Rosenkrantz, Ehrenkrantz, Lyon & Ross contends the market's problems, including the energy crisis, inflation, and a probable business slowdown next year, are hardly closer to resolution than they were two months ago when the Dow began its record tailspin of some 200 points.

The confusion is worsened, he says, by the apparent inability of the Nixon administration to meet these problems.

"There's no way this market has bottomed out," Amster said, predicting a monumental new slide similar to the one that occurred between October and December.

Wherever the market is headed in general, though, many analysts agree the whirlwind that has engulfed glamor issues is likely to continue. In the past three or four months, institutional favorites such as IBM, Burroughs, National Semiconductor, Polaroid, Xerox, Corning Glass, Upjohn and Avon Products have lost as much as half their market value. Reasons cited include uncertainty over the group's likely growth record next year, and the vulnerability of multinational corporations to the shaky economies of Britain, Japan and other major markets.

ARA Services dropped 21¼ to 85½. The reason was familiar: analysts were taking a second hard look at the glamor issue's growth prospects for 1974.

American Telephone & Telegraph Co., the volume leader, advanced 2⅜ to 50⅜ on 811,100 shares. The company's stock responded to news Tuesday of an 11.6 per cent increase in earnings for the three months ended Nov. 30. Also helpful were signs of easier money market conditions, since the Bell System often takes to the bond market for corporate financing.

Westinghouse Electric was second active, dropping 6⅞ to 24⅜ on 778,100 shares. It lost ground rapidly Friday after the company said it would report fourth quarter earnings only half as high as the same period ast year.

Gulf Oil was third, off ⅛ to 20⅜ on 738,900 shares.

U.S. Steel gained 4½, and Bethlehem Steel 4⅜. Industry analysts said investors apparently are hopeful the Cost of Living Council will permit a further rise in steel prices.

Domestic oil stocks and oil field service issues rose sharply. Halliburton rose 13, Getty 11, Standard Oil of Indiana 7⅞, and Amerada Hess 5⅜.

Missouri Pacific, up 5¼, paced the higher rails. Missouri Pacific said after the close Friday earnings for the first 11 months of 1973 should come to $29.8 million, against last year's $16.1 million.

Chemicals, falling sharply the last two months, recovered some ground. Monsanto gained 5⅞, DuPont 3½, and Dow 2¼.

Motors moved lower, while airlines, aircrafts and papers were mixed in fractions.

Wall Street Briefs

NEW YORK (UPI) — The use of car pools can bring big insurance reductions for those who give up driving to and from work daily, John P. Kennedy, a vice president of Fireman's Fund American Insurance Companies, said Monday. The reductions can run from 15 to 40 per cent, Kennedy said. But to obtain the "pleasure rate," the car poolers would have to agree to stick to one car, whose owner would have to pay the full rate. The owner of this car could collect for his costs from the other pool members without legally changing his insurance status, Kennedy said.

FUN FOR EVERYONE

Cecil Cochran, better known as "Cecil the Clown" entertains Beth Wilson, 10, and Wayne Smiley, 11, as Mrs. Rosalie Patton, member of senior citizens group, and Assisteens Kathleen Shacklett and Gail Anderson, right, wait to present gifts to youths at Assistance League Christmas party.

TODAY'S Women

For all ages

A sharing experience

Sharing is the name of the game at Christmas and when a project develops spontaneously and encompasses all age groups, it's even more rewarding to those involved.

The annual Christmas party for children who receive lessons at the Hearing and Speech Center of the Assistance League of Pomona Valley was a combined effort of the Assisteens, a senior citizens group, a clown, a Santa Claus and league members.

This fall, the Assistance League opened its center on North Palomares Street for the use of senior citizens who reside in the vicinity. While some of the men and women played cards, listened to music or chatted, a small group congregated in the corner to create craft items. They decided to make bright felt Santas by covering bottles.

Once the Santas were completed, the group offered them to the Assisteens, daughters of the league members, who filled them with candy to give to the youngsters attending the holiday party.

The 40 guests at the party were highly entertained during the afternoon by Cecil Cochran, better known as "Cecil the Clown", who presented a puppet show.

Santa arrived later to distribute goodies for the children. The Assisteens played hostesses and helped entertain the children, their families and guests from the senior group.

And the league members? They are beaming at the success of the whole thing.

Holiday spirit

In evidence at hospital

Recipient of much of the spirit of the Holiday Season in Pomona Valley this year is Casa Colina Hospital for Rehabilitative Medicine in Pomona.

Many organizations and individuals of the area are contributing talents and gifts in order that the disabled children and adults undergoing rehabilitation at the facility may enjoy the holidays.

Pomona's Temple Beth Israel Sisterhood has donated an electric menorah to Casa Colina and are arranging a special Chanukah celebration for the Jewish patients at the hospital.

The Assisteen Auxiliary of the Assistance League of Upland, a philanthropic group of 30 teen-agers, has spent many hours wrapping gifts donated by individuals, groups and business firms of the valley. According to Mrs. Lenore Hersh, the hospital's recreation therapist, the gifts are being stuffed into large, gaily decorated Christmas stockings designed and made by the group.

A Christmas party is planned Monday afternoon for distribution of presents with Jess Noriega in the role of Santa, aided by the Assisteens. During the party Mr. and Mrs. Desmond Dan Dare of San Dimas will lead the patients in singing carols, and Mrs. Gloria Burton of Valinda will sing.

A Christmas Eve church service, led by the hospital's chaplain, the Rev. Joseph Brown, will follow the yule party.

Since early December, choirs and entertainment groups have brought holiday festivities to Casa Colina. A group of Cal Poly students majoring in recreation held a tree-decorating and caroling party and decorated hospital windows in themes of the season. Chairman of the group was Shelly Hoover.

The Camp Fire Girls of La Verne, Wa-Ca-Ci-Ni, also held a tree-decorating party and donated decorations for a wing of the hospital. The group also presented a Nativity play for the patients.

Christmas trees were contributed by Scripps College; Claremont YMCA, Pomona; and Armstrong Nurseries, Cucamonga.

Entertainments and choral programs have been given by the Claremont High School Chamber Singers; the Judy Torrez Dance Group, Brownie Troops 245 and 448; Diamond Bar Blue Birds; Pomona Community Chorus, directed by Ray Woods of Garey High School; La Verne's Bonita High School Chamber Singers; American Christian Academy of Pomona; La Verne-San Dimas Junior Women's Club; Upland High School Aberdeens and Casa Colina Candy Stripers.

Organizations interested in helping with patient recreation throughout the year by sponsoring parties and other activities may contact Mrs. Hersh.

FOR CHANUKAH

Modern family front in turmoil

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Item: Father of five skips and starts a new nest with his mistress and their child 3,000 miles away. Without benefit of divorce, without any new marriage license.

Item: Mother of nine leaves home, taking two young children under five. To bill and coo in a new nest with her lover. No divorce, no new marriage.

Add to these items: People breaking up marriages and families legally, through divorce. Approximately four of every 10 couples married in 1973 will not live happily ever after. They will divorce after, on the average, seven years of conjugal bliss and bitterness.

Marriage dissolution could be the number one subect on the family front in 1974 and perhaps the number one subect of the decade.

That point was made by numerous authorities launching new U.S. Senate subcommittee hearings on "American Families: Trends and Pressures." The hearings, under the chairmanship of Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D.-Minn., will move to the front burner in 1974.

The institution of legalized marriage, what's more, is being questioned by young persons. Cohabitating without a marriage license is a growing trend on college campuses—so much so that social scientists at Cornell University's College of Human Ecology now put out a Cohabitation Research Newsletter, reporting on studies on that subect at colleges nationwide.

Research in this area cannot be as exacting as research in physics. But it is evident that many students on the trial marriage trail are themselves progeny of the soured marriages of their parents. They have seen the toll of marriage on the rocks, they have tasted its bitter harvest—bickering, hurt and hate. They are not going to seal a conjugal deal themselves unless they con be reasonably sure it will work out. In the interim, cohabitation on campus or off. It stems from a search for an emotional mooring and mistrust of marriage.

In the year ahead, inflation and the energy crisis will affect families that don't break up. The Census Bureau estimates there are 46.3 million husband-wife families and 8.1 million of some other type. The latter category includes 6.6 million families headed by a female. . .

The Census Bureau defines a family as a group of two or more related persons who live together in a house or apartment. Two out of every three of the husband-wife families have children or a relative living with them.

Inflation continuing will mean families having increasing difficulty even robbing Peter to pay Paul. It will mean further taking in of the belt and it will mean more and more mothers out of the home working to help pay the bills. Most mothers who work are helping pay bills and otherwise provide for their families, including in many cases, dependent parents.

Federal agencies estimate over 40 per cent of all wives are in the labor force. Among those with children under six years of age, 30 per cent are working outside the home— making adequate daycare facilities a number one priority on the family front again in the year 1974 and every year thereafter until enough are established.

The energy crisis, cramping vacation and other pleasures driving, may inject more togetherness on homefronts everywhere — especially on weekends. For families accustomed to being on wheels much of the time, for family members used to going separate and distant ways, the new togetherness may be a plus or a minus. Either it will make the family stronger—discovering one another's company as something pleasant. Or—it will make the family weaker, exposing sources of friction and leading to arguments and, perhaps, eventual breakdown of communication.

The energy crisis carries the seeds of financial disaster for some families. If a fuel-dependent industry must shut down, paychecks stop. In an energy-dependent society such as America has become, there are solid signs many paychecks will be disrupted in the new year.

Dr. Urie Bronfenbrenner, a professor of human development and family studies, College of Human Ecology, Cornell University, doesn't see much to cheer about on the family front. He told the subcommittee on children and youth:

"The situation is especially critical for the families of black Americans. Of all black children, over half (53 per cent) live in families below the poverty line; the corresponding figure for whites is 11 per cent.

"Of all black children, almost half (44 per cent) have mothers who are in the labor force. The corresponding figure for whites is about a quarter—26 per cent.

"Of all black children, over 30 per cent live in single-parent families; the corresponding figure for whites is seven per cent.

"The census does not provide comparable information for other groups living under duress, such as American Indians, Mexican Americans, whites living in Appalachia and so on. If and when such data become available, they are likely to show similar trends."

All isn't rosy with intact families, the well-off economically ones—black or white. Dr. Bronfenbrenner, considered by his peers the nation's number one authority on the family, said:

"Among these families, research shows parents are spending less time in activity with their children." (A trend is to children's hotels, places where well-off parents may park their children when they want a week in the sun or a month at sea.)

The authority sees the family needing all kinds of help—from the neighborhood, from the world of work, and from social and political institutions at the local, state and national level.

"The family," he said, "is the most humane, efficient and economical system for 'making human beings' known for man."

Catalog is tool for feminists and Male Chauvinist Pigs

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — The niftiest book since the Whole Earth Catalog may be just what to ask Santa for—if you're a feminist, an anti-feminist or even a Male Chauvinist Pig (MCP).

"The New Woman's Survival Catalog" tells a woman how to get a $35 divorce, how to whip an attacker, how to manage her money, her life, her lover, her gynecologist and lots more.

Done in the style of the popular Whole Earth Catalog, the woman-made book published by Coward, McCann and Geoghegan really is "a tool."

The editors, Kirsten Grimstad and Susan Rennie, put it this way in an interview:

"This book is a tool for women whose rising expectations are running into the wall of partriarchal privilege: the women who are aggrieved at the discrepancy between their expectations of expanded choice and room to grow and the reality of male resistance."

Now what does that mean?

"It means help for women," said Ms. Rennie, a Ph.D., and former assistant professor of political science at Columbia University.

"Whether women wish a lowcost divorce, to file job discrimination complaints, equal pay suits, or start their own separatist venture, the catalog represents answers with aids and tools produced by the feminist movement in the battle against sexism."

Ms. Rennie at Columbia also served as assistant vice president for academic affairs—the highest central administrative post to which Columbia has appointed a woman.

Ms. Grimstad has been a preceptor in Germanic languages at Columbia University for four years. Last year she collaborated in surveying 900 women to compile an inventory of women's studies and publications and works in progress. That study was the genesis of the New Woman's Survival Catalog. Ms. Grimstad is from Milwaukee, Wis., Ms. Rennie, from Johannesburg, So. Africa.

"I have been here since 1968," she said, "and when my Mother put me on the boat she doubted that I would return. She was right."

The two editors went by car over 12,000 miles of America to gather material for the catalog. They visited such things as Know Inc., one of the first feminist presses, in Pittsburgh, Pa., and Country Women, a back-to-earth group in Albion, Calif.

How they met their deadline with the publisher and put together their manuscript in a three room apartment shared by six cats and a dog is a story of a different kind.

At times materials were piled so deep on the floor that they needed a tool (like a snow shovel) to get from here to there. And, then, at night or when they were away they had to cover everything with plastic lest the cats lick, munch, or walk on or water the raw materials.

The women were assisted in their chore by Fanette Polleck, Ruth Bayard Smith, Ms. Mark St. Giles, a typesetter. The project took just under six months. They met their deadline right on the nose.

"Not so remarkable — for women," Ms. Rennie said.

However, it was remarkable, when you consider that the women wrote, photographed, designed, typeset and pasted up the work.

The book aims to have relevance and usefulness to all women.

"After all, you don't have to be a feminist to want to prevent yourself from getting raped, to know whether that vaginal itch is worth a trip to a specialist, to get a bank loan, to have access to childcare facilities, to avoid car repair rip-off," said Ms. Grimstad.

"Rape rates are going up; rape arrests are going down. The number of women who must enter the labor market is going up; women's proportionate earnings are going down."

The catalog documents the revolution that has swept America in the last half decade. The women's movement.

"We found this revolution has reached into all of America and feel that women never will be the same," Ms. Rennie said.

"This revolution had its source in a changing consciousness largely triggered by the control women are just beginning to exert over their reproductive capacities.

"No longer confined to their stereotypical role of wife and mother, women are developing new perspectives on their needs, aspirations—and rights."

They are.

They are establishing businesses, forming their own law firms, banks, art galleries, child care centers and hospitals. They are running their own presses, organizing their own anti-rape squads and repairing their own cars.

The editors of the catalog have established a trust fund to return a minimum of 20 per cent of the royalties earned to the women's movement.

Pregame brunch

"DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: Several of us are planning a prefootball game brunch. We would like to serve something a little unusual but not too complicated. We expect about 60 people and will do the work ourselves, so if there is anything you can suggest, we would surely appreciate it.—Mrs. F. W., New Haven, Conn."

I have often thought of giving a soup buffet myself, and I think this idea would be great for you. Do a big kettle of homemade pea soup and serve it with sliced frankfurters and dark bread. If you prefer, you can have a choice of soups.

Quantity cooking is not easy for the uninitiated. I will give you two exact recipes and that will serve 50 people. If you expect 60 people and know that many of them will want seconds, I suggest that you double the recipe—but make it in two separate batches. You will need big pots.

SPLIT PEA SOUP

2 qts (3½ lbs.) split dried peas
7 qts. ham or cornbeef stock
3 onions (¾ lbs.)
1 cup butter or margarine
1 cup flour
2 quarts hot milk
Salt, pepper to taste
3 crumbled bay leaves
6 scraped carrots
12 lettuce leaves
6 tbsp. salt (or to taste, better less than more)
4 tbsp. vinegar

Pick over the peas. Wash and soak them overnight. Drain and add to water, stock and vegetables. Bring to a boil, then lower to simmer and cook slowly 3 or 4 hours, stirring from time to time until mixture is very soft. Put through a strainer.

In a very heavy pot (or in a commercial-size double boiler if you have one), stir in the melted butter and flour together until smooth. Add hot milk gradually and cook 30 min., stirring constantly until thickened. Combine with pea soup mixture. At serving time, bring slowly to a boil, adjust seasonings as necessary.

And here is a very good quantity salmon chowder made with canned salmon:.

SALMON CHOWDER

¼ salt pork cut in ¼-in cubes
1¼ cups sliced onion (10 oz.)
6 qts. boiling water
6¼ qts. diced potatoes (12½ lbs.)
1 cup pork fat
2 tsp. paprika
1¼ cups flour
7¼ cups hot milk
8 1-lb. cans salmon
6⅝ tbsp. (or more) salt to taste
Coarsely ground black pepper to taste

Cook salt pork 5 min. over low heat.Add onion. Cook gently 5 min. longer. Add water and potatoes and cook 20 min., or until soft. In a very heavy pot, or commercial-size double boiler if you have one, stir the bacon fat and the flour until smooth. Add hot milk gradually and cook 30 min., stirring constantly until thickened. Flake the salmon, removing skin and bones. Add to the sauce with seasonings. Combine with the first mixture. At serving time, bring to a boil and serve immediately. Good with pilot biscuits.

Beer and coffee go well with these soups. Apple pie (preferably homemade) is the perfect dessert.

MRS. JUAN CRUTIRREZ

Dress to kill, not to be killed

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) —The familiar expression "My feet are killing me" can mean just that—literally.

For, safety experts are calling some of today's fashionable footwear a potential death trap.

This column has carried warnings before from the podiatry profession concerning the risks of broken bones because of pratfalls from wearing exaggerated platform soles. Podiatrists' files are filling with case histories of broken and twisted ankles, sprains and metatarsal fractures.

Now, the National Safety Council highlights another danger as winter comes and driving conditions deteriorate in most parts of the country.

"Aside from walking, current footwear fashions can be a death trap on the highway," it says. It quotes Dr. Duane R. Johnson, head of the Department of Industry and Technology at Northern Illinois University.

He says, "with platform soles, you lose your sense of touch. And a thick sole puts the foot at a different distance from the pedals.

In addition, Johnson says, the driver has to raise the leg and bend the knees more to negotiate the foot controls. Couple all that with a heel stuck in an accelerator and "you wind up with a very sticky situation.'

Other experts have pointed to the hazard of catching a thick sole or a protruding sandal on the edge of the pedal while making an emergency movement to the brake. Since stopping time is figured in fractions of seconds, a momentary hangup could mean a crash.

In Lancashire, England, the council says, driving instructors have banned platforms among their pupils.

In Sydney, Australia, the National Roads and Motorists Association has issued a warning to women drivers. "They (the exaggerated platforms, clogs, et cetera) are the most hazardous fashion since stiletto heels."

And in this country, the Insurance Information Institute adds this grim footnote —"Are you dressed to kill —or be killed?"

The council puts it another way —"If the foot is shod with one of today's far-out shoes, boots or sandals, its owner (driver) is about as efficient as a brain surgeon operating with boxing gloves."

What about no shoes at all? Not good either. Johnson says, "the length of your foot is changed and you may not get good pedal contact. The toes don't have enough power to exert adequate pressure. You can't press the dimmer switch either."

But if you insist on wearing those high rise models, keep a safe, down-to-earth pair of shoes in the car for driving. The same goes for hiking boots, sandals or anything else that's risky.

Be careful

Watch it when cleaning or adjusting storm windows. They can hurt if you lose your grip on them. One woman injured both thumbs, including the loss of a thumb nail. Time will tell whether the loss is temporary or permanent.

April rites planned by couple

An Arpil 20 wedding is being planned by Miss Deborah Ann Wheeler and John Blair Corey.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wheeler of West Covina is a 1969 graduate of Bishop Amat High School. She attends Cal Poly University where she is a member of Sigma Phi Delta sorority.

Miss Wheeler is employed by the Bank of America.

Mr. Corey is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald C. Corey of Claremont. He is a 1965 graduate of Claremont High School and attended Chaffey College.

He served with the U.S. Army and is employed as a manufacturer's representative for hospital-surgical supplies.

DEBORAH WHEELER

Newlyweds to reside in La Verne

Miss Robynn Kay Davis and Grady Frank Winkler Jr. exchanged wedding vows in a double-ring ceremony read by the Rev. Hubert Jenewein at the Wesleyan Church in San Dimas.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard M. Davis of San Dimas was given in marriage by her father. The groom's parents are the Grady Winklers of San Dimas.

The bride wore a lace gown fashioned with a stand-up collar and full sleeves. The skirt was formed of tiers of lace. A Juliet-styled headpiece, accented with pearls and rhinsetones, held her three-tiered veil.

Yellow baby roses, carnations and baby's breath were arranged in the bride's bouquet.

Mrs. Linda Kinder was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Janet Hamm and Miss Pam Nesbitt.

Jerry Torrey was best man while James Robinson and Don Stevens served as ushers.

A reception at the church, attended by 200 guests, followed the evening rites.

Mr. and Mrs. Winkler will reside in La Verne after a honeymoon along the California coastline.

Diet facts offered in booklet

It is easy to give up on a New Year's resolution to lose a few pounds. There is no doubt that dieting is hard work. And the worst part is giving up foods one loves.

But take heart. A fresh approach to that diet will make it work.

Instead of giving up favorite foods, try to "de-calorize' them. After all, it is often not the food itself but the way it is prepared that adds the unwanted calories.

More than 60 delicious and low-calorie recipes for potatoes have just been published in a new booklet by The Potato Board.

"The Potato Lover's Diet Cookbook,' authored by Barbara Gibbons is an attractive 40-page booklet offering tasty potato recipes ranging from appetizers to desserts.

The booklet includes tips on sensible versus fad dieting, the honest facts about the potato's nutritive and caloric values and some ideas that should make dieting a lot easier.

POMONA — "Just Entertainment," an exhibition of photography by Caldwell Moise of Riverside, is on view through Jan. 17 at the main gallery of the Pomona Public Library. His principal subjects are people at a circus and at the beach.

Moise's photography is simple and straightforward. He compares it to literature which he feels is primarily dedicated to the purpose of giving pleasure.

" 'Just entertainment' is not intended to be pretentious," he says. "No social problem is documented. No beautiful seascapes or portraits of famous personages are included, because I feel too many exhibits nowadays have very painful aspects. They are so deadly serious and worthwhile!"

According to Moise, the circus performers have an old tradition. They are dedicated to amazing, thrilling and dazzling the spectators. "The lion tamers hope that their acts are frightening and the clowns knock themselves out to make kids of all ages laugh," he says. "They all have one desire in common -- that everyone will take home a head full of excitement and wonder."

Moise believes that the people on the beach are really the same ones that were at the circus. "Here they are finding their fun themselves," he says. "In both places age didn't seem to make any difference in what was enjoyed."

Moise is a retired architect who took up photography as a hobby. He holds degrees in fine arts and architecture.

PRIZE WINNER — Bernadette Gravette of Pomona looks over her pastel, "A Game of Checkers," which won her the Artist of the Month award from the Traditional Artists of Southern California for December. This and 12 other works, including four other award winners, will be on exhibit at the Claremont branch of the Pomona First Federal Savings & Loan Association, 393 W. Foothill Blvd., through January and February. The one-man show is open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

El Paso smelter

Lead level up for dwellers near plant

ATLANTA (UPI) — Discharges from an El Paso, Tex., smelter are responsible for abnormally high lead levels in residents of a four square mile area, according to the National Center for Disease Control.

The NCDC said this weekend at least 2,700 persons in El Paso were found to have high lead levels in their systems. No cases of overt lead poisoning were discovered, but studies are continuing to determine if there are "subtle, but possibly permanent neurologic or psychologic after affects," the center said.

"The problem of undue lead absorption affects persons across all of south and west El Paso to a distance of at least four miles from the smelter," the NCDC said.

"Lead emitted by the smelter and deposited in soil and dust would appear to be the major source of the lead absorbed by humans."

Forty-three per cent of persons of all ages and 62 per cent of children through age ten living within one mile of the smelter had "undue" lead levels in their bloodstreams, the NCDC said.

El Paso city officials have ordered a reduction in emissions from the ore smelter and relocated 500 persons who lived in public housing nearby, the center said.

The accumulation of lead in the soil and dust was intensified by several features of the terrain, including high aridity, the sheltering effect of nearby high mountains and frequent thermal inversions, according to the NCDC.

The concentration of metallic wastes in the air was highest immediately downwind of the smelter. soil samples produced similar results.

Samples of drinking water, milk and food were free of high lead content, the center said.

Between 1969 and 1971, the smelter released 1,116 tons of lead, 560 tons of zinc, 12 tons of cadmium and 1.2 tons of arsenic through its smoke stacks, the NCDC said.

The ore smelter was not identified.

GOP campaign chief

Jobless rate seen as big '74 election issue

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The unemployment picture will overshadow Watergate as the main issue in next year's midterm elections, Rep. Robert Michel, R-Ill., the GOP's congressional campaign chief, predicted recently.

He said his advice to President Nixon regarding the energy crisis has been: "Let's preserve jobs at all costs."

Michel spoke in a UPI "Washington Window" interview.

"If this voluntary restraint does not work and we have to move into (rationing) in order to preserve jobs," he said, "I think frankly the public will accept that."

The Illinois congressman, whose job it is to add at least 26 Republicans to the House and give the party a majority, conceded that "history is against us." The party in control of the White House usually loses about 30 seats, he said.

Michel admitted that a number of Republican congressmen probably would divorce themselves from the Nixon administration in their own campaigns.

"It's mixed," he said. You're always going to have the-wool, those who've got those who are really dyed-in-more secure districts (and) those who've got problems of one kind or another and they've got to exercise their own judgments on what's best to get themselves re-elected.

"I guess that if I were in a critical kind of situation on a vote here in the House, and particularly among the (45 GOP) freshmen ... my advice to them is 'you vote your district' even when it comes to a party position.

IRA recruiters in drive to get women guerrillas

BELFAST (UPI) — The outlawed Irish Republican Army has launched a major recruiting campaign among Roman Catholic women in Northern Ireland to fill its depleted ranks with female guerrillas, British army sources said recently.

Military sources said women, as well as children, already are playing an increasing role in the IRA bomb-and-bullet campaign.

The recruiting campaign came to the military's attention when posters calling for women volunteers appeared on walls in Catholic districts of Londonderry recently.

The posters show the silhouette of a woman carrying a modern automatic rifle under the banner, "Free Our Country," and urge all women to join the IRA's women's army.

The drive followed army intelligence reports indicating that gunbattles and arrests have depleted the IRA forces to such an extent in Ulster that they were turning to women and children to replace the lost men.

In recent weeks, army sources said, women have taken a much greater role in the IRA bomb campaigns and boys as young as 10 years old have been given weapons to fire at the army.

"It is only a question of time before one of these youngsters is killed or seriously wounded," one army source said. "Taking potshots at soldiers with an automatic rifle is a dangerous business".

In the past four years, 921 persons have been killed in violence among the majority Protestants, minority Catholics and the security forces of Northern Ireland.

Riles urges caution on 4-day school week idea

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —State school Superintendent Wilson Riles today warned educators to "go-slow" on the idea of switching to four-day school weeks to ease the energy shortage.

If four-day school weeks were adopted throughout the state, Riles said it would leave many working parents with the problem of what to do with their youngsters on the fifth day.

"And we also should be sure that a four-day week really would save energy," Riles told the state Board of Education. "What about the youngster who stays at home on the fifth day and turns on the television all day. Is that saving energy?"

Legislation permitting districts to adopt four-day weeks has been proposed by Assemblyman Leroy Greene, D-Sacramento. Pupils still would be required to attend classes for the same number of hours per week. The measure will be considered during the 1974 legislative session.

Woman's touch saves gasoline

LONDON (UPI) — The woman's touch can save gasoline, oil company official Geoffrey Sheppard said.

He said tests by the Automobile Association showed that a woman can get more miles than a man from a tankful of gasoline. "It is just because a woman has a gentler touch on the accelerator," he said.

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — Washcloths are now very expensive. I make my own for about 20 cents each. A GOOD GRADE bath towel is used to make eight cloths by sewing two rows of zigzag stitching, ¼" apart, down the middle of the towel longways. Stitch three double rows equally spaced across the width. Cut between the double rows of stitching and have eight cloths with a finished edge around each. — ELVINA

●

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, c/o this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY — For a bridal shower make two bundt cakes and then place them close together as a double wedding ring. Frost and place a decoration in the center where the cakes meet and you'll have a cake most appropriate for the occasion. Mine have rated many compliments. — FERN

© 1973 by NEA, Inc.

●

DEAR POLLY — We live in Florida and often walk on the beach so sand on the feet can be a problem. I have great success in getting it off with a ball of nylon net or even just a piece ot net, which works much better than a towel. — MRS J. Y.

DEAR POLLY — The other day a large wasp got into my sewing room. I was out of insect repellent spray and I reached for my can of hair spray, sprayed the wasp and in a few seconds he fell to the floor as the spray had stiffened him so he was unable to fly. Also, this spray can be washed off anything it touches. — NANCY F.

DEAR POLLY — One of my favorite money-saving ideas is to buy boys' knit shirts to wear with my slacks and shorts. For a reasonable price I get a good quality knit shirt (less when on a sale) that will really wash and wear. I can't find one equal in price and quality for twice the price in the women's department. They come in just about every color except perhaps pink. My size 10 converts to a boys' 18 or 20 if they run small, and boys' sizes go to 24. In most cases anyone wearing up to a size 14 could switch over. — L. M. K.

DEAR POLLY — It is a nuisance to dig and scratch to remove caked-on soap from a plastic dish. I simply throw mine in the wash with a load of towels. — L. L. B.

●

DEAR POLLY — When taking a cake to a picnic or bake sale there is no worry about getting your plate back if the cake is placed on the round cardboard that came under a frozen pizza and that you have covered with aluminum foil. — JWANIE

A Musical Fantasy

The Official Childcatcher, on the lookout for friendly children to lock away, tempting them out of hiding with his luscious lollipops, cakewalks across the screen on nimble feet. He's dancing on ancient and charming territory, one of the most picturesque spots in Europe. Historic, picture-book locations in Bavaria and the South of France provided much of the background for "Chitty Chitty Bang Bang," the musical-fantasy family-film special which will be rebroadcast Sunday at 7:30PM in color on CBS.

"Chitty Chitty Bang Bang" is the name of a magical car which transports its owner, inventor Caractacus Potts, played by Dick Van Dyke, his two children, Jeremy (Adrian Hall) and Jennifer (Heather Ripley), and a friend, Truly Scrumptious (Sally Ann Howes) to adventures on the Continent. Many of the fairy-tale sequences of the film take place in the medieval walled town of Rothenburg on the River Tauber, which represents a village in the mythical state of Vulgaria ruled by the evil Baron and Baroness Bomburst (Gert Frobe and Anna Quayle), who hate all children. Rothenburg, a town that permits no modern buildings, is set on a plateau 200 feet above the Tauber. The 13th century village with its cobbled streets provided the backdrop for a lively scene in the film in which the cavalry—horses obtained from a famous stud farm near Munich—and the wicked Childcatcher (Robert Helpann) search through the village for the hidden tots. The cobblestone streets of Rothenburg supplied a reverberation system for the cadence of the horses' hooves and the rumble of Chitty, the two-ton monster. One of Bavaria's most famous castles, Neuschwanstein, or Mad King Ludwig's Castle, as it is commonly called, was used for several sequences. The castle, with its high turrets and towers piled one on another, stands at the foot of the Alps close to the Austrian border.

'THE SUBJECT IS ROSES'

Pasadena's world famous Tournament of Roses Parade and Rose Bowl football classic have been around so long that it's almost inconceivable that no one has told their story on television before. That lack is being overcome on Christmas Eve (Monday) when KHJ-TV, Channel 9, presents "The Subject Is Roses," from 9 to 10PM, with Leslie Nielsen as host/narrator.

The one-hour historical documentary, produced in cooperation with the Tournament of Roses, traces the history of the Pasadena Tournament back to its origin in 1890, when the socially elite members of the Pasadena Valley Hunt Club decided to stage a New Year's Day spectacle.

Robert Gaylord rides the first automobile that appeared in the famed Tournament of Roses Parade in 1901.

From that beginning, the Tournament has grown to an event viewed by more than 125 million people around the world each January 1, and nearly one and one-half million spectators watch the parade from Pasadena's sidewalks.

The first football game was held in 1902. A mighty Michigan team swamped Stanford, 49–0. No western team could be found to play the fearsome easterners, so football was abandoned until 1916. During the intervening years, Pasadena businessmen became toga-clad charioteers as chariot races held sway each January 1.

The special includes footage of highlight games from 1916 on, including Cal center Roy Riegels run in 1929, when he gave away a Rose Bowl victory by running toward his own goal line! In 1920, Harvard's only Rose Bowl appearance was a 7–6 victory over Oregon, and the idea of a great football stadium was born in the minds of Tournament officers. On January 1, 1923 the Rose Bowl was ready, built at a cost of only $272,198! The special also salutes the Men in White, Pasadena-area volunteers who stage the parade and football game. This year, for example, they will put in more than 50,000 man hours of time to present Pasadena's New Year's present to the world.

Famous people have been associated with the Tournament down through the years. Grand Marshals have included Shirley Temple, Herbert Hoover, Apollo Astronauts, Dwight D. Eisenhower, Walt Disney, Richard Nixon (twice), Bob Hope (twice), and dozens more. This year's Grand Marshal, cartoonist Charles Schulz is interviewed by Leslie Nielsen. Nielsen also interviews the 1974 Rose Queen, Miranda Barone.

Filled with exclusive film clips and stills dating back to 1890, the documentary reveals backstage scenes of float construction and the many other elements that make the Tournament of Roses the only major annual event of its kind covered by two networks and for syndication.

The program, which will be repeated on New Year's Eve on Channel 9, was produced and written by Martin M. Cooper and directed by Susan Stratton. Executive Producer was Walt Baker.

'THE ROCKEFELLER FAMILY'

Television's first candid look into the public and private lives of one of America's most famous families, the Rockefellers, and the power and influence their very name wields, will be presented in a two-hour edition of CBS Reports: "The Rockefellers," Friday at 9PM on CBS.

Each of the four surviving Rockefeller brothers—Nelson, Laurance, John and David—is interviewed by CBS News Correspondent Walter Cronkite, the reporter on the broadcast, about their family and their activities and philosophies.

"Almost every American associates the name Rockefeller with wealth and power, but few people know anything about the Rockefellers themselves," observes Burton Benjamin, executive producer of the broadcast. "With the exception of Nelson Rockefeller, the governor of New York, the other members of the family have managed to keep relatively low profiles. They can walk the streets unrecognized. No one really knows who they are, what they do, how they think, what their lives are like, and what their influence is, for better or worse, in this country. In essence, these are the areas we look at in this two-hour profile."

The Rockefellers learned at an early age, the broadcast reveals, that there were two essential things to do with their money: Save 10 percent and give 10 percent. Today, in addition to being one of America's richest families, they are also among the country's foremost philanthropists. On an individual basis, each of the grandchildren of John D. Rockefeller has pursued different interests. The great diversity of these pursuits provide the core of the broadcast, as each of the Rockefeller's is closely observed:

—Nelson, 65, the politician, is the most public member of the family and generally assumes the role as its head.

—David, 58, is considered by some to be the most powerful family member. As chairman of the board and chief executive officer of the Chase Manhattan Bank, he is a great internationalist; his commercial and business relationships span the globe.

—John D. Rockefeller 3rd, 67, is the family's professional philanthropist. He is also the founder of the Population Council.

—Laurance, 63, is the family innkeeper and conservationist; there is a definite relationship between the two. His idea for conservation is the protection of scenic areas for human use; his hotels are usually located in magnificent isolated surroundings. He is also known for delving into venture capital—Eastern Airlines and McDonnell-Douglas are among his most noted investments.

—Abby Rockefeller Mauze, 70, the eldest, is responsible for Greenacre Park in mid-Manhattan. She is also active in many of the Rockefeller philanthropies.

CBS News cameras followed the Rockefellers around for one year as they filled their business and social calendars. The route was as diversified as their activities—from Shanghai to Pocantico Hills, the family estate near Tarrytown, N.Y., and from Moscow to Washington, D.C.

INSIDE the tube & OUTSIDE hollywood

by Bill Mahan

The other Sunday night I was sitting with my 9-year-old daughter in front of the TV. She was watching "Disney's Wonderful World of Color." I was reading Frank Capra's autobiography, "The Name Above the Title." I was enjoying Capra's Horatio Alger rise from a Sicilian Los Angeles ghetto to five major Academy Awards for "It Happened One Night," but I was also caught up with Disney.

At commercial, I was thinking of the parallel success stories of Capra and Disney, whose stars both rose approximately in the same decade, between the late '20s and the late '30s. Capra had been given carte blanche by Harry Cohn at Columbia Studios—one man, one film. Capra saw his pictures through from start to finish, had complete artistic control. He took full responsibility for success or failure, and Cohn was willing to bet on Capra's success.

At the end of the show I informed my 9-year-old that Mr. Disney had started out with a mouse and became an American Institution. "Was he in the encyclopedia?" she asked, sensibly. American Institutions are always in the encyclopedia. I didn't know, but we looked, and sure enough, he was, along with his picture and a picture of Disneyland.

He was, certainly, but I got to thinking that the label "nice man" is hardly ever applied to a perfectionist, because perfectionists are hard to deal with. He had his worshippers and his detractors, but the admirers were in the majority. He bargained hard, he took 90 per cent of any project presented (so I've heard) but if he took your project on, odds are that you had a winner.

It was more or less rumored in Hollywood that the tight ship would loosen considerably at Disney's death, but things went on there pretty much the same as usual, and it seems the following story is the reason:

Approximately a year after his death, a memo went around to all department heads at Disney Studios, as well as other key people involved with Disney projects. It stated there would be a special screening in one of the projection rooms at a certain time.

As those invited entered the room, they were instructed to look at the seating arrangement. Each seat that would be occupied had a name card on it. The seating arrangement was such that no one was sitting close to anyone else.

There was no announcement and everyone sat and fidgeted. The lights in the theater dimmed. Then the curtains covering the screen were drawn open and the projector started running. No music or sound effects invaded the solemn atmosphere. Then the picture came on. Walt Disney, sitting behind his desk, looked out over his awestruck employees and greeted them. He addressed them each by name, pointing and speaking directly to each one, quizzing them as to the progress of the particular project or projects they were involved in. He outlined exactly what he expected of them, and what the company's future was going to be. When he finished talking with everyone, he told them goodbye and that he would be seeing them again.

Walt Disney had found a way to stay at the helm of the company he founded even after death. I got to wondering if he and Frank Capra had ever met each other. Capra's guts and brains, Disney's vision and tenacity. American genius at its best.

It would have been fun to see those two on a talk show, arguing together against the no-risk, no-responsibility credo that dominates and is destroying commercial television. Any of Capra's old movies would run better against prime-time mediocrity, and Disney's "Wonderful World" enjoys the steadiest ratings and time slot since Ed Sullivan.

CHALLENGE OF ABILITIES

Lee Majors starring as Steve Austin, "The Six Million Dollar Man," is scheduled to premiere on ABC in the high adventure series as a weekly hour show starting in January, 1974 (Fridays at 8:30PM).

The series, based on the book, "Cyborg" by Martin Caidin, was introduced to television audiences last spring as an ABC Wednesday Night Movie. Two ABC Suspense Movies followed in October and November. The success of these films encouraged the development of the character as a weekly series.

This is Lee Majors fourth television series. He began his acting career as a regular in The Big Valley. The Men From Shiloh followed. Three years ago, he took on the co-starring role of Jess Brandon in Owen Marshall, Counselor at Law. It was decided that he would continue in that series while working on the TV movies for "The Six Million Dollar Man."

"The thing I enjoyed most about Owen Marshall, was working with Arthur Hill," he said. "It was not only a great opportunity to learn as an actor but it is wonderful to have the friendship of such a fine man."

Yet the challenge of his new show is more demanding than his acting skills. It also requires great physical agility as well.

Lee Majors comes well equipped to handle the role. He was a star athlete in high school and a member of the Kentucky All-State football team. He won an athletic scholarship to the University of Indiana. When he graduated from college, he had an offer from the NFL's St. Louis Cardinals but he decided on acting for his career and came to Hollywood.

What makes the role of Steve Austin so challenging is that the man is suppose to be the youngest astronaut to have walked on the moon. He is also a test pilot who crashes while testing a "lifting body." The disaster leaves him as "human scrap." An aero-medical team, at the cost of $6 million, use their skills and knowledge of bionics and cybernetics to restore his two legs, an arm and an eye lost in the accident.

Austin, in his re-made state. has a bionics arm, powered by nuclear energy, that gives him the strength of 20 men. He can now run at the speed of 60 MPH and he has the ability to see in the dark.

The elements of the character border on science fiction but are rooted in science fact. Currently, at UCLA Medical Center, these limbs are actually being developed.

According to producers Don Boyle and Sam Strangis, the direction of the hour-long high adventure shows will be to show Austin, the government agent working in areas that would be impossible for any other operative.

Richard Anderson returns to co-star as Oscar Goldman, the head of the governmental agency that sends Steve Austin on his missions.

"Steve Austin would be a trouble shooter we would send up in case the moon shot failed," Don Boyle said. "We have one story where an underground nuclear base is damaged by an earthquake and Austin is sent down to rescue survivors."

Another adventure involves Austin trying to protect a computer code scrambling expert, who is also a cross country skier.

The subject matter of the stories demands locations according to producer Sam Strangis, who plans to film the show in as wide a variety of places from Lake Tahoe to Death Valley.

"I would film it in the Los Angeles sewers if it will add to the realism of the show," Strangis said. "The way I see it, to make it believable, it has to be shot at least eighty percent outdoors."

Both producers see the key to the show as being Austin's human vulnerability.

"These extraordinary abilities of his bionic limbs are still under the control of a very human being," Strangis said. "He can make mistakes, get hurt and even be killed."

"One of the things that we will be doing is presenting some of Steve Austin's personal life," Boyle said. "We will have romances in each of his shows as well as dangers."

Guest stars are also planned for each of the episodes.

Boyle and Strangis are aware that "The Six Million Dollar Man" offers a new, unique hero for the younger viewers of TV.

A Christmas Call To Conscience: "Our Animals Are Crying"

Quiz: How Well Do You Understand True Friendship?

The 1973 Christmas plate by the world-famous Sister Berta Hummel, celebrating the joys of the holiday season.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR SEN. GEORGE McGOVERN (D-S.D.)*

You were the main target of the "Dirty Tricks" in the 1972 presidential campaign. No doubt they hurt your chance to be President. Why haven't you spoken out against them?—Robert Barney, San Antonio, Texas

● Repeatedly during the 1972 presidential campaign, I warned the voters as forcefully as I could that the Nixon Administration was the most corrupt in American history. The ITT case, the milk bribe, the crooked campaign financing, the Russian wheat deal, the deception of the American people on Indochina, the Watergate affair, and a host of other examples were cited. But to no avail. There seems little point now in my continuing to hammer on themes that are self-evident to anyone with eyes, ears and minimum comprehension.

FOR SALLY STRUTHERS of "All in the Family"*

I read that you are going to a hypnotist. Do you believe in hypnotism?—F.L., Washington, D.C.

● Yes, because I've seen it work. My father was a doctor and he used hypnotism sometimes—like when he had to find out why a little boy had emotional problems. It turned out he was embarrassed about his big ears. My father did surgery—and the child was a happy boy after that. I've been hypnotized twice. I don't remember any of it—but it worked!

FOR ARCHIBALD COX, former Watergate special prosecutor*

Some people claim President Nixon ought to be impeached for firing you. Don't you think he had the power to do that? —N.Z., Dover, Dela.

● Yes, I think the President had the power to direct the Attorney General to dismiss me. But I'd also think the House Judiciary Committee would want to look into the extent to which the President has or has not cooperated in the attempt to get at the truth.

FOR O.J. SIMPSON, of the Buffalo Bills*

What do the initials O.J. stand for?—Susan Hammonds, Ironton, Ohio

● My real name is Orenthal James Simpson. When I started to play for the University of Southern California, the writers and fans began calling me "Orange Juice." Now they call me either "O.J." or "Juice."

FOR GEORGE HAMILTON

You used to be such a playboy. Did you ever get married? —F. R. R., Idaho Falls, Idaho

● Yes, to Elana Collins. When we met in Acapulco, we disliked each other immediately. Not just the first time, but the next three times as well. Obviously we started getting along eventually, because we went together for five years and then got married last year.

FOR KATHY LENNON of the Lennon Sisters*

How did you get started on the Lawrence Welk show?— P. Elgin, Akron, Ohio

● Diane was dating Lawrence Welk, Jr. He wanted his father to listen to us, but Mr. Welk had heard that line from so many hopefuls, he wasn't that eager. So Larry, Jr., waited until his father had the flu, then took us to his bedside for an audition. He listened, then signed us to appear on his Christmas show.

FOR GRAHAM KERR, The Galloping Gourmet*

Do you do all the cooking at home?—Mrs. J. J. Connolly, Utica, N.Y.

● I do. Treena doesn't like to cook. But she washes up!

FOR JEAN WESTWOOD, former national chairman of the Democratic party*

Doesn't the absence of women in the Watergate mess prove that women are less prone to corruption in politics than men?—Mrs. John Wood, Canton, Ohio

● No. The only reason women weren't involved in Watergate is that there weren't any women high enough up in the Republican party to be considered.

FOR EMMY COSELL, wife of sportscaster Howard Cosell*

How did you meet your husband, and doesn't his constant traveling put a strain on your marriage?—B. F. Lynch, Bloomington, Ind.

● We met in the Army. It was at Fort Hamilton in New York, where I was a corporal and he was a lieutenant. We were married in 1945. As for the second part of your question, the answer is no, because I go to 95 percent of the events with him, including all the Monday night games.

FOR JIM KIICK, running back for the Miami Dolphins*

How did you and Larry Csonka become such good friends? —Robert Davis, Colorado Springs, Colo.

● We got to know each other at the College All-Star Game in 1968. When we reported to the Dolphins, we became roommates. We had different backgrounds. Csonka grew up on a farm in Stow, Ohio; I grew up near New York City. We never planned anything. We just let it happen. We don't have anything in common except friendship, but that's enough.

A Christmas Call to Conscience: Do You Hear the Animals Crying?

By Judith Schmidt

Camera Clix

These are the lucky animals this holiday season. They have a home. There are nearly 65 million cats and dogs who do not.

> "I found your cat today. She was beside my mailbox, right where you wanted her to go—that nice little farmhouse in the country. Only trouble was, your cat couldn't see me because her eyes were pasted shut with infection, every bone showing through her dirty hide, her stomach distended with worms and by starvation."

Ding, dong, dell, pussy's in the well. . . .

And in the streets, the trash cans, on a country road, dying of disease, injury and starvation, or some sadist's whim.

Who put her there?

The American people—the pet owners discarding their responsibility, the ignorant not realizing what they do, the apathetic, the animal hater and even the animal lover—the people who cannot stand to have an animal put to sleep humanely so dump it kindly on a country road for someone kinder yet to find.

Taken from a "To-whom-it-may-concern" letter that appeared in a Pennsylvania newspaper:

"I want to tell you what happened to your cat after you dropped her off. The first few days she stayed just about where you dropped her, waiting for you to come back. Then hunger drove her on along the road, searching for food and shelter. By now she eats anything she can find, and it is a rotten, wormy, disease-laden diet. Dogs and other animals chase her and she is almost hit by passing cars.

"Exposure to freezing nights almost kills her, but your cat is tough. . . .

"I found your cat today. She was beside my mailbox, right where you wanted her to go—that nice farmhouse in the country. Only trouble was, your cat couldn't see me because her eyes were pasted shut with infection, every bone showing through her dirty hide, her stomach distended with worms and by starvation. Too weak to stand, she made a little noise at me—but it was for you, her rightful owner, to hear. She is dead now. Do you still believe that you took care of her the humane way?"

Not enough can be said on the problems facing our "second-class citizens" —the nearly 65 million homeless and unwanted cats and dogs in the U.S. Surplus breeding causes most of the evils. By decreasing the value of animal life we must recognize that we cause problems in every area imaginable, from simply a stray cat at the back door to the insidious practice of gathering up all wandering animals and selling them to unethical research laboratories. Sure—you've heard it before. But people are still allowing it to happen. And on a scale of cruelty and suffering so large it staggers the imagination.

One of the less obvious forms of cruelty centers around 100 million vertebrate animals killed each year by research laboratories. Granted, this does not apply to all research labs, and some of the animals suffer no pain and are treated humanely during experiments. But for others there are torturous experiences, including being beaten, scalded and burned so that their reactions may be studied until they die.

Millions die slow and miserable deaths from laboratory inflicted poisons, irradiation, cancer, exotic surgery and disease. Others are imprisoned for years in small dark cages in poorly ventilated rooms. Monkeys have been kept for months and years in "restraining chairs" (a steel boxlike contraption with an opening for the head, arms and legs), while often painful research is done on them.

Most of this suffering is unnecessary and inexcusable and has been deplored by eminent scientists for years. But the general public seems to have accepted the idea that anesthesia and sterility are all that lie behind the laboratory walls.

Not true.

To add more fuel, bills have been proposed before legislatures, over the years, to legalize the use of live animals, including cats and dogs, in high school science experiments. One of the arguments has been that by experimenting on a dog or a cat, the child will assume a more impersonal and objective attitude toward animals. Never mind the fact that we will be teaching our children to repress emotions of empathy and compassion. One high school student was reportedly traumatized during a diabolical experiment conducted by the biology teacher, dissecting a half-anesthetized screaming kitten in front of the class. One cannot help but wonder what psychological effect experiences like this will have on the developing child.

The only way we can save our animals is through enactment of effective federal legislation. Existing anti-cruelty laws don't work, since most states exempt research institutes from such laws. It is up to the people to demand effective legislative action.

"Effective"—that's the key word. Because lack of enforcement is as much of a problem as having no rules whatsoever. It is not uncommon for someone being charged with violating animal codes of a city ordinance to be nonchalantly escorted out of court without so much as a reprimand by an unconcerned judge. And changes of venue are frequent when a local welfare league or citizen tries to pursue a case for the animals' protection.

The cause and the responsibility rest entirely on you. If you own a female cat or dog, have her spayed, or at least resolve to keep your pet strictly controlled during the breeding season. If you do not, you are contributing to the surplus of animals and you are contributing to the cruelty and torture they must endure.

Oh, yes—one other thing . . .

Even if you never intend to have an animal set foot in your door, you should be concerned. As a taxpayer, you are paying many millions a year for animal rescue and control. Isn't there a better way to spend that money?

The animals are crying—
Do you hear?
The animals are dying—
Do you care?

Only trouble was, your cat couldn't see me because her eyes were pasted shut with infection, every bone showing through her dirty hide, her stomach distended with worms and by starvation."

Ding, dong, dell, pussy's in the well. . . .

And in the streets, the trash cans, on a country road, dying of disease, injury and starvation, or some sadist's whim.

Who put her there?

The American people—the pet owners discarding their responsibility, the ignorant not realizing what they do, the apathetic, the animal hater and even the animal lover—the people who cannot stand to have an animal put to sleep humanely so dump it kindly on a country road for someone kinder yet to find.

Taken from a "To-whom-it-may-concern" letter that appeared in a Pennsylvania newspaper:

"I want to tell you what happened to your cat after you dropped her off. The first few days she stayed just about where you dropped her, waiting for you to come back. Then hunger drove her on along the road, searching for food and shelter. By now she eats anything she can find, and it is a rotten, wormy, disease-laden diet. Dogs and other animals chase her and she is almost hit by passing cars.

"Exposure to freezing nights almost kills her, but your cat is tough. . . .

"I found your cat today. She was beside my mailbox, right where you wanted her to go—that nice farmhouse in the country. Only trouble was, your cat couldn't see me because her eyes were pasted shut with infection, every bone showing through her dirty hide, her stomach distended with worms and by starvation. Too weak to stand, she made a little noise at me—but it was for you, her rightful owner, to hear. She is dead now. Do you still believe that you took care of her the humane way?"

Not enough can be said on the problems facing our "second-class citizens" —the nearly 65 million homeless and unwanted cats and dogs in the U.S. Surplus breeding causes most of the evils. By decreasing the value of animal life we must recognize that we cause problems in every area imaginable, from simply a stray cat at the back door to the insidious practice of gathering up all wandering animals and selling them to unethical research laboratories. Sure—you've heard it before. But people are still allowing it to happen. And on a scale of cruelty and suffering so large it staggers the imagination.

One of the less obvious forms of cruelty centers around 100 million vertebrate animals killed each year by research laboratories. Granted, this does not apply to all research labs, and some of the animals suffer no pain and are treated humanely during experiments. But for others there are torturous experiences, including being beaten, scalded and burned so that their reactions may be studied until they die.

Millions die slow and miserable deaths from laboratory inflicted poisons, irradiation, cancer, exotic surgery and disease. Others are imprisoned for years in small dark cages in poorly ventilated rooms. Monkeys have been kept for months and years in "restraining chairs" (a steel boxlike contraption with an opening for the head, arms and legs), while often painful research is done on them.

Most of this suffering is unnecessary and inexcusable and has been deplored by eminent scientists for years. But the general public seems to have accepted the idea that anesthesia and sterility are all that lie behind the laboratory walls.

Not true.

To add more fuel, bills have been proposed before legislatures, over the years, to legalize the use of live animals, including cats and dogs, in high school science experiments. One of the arguments has been that by experimenting on a dog or a cat, the child will assume a more impersonal and objective attitude toward animals. Never mind the fact that we will be teaching our children to repress emotions of empathy and compassion. One high school student was reportedly traumatized during a diabolical experiment conducted by the biology teacher, dissecting a half-anesthetized screaming kitten in front of the class. One cannot help but wonder what psychological effect experiences like this will have on the developing child.

The only way we can save our animals is through enactment of effective federal legislation. Existing anti-cruelty laws don't work, since most states exempt research institutes from such laws. It is up to the people to demand effective legislative action.

"Effective"—that's the key word. Because lack of enforcement is as much of a problem as having no rules whatsoever. It is not uncommon for someone being charged with violating animal codes of a city ordinance to be nonchalantly escorted out of court without so much as a reprimand by an unconcerned judge. And changes of venue are frequent when a local welfare league or citizen tries to pursue a case for the animals' protection.

The cause and the responsibility rest entirely on you. If you own a female cat or dog, have her spayed, or at least resolve to keep your pet strictly controlled during the breeding season. If you do not, you are contributing to the surplus of animals and you are contributing to the cruelty and torture they must endure.

Oh, yes—one other thing . . .

Even if you never intend to have an animal set foot in your door, you should be concerned. As a taxpayer, you are paying many millions a year for animal rescue and control. Isn't there a better way to spend that money?

The animals are crying—
Do you hear?
The animals are dying—
Do you care?

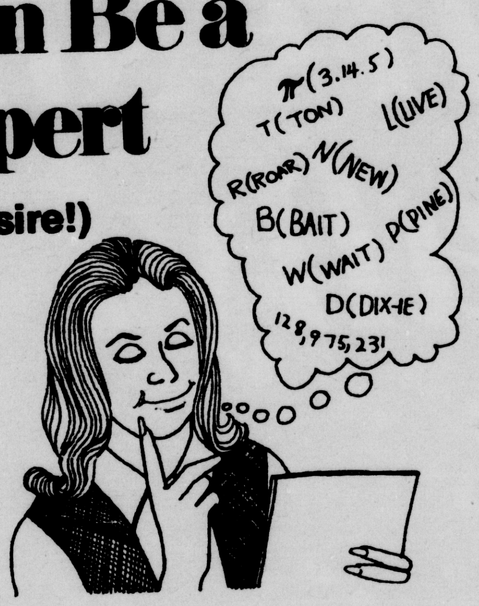
You, Too, Can Be a Memory Expert

(All It Takes Is a Lot of Desire!)



What the American Medical Association says about "photographic memories"...

Some people appear to have photographic memories. They can recite the text of last Sunday's sermon, the value of π to 326 places, or a shopping list.

How do they do it?

"Easier than you might think," says Dr. Bernard Patten, who is associated with the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Stroke at Bethesda, Md. "All memory experts use basically the same technique–they associate one object with another. Take a shopping list. If we know bread and want to remember carrots, we simply conjure up a mental picture of a loaf of bread breaking open, with carrots falling out.

"Eggs–which are next on the list–I associate with carrots by picturing a hen laying a carrot. The more vivid and ridiculous the mental picture associated with any given object," says Dr. Patten, "the easier it is to recall."

Dr. Patten continues: "Names and important numbers seem to be hardest for many people to remember. It's easy to remember a person's name if you associate that person–via a mental picture–with other things you know about him. Suppose that Neil Bottom and Peter Quince are among the people you've just met at a party. If one of those men happened to greet you a few weeks or months from now, would you still remember his name?

"Chances are, you would–if your mental picture reminds you that Bottom is a bank teller and Quince is an air controller. I find that the more I know about a person, the easier it is to remember his name and face. Also, I've found that repeating his name once or twice during the conversation helps fix it in my memory.

"Numbers needn't be hard to memorize. In fact, you can make a game of it. With the help of a 'memory alphabet'–like the one shown in the table–you can quickly convert hard-to-remember numbers into easy-to-remember words.

"The memory alphabet letters for 547, for instance, are L, R and K. With the addition of a vowel, those letters suggest the word LaRK. Likewise, you'll remember the nation's bicentennial year, 1976, if you think of the ToP KiD in a football pileup. Usually, the first word that comes to mind will be the easiest to remember.

"I imagine that George Parker Bidder, an English civil engineer who lived in the last century, used a similar memory system. Once, when he was ten years old, someone read to him–backwards–a 43-digit number. Young Bidder immediately repeated the number correctly in its forward order. And he was able to repeat it again an hour later. . . . The number Bidder memorized was 2,563,721,987,653, 461,598,746,231,905, 607,541,128,975,231."

On the back roads of Missisippi, Alabama and other parts of the deep South, there are still many thousands of families facing slow starvation. Right now. Right here in the U.S.A.

Their diets are so inadequate that hunger and malnutrition have become part of their lives. Many children of tenant farmers and seasonal workers have actually never known what it is like not to be hungry.

The NAACP Emergency Relief Fund is now in its fourth year of collecting money to buy Food Stamps for the neediest of these families. Under the federally sponsored Food Stamp Plan, $1 buys as much as $40 or more in Food Stamps. Thus your $10—an amount that buys "just another Christmas gift" for more fortunate kids—can mean $400 worth of urgently needed nourishment to help a family survive.

To contribute to this fund, please send as little or as much as you can to the NAACP Emergency Relief Fund. Contributions are tax-deductible.

Thank you. And may your Christmas dinner be a little more enjoyable this year.

Your gift can go a long way this Christmas.

Announcing a major event for every collector and investor in precious limited edition masterpieces.

Now you may become a Charter Subscriber to the first proof quality Bicentennial Pewter Plate by The Hamilton Mint

Original Issue Price $25.00

Actual Size 9"

THE SPIRIT OF '76

First in a series of four superbly sculptured heirloom plates to be struck in honor of our nation's 200th anniversary in Solid Pewter and 24Kt Gold on Pewter

THE year was 1773 . . . and in colonial America small bands of patriots gathered together to discuss their desire for complete "freedom" from the domination of British rule. As the appeals to the Crown became more and more ignored, our young country, with its ragged bands of farmers, businessmen, students . . . almost everyone who longed for a feeling of independence, joined together in what was to become America's Colonial Army of Independence. With the first shot "heard around the world" from the slopes of Bunker Hill, America began its most dramatic moment in history. . . . The American Revolutionary War.

And now, in commemoration of America's 200th Anniversary, The Hamilton Mint has created a special series of proof-quality Pewter Plates that depict the most significant events of this important period in our nation's history. And, if you act promptly, you may become a participant in this unique and truly worthy offering.

OUTSTANDING PLATE COLLECTION

To fittingly record and commemorate the major events and individuals in the founding of our country, The Hamilton Mint has commissioned master sculptor Alfred Brunettin to create the four most significant events in our long struggle for independence: "The Spirit of '76... America's ageless symbol for the fighting men of this war and all other wars since; "Paul Revere's Ride"... an expression of the individual's willingness to risk life or limb for the cause of independence; "Betsy Ross Creates The First Flag" . . . America's banner of freedom and liberty that has survived, almost in its original form, for over 200 years; and finally, "Washington At Valley Forge". . . a graphic dedication to the bravery and suffering of America's first army.

Each plate in this series measures a full 9" in diameter and is struck in high bas relief to bring out all of the sculptured detail and drama of these important scenes. Created by The Hamilton Mint, America's Fine Art Mint, your plates will represent an outstanding collection of meaningful significance that you will be proud to display in an honored place in your home or office.

Your first plate, "The Spirit of '76", will be sent to you as soon as your order is received. Then, every three months you will be notified by mail of the availability of the next plate in the series. It is important to remember however, that only those individuals who order "The Spirit of '76" Bicentennial Plate now will be given the opportunity to order the remaining plates in this historic series.

PEWTER—THE TRADITIONAL METAL OF AMERICA

Because Pewter has traditionally been the metal of America's finest craftmen for over 200 years, it has been selected as the appropriate metal for this plate collection.

Pewter was not only used to a large extent in the households of Colonial America, but our first American Continental Dollar was actually fashioned from Pewter. Today, Pewter has gained an enormous revival of interest among artists and collectors because of the metal's ability to reflect the finest details of the designs that are struck into its surface and because its brilliance resembles fine silver so much.

AVAILABLE IN SOLID PEWTER AND 24 KT GOLD ON PEWTER

The Hamilton Mint's Bicentennial Plate Collection is available in your choice of Solid Pewter for just $25.00 per plate and 24 Kt Gold on Solid Pewter for only $40.00 per plate. If you prefer, you may order and pay for all four of the Bicentennial Plates now. The Four Solid Pewter plates, paid in full now, are just $90.00 complete (you save $10.00), or the four 24 Kt Gold on Solid Pewter plates are just $145.00 complete (you save $15.00).

STRICTLY LIMITED EDITIONS

A strict limit has been established by The Hamilton Mint on the quantity of Bicentennial Plates that will ever be issued in this edition. Only individuals who subscribe to the first plate in the series—"The Spirit of '76"—will be entitled to order the remaining three plates.

Each plate in the series will be individually minted by The Hamilton Mint and each subscriber will receive a registered Certificate of Authenticity attesting to his status as a collector of this limited edition series.

REMARKABLE INVESTMENT OPPORTUNITY

Even though prices in the International Metals Market have soared greatly during the past few years (and leading economists feel they will continue to climb) The Hamilton Mint has already committed for a sufficient quantity of Pewter and Gold to fully cover each subscription in this series. Therefore, you are guaranteed that these prices will not be increased for any plate in this series . . . no matter how high the price of Pewter and Gold rise in the months ahead.

In addition, collector plates have traditionally represented a fine investment opportunity. Certain limited edition collector plates, during the past several years, have soared in value from their original issue price.

To insure yourself of this opportunity to own these finely sculptured Bicentennial Plates, we urge you to send in your order today. It can only be accepted if it is received in time to be included within the edition limits.

Deluxe Version:·24 Kt Gold on Solid Pewter

The beauty of these Bicentennial Pewter Plates has been made even more exquisite and valuable with the addition of 24 Kt Gold richly layered on Solid Pewter. A limited quantity of these plates is available for just $40.00 each.

SCOTT: Play bridge. Chess. Golf.

FW: Are you good at any of them?

SCOTT: I am average in all of them. If you want to excel in one thing you have to devote too much time to it. Besides, when it comes to sports, I was always too slow to be good as a result of an accident I had when I was in my teens.

FW: What happened?

SCOTT: I was in junior high school and was on my way to class on a cold rainy day. I was crossing the street and I was hit by a car. Luckily the boy was driving very slowly, or I would have been killed. As it was, I was unconscious for 20 minutes and woke up in the hospital.

FW: Were there any after-effects?

SCOTT: It messed up all the calf muscles in my left leg and I still have a bad right knee. At times I still have a pretty bad pain in my left leg.

FW: Any other accidents?

SCOTT: I've been thrown innumerable times by horses, and before you ask, no, it wasn't the horses' fault. I am just a terrible rider. But thank God, no other serious illnesses—except two detached retinas.

FW: When did that happen?

SCOTT: In '68 in my right eye, and '71 in my left eye. My right eye was fixed with a surgical operation, and the other one with a cold needle that was inserted into the eye and sealed it.

FW: How did you become aware of this?

SCOTT: I lost about a third of the vision in my right eye, but I still didn't pay too much attention. One day I took my youngest son for an eye examination—I was in "Plaza Suite" on Broadway at that time—and I thought as long as I was at the doctor's, he might as well look at me. He looked for an hour and then sent me to a specialist who took one look and said, "We operate right away!" I told him I couldn't do that because I was in a play, and he said, "Well, that's tough! Get out of it. NOW!" I did. If I hadn't, I don't dare think what might have happened to my vision.

FW: Do you believe in fate?

SCOTT: No. Just lucky breaks.

The Rams' FRED DRYER:

Actually, a Mere 220 Pounds

Defensive end Fred Dryer is such a nonconformist that an exasperated assistant coach once called him "the living end." Tall, blond and good-looking, the 27-year-old Dryer is a motorcycle buff, a surfboard rider and a lover of rock music. He often travels the country in a Volkswagen bus. He's also fond of taking trips "through the wild areas" of South America. While his confreres read the sports pages during out-of-town trips, Dryer prefers science-fiction stories. . . . Dryer's tremendous play is one of the reasons the Los Angeles Rams went from a losing season last year to a winning one this year. In the game against Green Bay, he broke through the Packer defenses twice and tackled two different quarterbacks in the end zone. Result: four points for his team. . . . Although official records sometimes list Dryer's weight as 240 pounds, he says he's never weighed more than 220 and wonders if the 240 figure was put down "to scare the opposition." . . . His stamina, speed and ability to sack enemy passers for big losses gave him a national reputation at San Diego State College. . . . One complaint: "Dryer is a good individual player, but not a team player." But his play with the Rams has disproved that.—By Barry Abramson

The Doctor Lets You In

Why So Many People Have "Heart Attacks" While Eating

You are eating in a restaurant. Suddenly, the man at the next table chokes and drops dead. Heart attack? Perhaps. But more probably it's something doctors call a "café coronary." What has really happened is that the victim choked and suffocated from food, usually meat. It happens because the victim did not chew, or chewed only partially. It can also be caused by alcohol, which slows the gagging reflex. It all sounds rather pedestrian, almost comical—but in fact, "café coronaries" are the sixth leading cause of accidental death, claiming about 2,500 victims yearly. What to look for: If the victim is able to talk, chances are it's a heart attack. If the victim cannot talk, he is probably choking. What to do? Turn the victim upside down or lean him over a chair with head low. Pound his back while using your fingers to remove the plug of food lodged in his throat. Remember: There is not a moment to lose. If the food is not removed at once, the victim can die in less than five minutes.

How Smells Affect Your Appetite

You're ravenous, dinner is in ten minutes, and you're afraid you'll overeat? Then "tune down" your sense of smell. Scientists at the University of California explain that our sense of smell largely governs our appetite. The more smell, the more taste, flavor and attraction of food. But sweet things decrease our sense of smell—and therefore our appetite! So anything sweet depresses our appetite by making food less appealing to us. This is aside from the fact that sugar quickly raises our blood sugar and alleviates hunger. But suppose you want to gain weight? Then, "tune up" your appetite: Eating a tart or bitter food or appetizer before a meal actually prevents a decrease in the sense of smell, and therefore in one's appetite. In fact, they appear to stimulate the appetite, which is how the words aperitif and appetizer as appetite-sharpeners came into being.—By Harriet LaBarre

Jobmanship

Why the Executive Life May Not Be for You

Executive work is not a matter of brains or ability. Many smart people have become office executives—and lived unhappily ever after. You can judge your own possible reaction to executive life from the following: Johnson O'Connor Foundation researchers find that to be content as an executive you need: 1) an objective, outgoing personality; 2) ability to deal with abstract ideas; 3) a large vocabulary. The researchers warn that there are other personality types who should avoid the executive desk. Even if they manage the job well, success may cost them heavily in physical and emotional health. They are: 1) People who are happier concentrating on the work itself rather than on the people around them. 2) People with high creative ability for producing new ideas. Unless they are in advertising or some other creative field, they are often restless, bored and dissatisfied as executives.—By S. R. Redford

GLENDA JACKSON

A Briton's View Of Terrorism

"Terrorism isn't a very good way to accomplish political aims," says British actress Glenda Jackson. "You can see an example of this in the outburst of bombing in England in behalf of the Irish cause. If there were anything guaranteed to harden the British attitude and keep Ireland divided, it was the tactic of exploding bombs in London shops. Such actions have only tended to infuriate. Outbursts like these usually occur for a while, and after they stop, something else is tried. But in the meantime innocent people have been frightened, hurt and killed. This can never do a cause any good." Miss Jackson is working on her latest film, "The Tempter," in which she plays a nun.

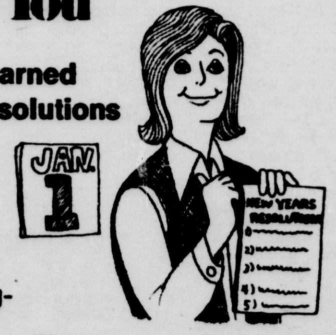
What Science Has Learned About New Year's Resolutions



If you can hold on through January and still keep your New Year's resolutions during February, you may really succeed in changing your life. The key numbers are 32 days and 51 days, according to psychologists. When most people promise themselves, "Beginning January 1st, I'm going to start doing this or doing that," their good intentions for starting a better habit last on the average only 51 days. It's even harder for most of us to keep a resolution to stop a habit. If you make up your mind, "I'm going to stop doing this or that," your willpower will last on the average of 32 days. Every day over either of these averages will be an encouraging sign that you truly are altering your habits. Of all the promises to yourself, the most difficult to keep are ones that involve smoking, physical health and your own personal behavior.

To the 56,000,000 people who smoke cigarettes.

A lot of people have been telling you not to smoke, especially cigarettes with high 'tar' and nicotine. But smoking provides you with a pleasure you don't want to give up.

Naturally, we're prejudiced. We're in the business of selling cigarettes.

But there is one overriding fact that transcends whether you should or shouldn't smoke and that fact is that you do smoke.

And what are they going to do about that?

They can continue to exhort you not to smoke. Or they might look reality in the face and recommend that, if you smoke and want low 'tar' and nicotine in a cigarette, you smoke a cigarette like Vantage.

And we'll go along with that, because there is no other cigarette like Vantage. Except Vantage.

Vantage has a unique filter that allows rich flavor to come through it and yet substantially cuts down on 'tar' and nicotine.

Not that Vantage is the lowest 'tar' and nicotine cigarette. (But you probably wouldn't like the lowest 'tar' and nicotine cigarette anyway.)

The plain truth is that smoke has to come through a filter if taste is to come through a filter. And where there is taste there has to be some 'tar.'

But Vantage is the only cigarette that gives you so much flavor with so little 'tar' and nicotine.

So much flavor that you'll never miss your high 'tar' cigarette.

Death Row

"We have halted capital punishment for even the worst kind of criminal; yet, this year, we will execute 17,000,000 innocent animals whose only crime was being born unwanted."

--Belton P. Mouras

This is the final day. If these pets aren't adopted by four o'clock they will be put-to-sleep . . . forever.

WHY? They're surplus. Excess. They must die by four o'clock because there are more pets than there are homes. Five out of every six puppies and kittens born die in one tragic way or other. MILLIONS are destroyed in pounds; more millions are abandoned to starvation, disease and highway slaughter. And on top of the terrible toll paid in animal life, it costs you, the American taxpayer, $500,000,000 annually just to keep from being overrun by stray cats and dogs.

WHAT'S THE ANSWER? Planned pethood. Animal birth control. Until veterinary science discovers a pet "pill," the only sure way to keep pets from breeding unwanted litters is a spaying operation which some people can't afford. There's a desperate need now for low-cost spaying clinics—and accelerated pet contraceptive research.

Something must be done. The consequences of doing nothing are horrifying: bigger-and-bigger pounds to kill more-and-more animals, and restrictive laws banning pets from cities. Who wants to contemplate the future day when pets are outlawed—when man has no other animal companion but himself?

YOU can change this grim forecast. Join us to halt surplus breeding NOW.

It's almost four o'clock.

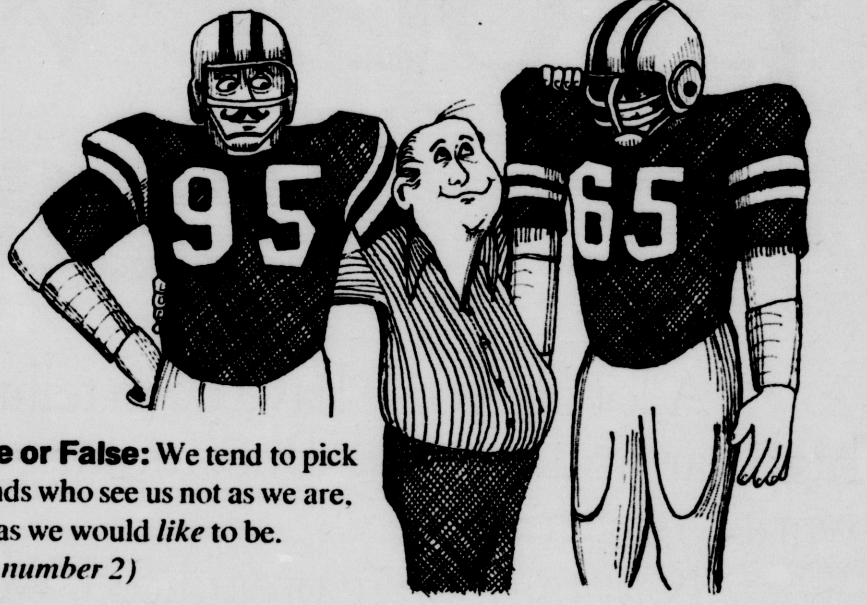
Do You Know the Inner Nature of Friendship?



True or False: We tend to pick friends who see us not as we are, but as we would like to be.
(See number 2)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Just because you happen to like a person and are drawn to him, it doesn't mean he is likely to feel the same way toward you.

2. We tend to pick friends who see us not as we are, but as we would like to be.

3. Even your best friend isn't likely to tell you what others say about you.

4. An attractive girl always has the edge when it comes to making friends with the opposite sex.

5. People who are prone to depression make the most staunch and loyal friends, because they need friendship more, to compensate for the times they feel depressed.

ANSWERS

1. False. Studies have shown that people tend to sense immediately how another person feels about them, and that "most of the time we like those who like us and dislike those who dislike us." Incidentally, it's very difficult to establish a friendly relationship with someone you dislike–even though it may serve your ultimate purpose to do so. Because what you feel is likely to shine through and speak much louder than what you say.

2. False–according to a sociological study of the matter, which showed that we tend to prefer as friends others who see us as we see ourselves –not as we would like to be or, for that matter, as we actually are. As one authority observes, "We are attracted to those whom we perceive as seeing both our foibles and our virtues as we see them."

3. True. Studies sponsored by the National Science Foundation have explored this interesting question: "Is a person likely to be told (even by his best friend) what others think of him?" Findings of the investigation–which included interviews with over 100 subjects: In most cases, friends freely relay to each other what others think and say about other people–and this includes gossip, speculation and conjecture. However, the person who is the subject of these comments and evaluations is rarely told what others think of her or him. It was found that "both positive and negative information tends to be withheld from the person being talked about." So the odds are that even your best friend isn't likely to tell you some of the things you'd give a whole lot to know.

4. False. Studies at the University of Texas have shown that the attractive girl has the edge only when the man feels that he is highly esteemed by her –or "positively evaluated." Otherwise, the investigation showed, the attractive lass rates merely as an "also ran," with the sweepstakes' award going to the plain girl who the man feels appreciates him.

5. False. Psychological studies at the University of Michigan have shown that friendships with depression-prone people are likely to end swiftly and abruptly, resulting in painful disappointment. The typical pattern: an extremely warm and confiding relationship, followed shortly by a quick turn off and permanent estrangement. Persons prone to depression, it was found, "tend to form interpersonal relations combining intense intimacy with sharp separation."

WHY DO LIMITED EDITIONS INCREASE IN VALUE?

Each year quality companies like those represented here, produce a limited number of a specifically chosen plate before destroying the mold. Because the demand for these beautiful plates usually exceeds the supply, many "sell out" and become hard to find. As a result, prices rise. We've sold many in recent years that have increased in price by over 500%.

Plate collecting isn't a new hobby, either. Bing and Grondahl of Denmark produced their first dated Annual Plate in 1895 and have produced one every year since. That 1895 Plate sold for 50¢ and is currently worth $2,700. More and more Americans are starting plate collecting because they make great decorations, good investments and future antiques too.

SPECIAL OFFER: As an incentive for you to start your Limited Plate collection, Joy's wants to offer you the scarce and beautiful 1971 Bing and Grondahl "Christmas At Home" at an unbelievably low price! Please look at this rare plate (shown top right) which is almost impossible to obtain. A Chiropractor's Treasury of HEALTH SECRETS

Yes, Dear Friend:

How would you like to sit down with licensed Chiropractor, Dr. Samuel Homola, and ask him such vital questions about your health as:

"Can I erase the wrinkles on my face?"
"Can I get a thicker and healthier head of hair?"
"Can I strengthen my eyesight and vision?"
"Can I rejuvenate my glands and organs?"

. . . and have him give you full, honest, detailed answers to everything you want to know? Now, admittedly these things are contrary to commonly accepted medical thinking. And yet Dr. Samuel Homola says they are within the realm of possibility for the average man or woman. And he reports on all these things—and more—in "A Chiropractor's Treasury of Health Secrets".

In These Pages, Dr. Homola Says—

- "You don't have to suffer from constipation . . ."
- "You can reduce your blood pressure . . ."
- "You can get rid of that nagging backache . . ."
- You can try a secret that "will give you a 'new' pair of feet"
- "You should literally erase the wrinkles on your face . . ." with one of these secrets
- You may use this same secret "for a thicker and healthier head of hair . . ."
- You can "cope with arthritis effectively and painlessly. . . . New facts suggest new treatments for quick relief of symptoms...soothing relief for sore and swollen arthritic joints."

"Immediately following one of these methods," says Dr. Homola, "it's not at all uncommon for a patient to say that he can 'see better'."

And all these "Health Secrets" are yours for the reading. Simply fill out and mail the No-Risk Coupon—and you will receive Dr. Homola's book to read from cover to cover, without your risking a single cent!

But first I'd like to tell you more about this book, for that is the only way you will be able to judge its usefulness to you. In reporting its Contents, we make no claims—but rather invite the readers—FREE OF RISK—to examine it and discuss any or all of it with their own doctors.

In these pages, you'll discover . . .

"How To Improve Your Health And Relieve Your Aches And Pains"

Here, in Chapter 1, Dr. Homola states: "All of the home-treatments in this book can be carried out without expensive equipment or medication . . ."

"All of the various methods described in this book have been found to be safe and effective," says Dr. Homola. "Anyone can use them without fear of pain or injury."

"Every chapter outlines a complete self-help technique for a specific ailment," he promises. "If you are stricken with acute pain or illness, you should, of course, see your doctor," he says, to make sure self-help measures would help you. "In the care of certain ailments, they may be more effective than medication, in providing relief from symptoms."

In these pages, Dr. Homola reports on—

SPECIAL CARE FOR VARICOSE VEINS—The drugless treatment that Dr. Homola reports on "may be done easily and conveniently," he says, and is "an effective way to reduce swelling."

HOW TO CARE FOR HEMORRHOIDS—"Since rectal hemorrhoids or 'piles' are also really varicose veins," says Dr. Homola, this same technique "will help drain the accumulated blood" to help relieve discomfort.

A SKIN IMPROVEMENT SECRET—Dr. Homola reports on a common food substance that may prevent dry skin and brittle hair and nails. He also reports on a health secret he says "will improve skin tone". One lady who used it following her regular bath reported that her skin took on the "loving glow" of a baby.

AN APHRODISIAC—Dr. Homola reports on a certain tea that he says, "contains hormone-like (testosterone) substances that stimulate the male sex glands" and is available from health food stores . . . and also a common candy which he says is "believed to have a stimulating effect on female estrogenic hormones."

ARM & SHOULDER PAIN RELIEF—"Pain in some portion of your shoulder, arm, or hand . . . can very often be relieved" with a simple method requiring little more than some ordinary string and sand.

RELIEVING HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE—"You can . . . reduce your blood pressure and slow your heart rate," reports Dr. Homola. And he reports on a number of methods said to do this; one, for example, a common seasoning that he says "tends to lower blood pressure as well as prevent hardening of the arteries."

Elsewhere in this book, Dr. Homola reports on "How to Banish Recurring Headache," "Relieving Cramps and Gas Pains," "How to Strengthen Your Heart for Longer Life and Better Health," "How to Strike Out the Common Cold," "How to Use Home Treatment to Cure Your Backache," "How to Improve Your Health with Leg and Foot Care," "How to Stop Needless Suffering from Hernia," as well as methods said to relieve ulcers, gall bladder trouble, insomnia, anemia, and poor circulation.

There is even a method with which Dr. Homola says "you can take in a proportionately greater number of calories without gaining weight."

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Dr. Samuel Homola is an outstanding authority on the treatment of common and uncommon ailments through drugless healing. A graduate of the Lincoln Chiropractic College, he is the author of four books, including Backache: Home Treatment and Prevention, Muscle Training for Athletes, and Bonesetting, Chiropractic and Cultism, as well as over 200 articles on backache, physical fitness, and related subjects for professional and health magazines.

In addition to maintaining a full-time practice in Panama City, Florida, Dr. Homola is a staff writer for Strength & Health and Muscular Development and contributes articles regularly to such magazines as Scholastic Coach.

Dr. Homola is a well-known authority on the training of athletes, and has developed many new and original techniques for building better health.

Here's What A Medical Doctor Says About These HEALTH SECRETS

Paul-Emile Chevrefils, M.D. says in the Foreword to this book: "As a practicing physician, I recommend A Chiropractor's Treasury of Health Secrets to anyone who wants to add years to his life. Every page is based on scientific principles."

75 Photos And Drawings Illustrate Self-Help Methods Anyone Can Use!

Here Are Some Of The Many Case Histories Reported In Dr. Homola's Book:

STOMACH CRAMPS RELIEVED—"A traveling salesman who suffered from stomach cramps whenever he had a bad day could relieve his discomfort" by using a method described on p. 28, says Dr. Homola.

COLITIS & HEADACHE RELIEVED—"In another case a school teacher who suffered from colitis and headaches could relieve her symptoms" by following this same method, writes Dr. Homola.

RIDS SELF OF CONSTIPATION—Malcolm E. took laxatives regularly. He was addicted to them and felt he could not do without them. He was sleepy, tired and "bloated" all the time, and appeared to be getting worse. "I took this patient off laxatives," reports Dr. Homola, "and suggested he follow the recommendations in this chapter . . . After several weeks he was normal once again."

RELIEVES HEART PAIN—"Bill C., an attorney, was only 45, but he had already suffered a slight heart attack. His doctor actually recommended many of the measures outlined in Chapter 6 . . . and after faithful adherence to this program . . . his blood cholesterol was back to normal and he no longer had chest pains when he exerted himself."

RELIEVES LEG PAIN—Mrs. M. S., a 43-year-old supermarket cashier complained of leg pain. Yet after using a simple method Dr. Homola tells you about in Chapter 10, "all of her aches and pains were relieved with a single treatment."

RELIEVES ARTHRITIC SYMPTOMS—"A 68-year-old retired railroad man complained that he was so stiff when he got out of bed in the morning he could hardly move. And the more he rested, the stiffer he became. He relieved his stiffness, however, with a method described in Chapter 7. 'I feel much better now," he remarks, and he is able to take walks and go swimming."

STIFF FINGERS RELIEVED—"A 52-year-old cosmetics sales lady who tried this technique said that it relieved the soreness and stiffness in her fingers when nothing else seemed to help," reports Dr. Homola.

SHOULDER & SPINE PAIN RELIEVED—"A postal clerk, 38 years of age, who had to stand long hours sorting mail, complained of 'pain and pressure' in the portion of his spine between his shoulder blades. After using this method, he reported complete relief from pain," says Dr. Homola.

RELIEVES BACKACHE—When all else had failed, a 68-year-old retired business executive who had suffered a compression fracture in his spine many months earlier "was able to relieve his backache as well as his leg pain," with a method revealed in Chapter 9.

"Simple self-help mesaures," says Dr. Homola, "can save you time and money as well as relieve pain and disability. . . . Every chapter is filled with effective self-help methods."

As More Examples, Dr. Homola Reports On . . .

"HOW TO RELIEVE PAIN OF MIGRAINE"—Do you suffer from recurring headaches of unknown cause—accompanied by nausea, weakness, restlessness or irritability? Do you see a kind of hazy aura or "spots" before your eyes—just before a bad headache? When it begins, it is usually on one side of the head, with a swollen, painful artery sometimes visible on that side? If so, you may be suffering from migraine, Dr. Homola says. In these pages, he reveals simple methods migraine sufferers have used for relief of symptoms.

"A CASE HISTORY OF LEG PAIN"—"A 68-year-old judge complained of pain in his calves when he walked more than a few yards. 'I can walk about a block,' he said, 'and then my legs start aching. After I sit down for a while, I can walk another block before they start aching again.' X-ray examination of his legs revealed that the arteries traveling down the back of his knees and calves were so hard and calcified that they could be clearly seen . . . his calf muscles simply ached from poor circulation and lack of oxygen," reports Dr. Homola. By following a method reported by Dr. Homola, he relieved this condition and increased the endurance of his legs so that he could walk several blocks without trouble.

"HOW A MOTHER RELIEVES HER 'FEMALE TROUBLES'"—A 31 year old mother, complaining of pelvic trouble and painful menstruation, according to Dr. Homola, "was able to relieve her symptoms" by using a simple device that can be made easily or purchased at a store inexpensively—which "restored circulation by removing pressure" from her abdominal organs.

"HOW TO STOP NEEDLESS SUFFERING FROM HERNIA"—Charlie B. suffered from a hernia, as did Bonnie J. Mr. B., a salesman, began to experience a little soreness and swelling in his right groin, for no apparent reason. The doctor told him, "If that bulge gets any bigger, it may have to be repaired surgically." Mr. B. was flabbergasted. "How could I have a hernia?" he asked. "I haven't done anything to strain myself." Bonnie J., a housewife, also developed a hernia in the groin. "I thought only men had hernias in that part of the body." she said. "Luckily," writes Dr. Homola, "both were able to 'cure' their hernias using the simple secrets described in this chapter."

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen makes several holiday recipes. Says Marilyn, "I like to make Stollen every year and serve them at our Christmas Sunday Coffee Hour at church. The Oyster Stew—well, that's traditional at tree-trimming time."

My Favorite Recipes For Christmas

STOLLEN

Traditional yeast bread served in Germany on Christmas Eve.

5½-6½ cups unsifted all-purpose flour or unbleached all-purpose flour
½ cup sugar
1¼ teaspoons salt
2 pkgs. active dry yeast
¾ cup milk
½ cup water
⅔ cup margarine
3 eggs, room temperature
¾ cup chopped blanched almonds
¾ cup mixed candied fruits
⅓ cup golden raisins
1½ cups confectioners' sugar
2 tablespoons milk
Blanched almonds, candied cherries and citron, optional

1. In a large bowl, thoroughly mix 2 cups flour, sugar, salt and undissolved dry yeast.

2. Combine milk, water and margarine in a saucepan. Heat over low heat until liquids are warm. (Margarine does not need to melt.)

3. Gradually add warm liquid to dry ingredients and beat 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally.

4. Add eggs and ½ cup flour, or enough flour to make a thick batter. Beat at high speed 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally.

5. With large spoon stir in enough additional flour to make a soft dough.

6. Turn out onto lightly floured board; knead until smooth and elastic, about 8-10 minutes. Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top.

7. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until double in bulk, about 1½ hours.

8. Combine almonds, candied fruits and raisins.

9. Punch down dough; turn out onto lightly floured board. Knead in nut-and-fruit mixture. Divide dough into three equal pieces. Roll each piece of dough into a 12x7-inch oval. Fold in half lengthwise.

10. Place on greased baking sheets. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until double in bulk, about 45 minutes.

11. About 15 minutes before rising time is up, preheat oven to 350° F.

12. Bake stollen 20-25 minutes until done, or until they sound hollow when rapped with knuckle.

13. Remove from baking sheets immediately and cool on wire racks. Combine confectioners' sugar and milk smoothly. Pour on top of slightly warm stollen. If desired decorate with blanched almonds, candied cherries and citron. Makes 3 stollen

OYSTER STEW

24 fresh oysters or 1 pkg. (12 ozs.) frozen oysters with liquid, thawed
2 cups milk*
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
¼ teaspoon paprika
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash celery salt
Butter
Chowder crackers

1. In medium saucepan, heat oysters in their liquid just until edges curl.

2. Add milk, butter, pepper, paprika, salt and celery salt. Heat gently just until mixture is hot. Do not boil or overcook. (To keep warm for an extended period, place soup in double boiler over hot water.)

3. Serve hot in heated soup bowls. Float a teaspoon of butter on each serving. Pass chowder crackers in basket. Makes 1½ qts., 4 servings

*For a richer stew, substitute 1 cup light cream for 1 cup of the milk.

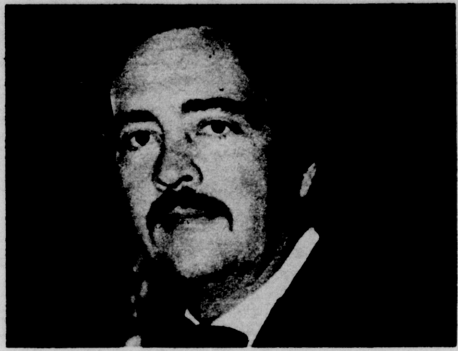
DOG ON A COLD ASPHALT ROOF
A little weird, but good for business

When Sandy, a mongrel of some fame, has to be fed, his ten-year-old owner, Wayne Ratcliffe, has to climb up on the roof of this pub in Oldham, England, where his pet lives. The Ratcliffes bought Sandy a year ago and since then he has only come down off the roof twice. "All the time he pined and whined to get back up again. We can't understand it," said Mrs. Ratcliffe. "We've tried everything to persuade him to come down and live like a normal dog, but he loves his roof." To make life more comfortable for Sandy, Wayne's father has built the dog a rooftop kennel. Needless to say, Sandy's act is good for the pub's business, but imagine seeing a dog on the roof after having a pint too many!

Ever hear of the Amazon complex? It is the reaction women have when they are deceived and hurt by men. "Usually women deal with the resulting conflict in one of two unsatisfactory ways. They may be falsely compliant in order to win love (the femininity game), or they may become hostile and vindictive. (And with so many sons of Achilles running around, it's hard to find another alternative.) A number of men would seem to suffer from an Achilles complex—believing, as did Achilles, that the only way to handle a strong, aggressive woman is to subdue her by force and/or deception." From "The Femininity Game," by Thomas Boslooper and Marcia Hayes (Stein and Day, $7.95).

SUZANNE PLESHETTE
A nudge from hubby (below)



Working women: Suzanne Pleshette says the reason she keeps working despite being married to one of the wealthiest men in Hollywood, Thomas J. Gallagher III, is because she thinks it makes her "more interesting and happier. When I first got married I didn't work for about five months. One morning my husband said, 'I want you to go back to work. Or to school. Or work for some charity. Do something. Just don't ever ask me what I want for dinner after you've fed me breakfast!' And he's right. I think a woman avoids becoming dull when she has activities outside her own home."

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY

PILLOW CASE

Before I lay me down to sleep,
When first I go to bed,
I pat the pillow where I shall,
In moments, lay my head.

In fact I often more than pat,
I sock my pillow hard.
I plump it up, I beat it up.
(It's luckily not scarred.)

I punch the pillow every night
(I say "I hit the sack"),
And I suppose I should be glad
It doesn't hit me back.

THROUGH A CHILD'S EYES

My wife and I are expecting our third child in a few months. Recently I asked our two children which they would prefer, a baby brother or a baby sister. Our 4-year-old daughter said she wanted a baby sister. I then asked our 2½-year-old son if he wanted a baby sister. No answer. Then I asked him if he would like a baby brother. This was followed by silence again. Then, with all the dignity and seriousness that a 2-year-old can muster, he looked me square in the eye and answered: "I want a bicycle."

Museum to pay for million dollar painting

Rembrandt ransom set at $100,000

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI) — A $100,000 ransom demanded by thieves holding a Rembrandt painting was dropped off at an undisclosed location late Saturday. Officials from the Taft Museum were waiting to recover the work of art.

"The money has been dropped off," spokesman Jim Hough said late Saturday night. "I just came from the place." Hough, who negotiated the agreement with the thieves for the museum, said he hoped the painting would be returned today.

The thieves had threatened to burn the painting unless they were paid $200,000 in unmarked bills by 2 p.m.

John Warrington, chairman of the Taft Museum Committee, confirmed that an agreement for $100,000 had been reached between the thieves and Hough at 4:45 p.m. Saturday.

"The mechanics of getting the money to the thieves and getting the painting back is yet to be worked out," Warrington said.

Earlier Saturday, Warrington said the thieves had lowered their ransom demand from $200,000 to $160,000. He said the museum refused to increase their original offer of $100,000 for the safe return of the priceless painting titled "Man Leaning on a Sill."

The painting was one of two stolen Tuesday. The other "Portrait of an Elderly Woman" was returned by Hough Thursday after the thieves gave him directions leading to a barn in suburban Springdale where the painting was found.

Hough then took it to a cocktail lounge and called television newscaster Al Schottlekote. The newsman went to the lounge and said the picture was leaning against a jukebox.

Both paintings were appraised for insurance purposes at $330,000 in 1963 but some critics said they are worth millions of dollars.

Hough shuffled telephone messages from his real estate office to Warrington who was in his law office throughout Saturday afternoon.

Warrington said he believed the thieves would not harm the priceless picture and that negotiations would continue until the painting was safely returned to the museum.

Prior to the agreement, Hough said, "I do not know who the thieves are and although I haven't seen the painting, I believe it is still in good shape."

Kissinger ends peace mission — Story on A-2

Buses, trains mobbed as U.S. rushes home

Travelers struggling to get home for Christmas Saturday mobbed bus terminals and filled every available seat on planes and trains.

Buses and trains were packed for the second straight day at the peak of the holiday season. Heavy snow on parts of the East Coast and Midwest fouled up some airline schedules, and sent hordes of travelers to bus terminals and train stations in hopes of finding a way home.

Greyhound buses in Chicago did their heaviest ever holiday business with "wall to wall" people packed inside the city's Loop terminal, assistant regional manager Frank Peppin said.

"We are getting bombarded with people because the airlines going to northern New England and New York were all closed off yesterday because of weather conditions," said George Snider, Greyhound's assistant regional manager for New England based in Boston.

In Sacramento Greyhound said the terminal was "really mobbed." A spokesman in Atlanta, Ga., said business was heavy. Thirty extra buses were added in Baltimore, Md., where a pokesman said the depot "will be busting at the seams before the weekend is over."

Another 30 extra buses were put into service at Cleveland, Ohio. The Indiana, Ind., bus station had "so many buses goining out its hard to keep track of them," Greyhound district manager S.G. Gibbons said.

At the depot in Los Angeles, a young man in faded denim overalls on leave from the Air Force, sat on the floor and said he had been waiting more than seven hours to go home to Las Vegas, Nev.

"They ran out of room on the bus," he said, "and then they ran out of drivers. I'm anxious to get home, but I don't really mind waiting."

Many airlines reported they used all available equipment to meet bookings that filled their planes almost to 100 per cent capacity.

New York City's three metropolitan airports, Logan International at Boston, O'Hare in Chicago, Arlanta's Hartsfield, Hopkins International at Cleveland, Weir Cook in Indiana, and Baltimore Washington International said they were coping after some lengthy delays late in the week.

Some passengers had to wait until 4:30 a.m. Saturday before they could get a flight out of General Mitchell Field in Milwaukee. An airport spokesman said the "extremely heavy" traffic was expected to continue throughout the weekend.

The Albany, N.Y., county airport was closed because of snow.

Extra police and parking personnel were assigned to handle the crush of holiday travelers at Los Angeles International Airport. An airport spokesman said traffic began as "extremely heavy" Saturday morning but within a couple of hours had worsened to become "unbelievable."

Amtrak, the semi-public passenger railroad corporation, was booked solid. Trains leaving Chicago's Union Station were sold out.

Near My Lai massacre

S. Viet troops charged with recent atrocities

SAIGON (UPI) — The Viet Cong charged Saturday that South Vietnamese troops tortured old women and buried children alive last month in the same province where the My Lai massacre occurred.

Sr. Col. Vo Dong Giang, deputy chief of the Viet Cong delegation in the South, gave the names of six women, aged 40 to 80, who he said were tortured and disabled by South Vietnamese soldiers.

He also named six children aged 11 to 15 who, according to him, were tied to trees, tortured and later buried alive.

The actions were committed last Nov. 19 and 20 "to bring the population to their knees and in an attempt to impose control on this area."

He said the incidents took place in Bac Phong village of Quang Ngai province, 318 miles northeast of Saigon. That province was the scene of the 1968 slayings of My Lai villagers for which Lt. William Calley was convicted.

The Viet Cong official did not say why the alleged tortures had occurred. South Vietnamese officials were not available for comment on the allegations, which could not immediately be checked.

In Cambodia, the High Command said Saturday that a government general and two colonels have been suspended and 20 lesser-ranking servicemen and civilians arrested in the illegal sale of U.S.-made brass shell casings.

Civilian airlines to fly with military jet fuel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon Saturday announced a compromise agreement with the Federal Energy Office calling for immediate diversion of military jet fuel to keep the U.S. civilian airlines flying during the holidays.

A Pentagon spokesman said the Defense Department would provide 900,000 barrels of jet fuel to U.S. international airlines. He said an additional 600,000 barrels would be provided "if and when future conditions warrant."

The settlement represented a compromise over an original demand from energy policy chief William E. Simon that the Defense Department immediately give up 1.5 million barrels of military fuel. Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger protested Simon's original directive, and Pentagon sources said the new decision was the result of this protest.

"The Department of Defense will begin providing immediately from its existing stocks in Los Angeles 2,500 barrels per day of JP5 kerosene based jet fuel, up to a possible total of 20,000 barrels, for U.S. international airline use," the defense spokesman said.

The Pentagon announcement came as Congress adjourned until Jan. 21 without passing emergency energy legislation requested by President Nixon.

In a statement, Nixon said he could "understand the strain and frustration which marks the unsuccessful congressional effort to enact" the legislation. But he said he hoped the lawmakers will move promptly toward passage of new legislation "that will be fair and effective" when they return.

"The defense fuel terminal in Los Angeles is the only source from which airlines can obtain sufficient additional fuel quickly in order to avoid possible flight cancellations during the Christmas holiday," the Pentagon statement said.

In addition, the spokesman said, the Pentagon will, if necessary, turn over to the airlines 128,300 barrels of JP4 naptha-based jet fuel during the month of January. JP4 is a special military grade of fuel, but it can be burned in commercial airliners.

The Pentagon also agreed to cancel for the time being its order for 751,700 barrels of jet fuel drawn last month from civilian stocks under the Defense Production Act. Delivery of this fuel to the military originally was to have taken place through January.

The spokesman said Federal Energy Office officials had agreed to replace the fuel used to keep civilian airliners flying during the holiday period. He said these replacements probably would begin in January.

Three top officials fired in loan agency shakeup

Director acts after charges of corruption

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Small Business Administrator Thomas S. Kleppe, acting to clear his agency of allegations of widespread corruption, announced Saturday he had fired three top officials for mismanagement and improper activities.

He said dismissal notices had been served on Thomas F. Regan, former director of the SBA's Richmond, Va., district office; Russell Hamilton, former director of the Philadelphia regional office, and Joseph Clark, Hamilton's deputy director in Philadelphia..

'Mismanagement'

Kleppe said the three were fired for "mismanagement, improper administration in taking care of their responsibilities and poor judgment" in handling the agency's loan and lease programs.

He said the dismissals had nothing to do with allegations of criminal conduct made during two weeks of House hearings.

Kleppe said the firings were part of an agency "house cleaning" he had promised the House Small Business subcommittee. In three days of testimony at the subcommittee's hearings, Kleppe had promised to conduct "fast audits" of all SBA loan offices, personnel investigations and an internal reorganization.

Illegal loans

Hamilton triggered the SBA hearings when he told House investigators of illegal loan making and possible criminal activities in the Richmond office during Regan's tenure as director. The subcommittee subsequently killed a bill to finance SBA loan programs for two more years and settled instead on a temporary funding plan.

Congress this week approved legislation that would provide the SBA only $575 million until next June 30 while the House subcommittee continues its investigation of 22 SBA offices around the country.

The subcommittee heard testimony about $11.6 million in loans made by Regan's Richmond office to his brother-in-law, Joseph Palumbo of Charlottesville, Va. Most of the loans were canceled after the House inquiry began.

Hamilton testified that he tried to fire Regan for mismanagement in Richmond, but that Kleppe overruled him. Kleppe said Saturday that Hamilton was the first of his 10 regional directors to be fired during his nearly three years as SBA administration because "he's the first one to betray my trust."

KISSINGER IN FINAL GENEVA TALK

U. S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, right, gestures as he talks with USSR Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko Saturday in Geneva. Kissinger arrived in Washington late Saturday after a two-week 13-nation mission in Europe and the Mideast. For report of Kissinger's trip, see A-2.

Bitter, weary Congress quits without resolving energy crisis

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress adjourned for the year Saturday in a mood of weary acrimony, with the House and Senate blaming each other and the White House for President Nixon's failure to win broad emergency powers to cope with the energy crisis.

The energy bill, which Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield once declared must be passed before Congress could go home for Christmas, sank in a legislative quagmire during a marathon session that ended early Saturday.

The House, rejecting a pared-down Senate compromise on the energy bill, refused even to adopt an adjournment resolution during the postmidnight session.

But it relented in early afternoon, when Mansfield gave up the fight for passage as futile, and the Senate swiftly agreed with the House to quit until the second session of the 93rd Congress convenes Jan. 21.

When they return next month, the legislators will be faced once again with the emergency energy bill that ran aground Friday over a proposal to curb windfall oil corporation profits stemming from the fuel shortages.

The President issued a conciliatory statement expressing regret that "during this critical period just ahead," Congress had failed to give him the authority he requested on Nov. 8.

But Nixon said that as a former member of Congress, he understood "how difficult it is in the closing hours of a session to obtain agreement on controversial, complex legislation." He said he hoped Congress would move promptly to approve a "fair and effective" bill when it returns next month.

Mansfield criticized White House aides for trying to "dictate" the terms of the energy bill to the Senate.

House Democratic Leader Thomas P. O'Neill said "the White House has worked against us ever since we went to conference with the Senate and even in the Senate yesterday."

In an effort to overcome a filibuster led by members from oil-producing states, the Senate eliminated the windfall profits section and sent a bare-bones, short-term bill to the House.

But the House refused to accept it, along with several alternatives. Rep. Harley Staggers, D-W. Va., the House floor manager of the bill, complained that the Senate was "using us as doormats and I, for one, am tired of it."

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott blamed the House for not accepting his chamber's watered-down version, claiming "we've legislated, we've passed a bill."

"The House is acting out of pique more than anything else," Scott said. "It has let its personal feelings interfere."

Looking ahead, Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., told his colleagues that "we must not harden into polarization between the House and the Senate, between Congress and the White House.

"When we come back, I urge that all of us put aside the emotions of the moment, dampen the fires," Baker added. "We can't afford the luxury of winning or losing."

Many members of Congress expressed belief that the President already had the power to ration gasoline and to implement other conservation measures to reduce fuel consumption without legislative authority.

MEET 'MERRY CHRISTMAS'

The nameplate is not just a greeting — it's her name. Merry Christmas, 24, is a secretary at Mather Air Force Base in California. She's used to the kidding and the double takes by this time when people first hear her name.

Ends 15-day mission in Mideast, Europe

Kissinger 'happy indeed' with steps toward peace

GENEVA (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger ended the most intense diplomatic mission of his career Saturday, bouyant over his stunning success in bringing Israel and the Arabs to the peace table after 25 years of bloody conflict.

"The secretary is very happy indeed," State Department spokesman George Vest told newsmen as Kissinger wound up his 13-nation tour of Europe and the Middle East with a meeting of foreign ministers at the Geneva peace conference.

"They not only have come to the table together, but they have taken the first step."

Many crises

In addition to the Middle East, Kissinger's hectic and dramatic 15-day journey touched on virtually every major crisis confronting international relations, from the energy shortage to the Vietnam war.

Saturday's session in Geneva was the last foreign minister's meeting of the opening phase of the Middle East peace conference. The ministers reached a major agreement for Israel and Egypt to begin immediate negotiations on withdrawal of troops near the Suez canal.

"The road to peace will be long and sometimes painful but what we have done here is an achievement of which the principal parties and the United Nations should be proud," Kissinger said in a statement before departing for Washington.

'Nourished hope'

"As I go back to the United States to report to President Nixon I leave with nourished hope," Kissinger said. "We have completed the first stage of the conference and we have achieved substantially what we came here to do.

Before leaving, Kissinger met in privately for the third time this week with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, who had been designated cochairman of the ministerial conference along with Kissinger. He also held other private talks with the foreign ministers of Egypt, Israel and Jordan.

Kissinger then flew to Washington Saturday night.

Vest said that unlike the opening of the conference, where both Arabs and Israelis first threatened not to remain because of dissatisfaction with seating arrangements, the meeting Saturday was cordial.

"There was no language that could have been characterized as anything but low key," Vest said.

Asked to sum up the situation briefly, Vest said "the foreign ministers have recessed, a military committee working group has been set up and nothing has been adjourned."

Kissinger was understood to feel that the Soviets played a constructive role at the conference. U.S. officials note that the major speech by Gromkyo to the conference was low key and not inflammatory.

Icy roads, closed gas stations await drivers

Travelling—it's no joy this Yule

By United Press International

Icy roads and fears of closed gas stations met Christmas holiday weekend drivers who took to the highways in some parts of the country Saturday.

Public transportation terminals across the country were crowded and some officials predicted a lighter than usual volume of auto travel and, hopefully, a reduced traffic death toll over the 102-hour Christmas holiday period.

Snow storms left roads hazardous in parts of the Midwest, East and South and new snow and winds hampered highway travel in the eastern mountains.

In addition, authorities in many states announced crackdowns on speeders and plans to rigidly enforce newly imposed 50 or 55 mile per hour speed limits to conserve gasoline.

A survey by the American Automobile Association showed most gas stations in the country would close Sunday and Christmas day but would be open at least part of Monday.

The National Safety Council estimated that between 550 and 650 persons would be killed in traffic accidents during the period that extends from 6 p.m. local time Friday through midnight Tuesday.

The estimate was reduced to 50 fatalities from what the toll might have been if the gasoline shortage did not exist, the NSC said.

A United Press International count at 3 p.m. EST showed 72 persons had been killed in traffic accidents.

A breakdown of accidental deaths:

Traffic 72
Fires 11
Planes 0
Other 5
Total 88

In one of the worst accidents of the period, four persons were killed and two others critically injured early Saturday when a speeding car ran off a highway near Ardmore, Okla., and struck a bridge railing.

Emergency state proclaimed

Embargo on oil leaves Japan in national crisis

TOKYO (UPI) — Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka proclaimed a state of emergency in Japan Saturday in an effort to tide over an "unprecedented national crisis" created by Arab's oil squeeze and the nation's overheated economy.

In a statement read by his Chief Cabinet Secretary, Susumu Nikaido, Tanaka also called for cooperation by the Japanese people to help the government to return the situation to normal.

The Arab oil embargo hit Japan hardest because it came at a time the country, which must import more than 99.6 per cent of the oil need for its economy, was experiencing its worst postwar inflationary rising prices.

The Japanese government has been in the grip of what it calls a "national crisis" since the oil-rich Arab countries announced their decision to employ oil as a weapon against Israel in the Middle East conflict.

The oil embargo forced the Japanese government to cut oil supplies to the industry by 10 per cent from last month and 20 per cent beginning in January.

"The government will make its all-out efforts to prevent social confusion and stabilize the people's livelihood so that the honest will not lose," the statement said.

Tanaka said he believed "the present situation could be overcome without fail if the giant firms refrained from unnecessarily large price boosts and hoarding, and consumers from hysterical buying."

Tanaka's declaration of the state of emergency followed the passage of two bills in the Japanese Diet (parliament) Friday empowering the government to regulate the buying and usage of oil.

The legislation gave the government powers to set the oil supply targets, and place a ceiling on oil consumption by big consumers.

Car hits Upland man in a hurry

UPLAND — An Upland man was seriously injured late Friday night when he tried to dash across Foothill Boulevard and was hit by an oncoming car.

Jerald Forbes, 41, of 2643 Woodbury Ct., said police, had just left a bar near Central Avenue and Foothill Boulevard when he tried to run across Foothill.

A car driven by Arnie Troy Isom, 48, of 4590 Mission Blvd., Ontario, collided with Forbes and sent him hurtling through the air.

Forbes was hospitalized at San Antonio Community Hospital with a broken right leg and head injuries. He was listed Saturday in satisfactory condition.

Isom was subsequently arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol.

Believe it or not! he's giving away free gas

MOUNT SHASTA, Calif. (UPI) — Service station operator Russell Brownell gave away 3,600 gallons of gasoline Saturday, but it wasn't a Christmas present.

Brownell had been overcharging a penny a gallon and gave away the gas to satisfy the Internal Revenue Service.

Motorists lined up in freezing temperatures at 5 a.m., two hours before the station's opening, for a half mile in each direction.

Each motorist filled up. Brownell said, "a lot of people were mad because they couldn't get more."

"What impressed me was that the only people who said thank you were my regular customers," he said.

Brownell gave away the gas as a way of returning to the public the value of one-cent overcharges collected during federal price freezes. The overcharge, Brownell said, resulted from a bookkeeping error.

It took two hours to dispense the 3,600 gallons among 200 or 300 people. After their long waits, drivers simply helped themselves at pumps with the price marked zero.

When Brownell turned the price back to normal, 45 cars were lined up. All but four took off.

One luckless motorist said he had been waiting two hours, and "probably used up three gallons while in line."

Higher oil, gas prices expected as five Gulf countries meet

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Persian Gulf oil ministers ended a private meeting Saturday without announcing expected price increases, but conference sources said a final agreement would raise petroleum prices next year at least 50 per cent over current rates.

The price hikes are almost certain to spell higher gasoline and heating oil prices for consumers.

The Persian Gulf states of Iran, Iraq, Kuwait, Qatar, Saudi Arabia and Abu Dhabi called the meeting Saturday to consider how much to charge for their oil from Jan. 1 to March 31 next year.

The states are members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC). Other OPEC countries—Indonesia, Libya, Algeria, Nigeria and Venzuela—sent observers to the meeting.

The ministers adjourned their talks until today.

An OPEC source said prices would be increased "not less than 50 per cent" and could be double the present $5.09 a barrel.

The sources said that in deciding the new price for Persian Gulf crude, the basis for world oil prices, the states considered the recommendations of OPEC's Economic Commission that met in Vienna Monday through Thursday to formulate a new price structure.

The Venezuelan Ambassador to Iran, Dr. Otmaro Silva, said he was not authorized to give any information about the meeting.

"It is definite we will hear about a logical and reasonable posted price fixing soon and it will be higher than earlier prices," he said.

The posted price is the rate on which oil companies calculate their royalty payments to producing countries.

OPEC sources said the Shah of Iran told the delegates at a lunch in his Niavaran Palace they would make a "logical, reasonable and pragmatic" price assessment, enabling exporting and consuming nations to "buy and sell oil in a viable manner."

2 hurt in London blast

Terrorist bombs rip entertainment area

LONDON (UPI) — Terrorist's bombs exploded in London's jammed entertainment district Saturday night, sending hundreds of Christmas partygoers rushing through the streets, police said. Two persons were injured in the second day of terror bombings in downtown London.

Police said three bombs exploded in three movie houses in London's West End, the city's entertainment center of theaters, restaurants and cabarets.

The explosions were in a movie house complex at the Swiss Center in Wardour Street, the Cinecenta in Panton Street and Jacey's in Leicester Square, police said.

A police spokesman said a man and woman were reported "slightly" injured in the blasts, believed to be part of the latest terror campaign by the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

Police said all three explosions, described as "minor," were caused by small charges under the seats of movie house. Each blast blew a hole in the floor but caused little other damage, they said.

Mrs. Betty Edwards, 36, an usherette in one of the movie theaters, said: "There was a great flash and a bang and I was knocked sideways."

London Fire Brigade said the Swiss Center blast was followed by a fire, which was quickly controlled.

Two persons have died and more than 300 persons wounded in England by the bombings this year.

Texas widow to mark birthday on Christmas

She's going like 60, but Essie's nearing 112 years

By STEVEN REED

MCKINNEY, Tex. (UPI) — The single, sooty light bulb hanging from the ceiling of Essie Swiney's two-room cardboard shack is dim in the smoke swirling from an unvented wood burning stove.

The smoke pushes up from a small opening in the top and whips around Essie's face, across her unblinking brown eyes and sprints out a crack in a window or under a door.

Essie, the widow of long dead (1930) migrant cotton picker Jim Swiney, is 111 years old. She will be 112 on Christmas Day. In this Essie Swiney has few equals.

No other house

"I don't want to live nowhere else," said the tiny lady, stooped against the winter wind and the years. "This is my home. A woman died and gave it to me. I don't want to live nowhere else. I want to be satisfied."

For most of her life Essie Swiney has been satisfied and all the more so since she settled into the unsteady patchwork shack on an otherwise vacant lot on a narrow street in an old, black neighborhood.

"I've been here by myself for a long time," she said, leaning over the stove. The flames danced from its ancient metal body to lick within inches of her sleeves.

'Nobody bothers me'

"I live all right by myself. I got good neighbors. Nobody bothers me."

Mrs. Swiney does not feel the energy crunch. Her home is without gas or butane. In addition to the one electric light, there is an outlet for her refrigerator. There are no other appliances nor any place to hook them up.

A gray cat looks mysterious as it peers inside the open back door. It disappears and a black cat about the same size pauses on the broken plank porch, looks in and goes the way of the first.

An aging daughter, Mrs. Annie Jackson, of Deming, N. M., plans a holiday visit.

"She's coming after me," Essie explains in the presence of a social worker who acknowledges the planned visit. "She'll be here after Christmas. I like to visit."

How long has Annie been in New Mexico?

"Oh, Lord, she's been out there a long time. Sometimes I go visit her."

Isn't a Texas to New Mexico bus ride a long journey for such an old lady?

"They (bus personnel) sees after me. I been to Houston and Galveston. I go to church nearly every night. I go to my neighbors, too. They has a television, it's colored."

Laura Hicks, the social worker, says Essie is much better off now that water has been piped to within a few feet of her back porch.

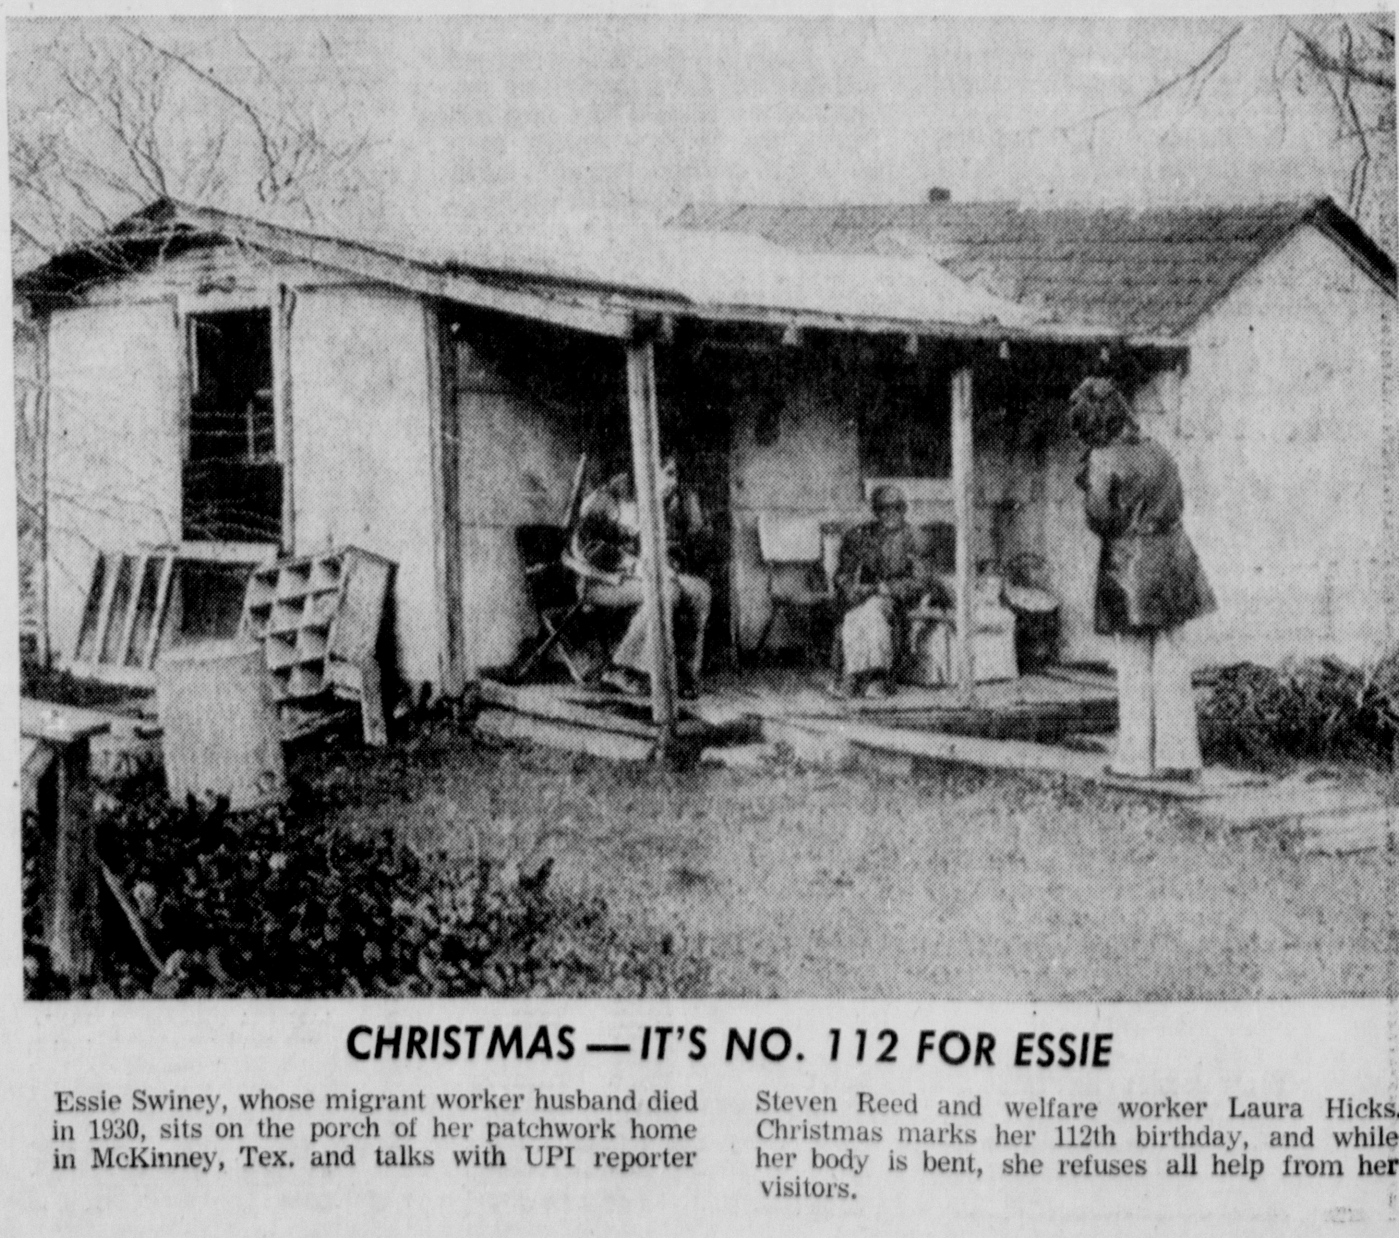
"The way it used to be she had to get water from a faucet on the vacant lot which made it really rough in the winter," she says. "Essie gets $124 a month in old age assistance plus food stamps and after the first of the year it will go up to $130.

"A retired neighbor cuts wood for her stove and she gives him about $2 every time he comes by."

Essie says she doesn't read well or write much but a purse hanging on a nail is stuffed with old letters gathering dust.

Essie doesn't have any special Christmas-birthday plans, "nothing but eat and sit down" even though it will be her 112th. She thinks folks are exaggerating when they mention her age, a figure supported by census and welfare rolls.

"I don't claim nothing because I know I ain't no 111 years old. I'm about 60."



CHRISTMAS — IT'S NO. 112 FOR ESSIE

Essie Swiney, whose migrant worker husband died in 1930, sits on the porch of her patchwork home in McKinney, Tex. and talks with UPI reporter Steven Reed and welfare worker Laura Hicks. Christmas marks her 112th birthday, and while her body is bent, she refuses all help from her visitors.

Officials in Spain name 6 Basque men as assassins

MADRID (UPI) — Spanish police Saturday named six Basque separatists with political criminal records as members of the assassination squad that killed Prime Minister Luis Carrero Blanco in a bomb blast.

Police said the six suspects were still at large and launched the biggest manhunt in recent Spanish history to capture them.

They also detailed how the six tunneled beneath a street to lay an explosive charge near a church where Carrero went to mass each morning and then executed a split-second master plan to blow up his limousine.

Generalissimo Francisco Franco attended a memorial mass Saturday for his slain prime minister and was hailed by acrowd of 3,000 persons shouting "Franco, Franco!"

Police said all six suspects sought in the killing were members of the Basque Homeland and Liberty (ETA), a militant separatist organization with headquarters in southern France.

Police said the assassination team was composed of five students and one worker, all aged between 23 and 27 years. All had participated in previous bombings, bank holdups, kidnapings and other politically motivated violence, police said.

The announcement identified the six suspects as:

—Jose Ignacio Abaitua Gomeza, alias Marquin, 23, mining engineering student, from the Basque town of Guernica.

—Jose Miguel Benaran Ordenana, alias Argala, 24, student, of Arrigorriaga.

—Pedro Ignacio Perez Beotegui, 25, student, of Vitoria.

—Javier Maria Larreategui, alias Atxulo, 27, student, of Bilbao.

—Jose Antonio Urruticoechea Bencoechea, alias Jos, 22, student, of Miravalles.

—Juan Bautista Eizaguirre Santiesteban, alias Zigor, 25, worker, of Hernani.

Christmas: a day for crying in POW camps

SANTA FE, N.M. (UPI) — For five long and lonely years, Col. James Lindberg Hughes tried to block Christmas out of his mind.

"I would try not to think about anything special on Christmas. I knew it would result in an outbreak of crying, which was a form of seif inflicted punishment," Hughes said.

Hughes already had enough punishment.

Shot down in an F105 fighter over North Vietnam May 5, 1967, Hughes was a prisoner of the North Vietnamese in the "Hanoi Hilton" until early this year when the United States ended its commitment in Vietnam and the prisoners were returned. Hughes came back to New Mexico March 4.

First Christmas home

This year marks the first Christmas he will have spent with his family since his ordeal in the cold concrete cells of the prisoner of war camp in Hanoi.

Only once during his five years of imprisonment was there any open observation of Christmas. Prison officials last year agreed to allow the POW's to sing Christmas carols.

For three of his five years in prison, Hughes was in solitary confinement.

"I spent three long, lonely, cold and damp Christmases like that," he said. "I purposely tried to view Christmas as any other miserable day in a prisoner of war camp. I had to do that to make it as comfortable as possible."

Hughes said this year at Christmas his prayers will be for the men still listed as missing in action and those who may still be in prison camps.

"I was downtown this morning, and after hearing some children singing Christmas carols, a friend came up to me and asked me that same question," Hughes said.

"I told him I felt that this was the finest country in the world, where we can be glad that freedom and affluency abound."

Red, white and blue license plates postponed for 1 year

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The red-white-and-blue license plates promised California motorists for the nation's 200th anniversary will have to wait at least another year, it was reported Saturday.

The state received no bids this fall for reflective material that was to make the plates more visible as well as patriotic, officials said.

But shortages were not blamed for the lack of bids. Rather, it was California's policy of issuing long-term license plates. The state stipulated that the reflective material on the new plates must remain bright and visible for at least 10 years.

In a story in a Southland newspaper, state Motor Vehicles Director Robert C. Cozens said 3-M Company, the major manufacturer of the product had not yet had 10 years to test it.

Cozens told the newspaper that 3M has had only five years of operational experience with the reflective material.

"They didn't want to be legally liable for personal injuries from traffic accidents which could be held to result from reflective failure of a plate less than 10 years old," said Cozens.

Another problem was a legislative requirement for at least two qualified bidders before any contract could be awarded. Cozens said to the best of his knowledge only 3M was interested.

Wife of pilot killed by Arabs

LAS VEGAS (UPI) — Winifred Erbeck of Las Vegas, the wife of airline pilot Capt. Andrew C. Erbeck, was one of 33 persons who died Monday when Arab guerrillas shot up the Rome airport and bombed a Pan American jetliner.

The woman was a passenger on the plane piloted by her husband, who survived the 30-hours of guerrilla terror that began in Rome, and moved to Athens and Kuwait.

S.D. council to have data on disclosure law

SAN DIMAS — City Atty. Norman Oliver promised members of the City Council and Planning Commission that he will have a memo on the financial disclosure law to them by Wednesday.

Oliver made the promise after Planning Commission Chairman Gerald Klein asked the city attorney's opinion of the proposed law that will require members of planning commissions, councils and chief administrative officers to reveal their finances as public record.

Officials will have to disclose assets of more than $1,000 and gifts and loans or sources of income over $250.

Oliver said a task force is working with the League of California Cities to prepare a statement on the disclosure law.

Recently, the entire Planning Commission of Shasta County resigned rather than comply with the law.

The new law demands that officials also reveal business connections to avoid any conflict of interest.

Kin share Christmas lunch at hospital

CHINO — Togetherness will be the theme of the noon meal at Chino General Hospital on Christmas Day.

Linda Spencer, director of nursing, and John Gaffney, western regional food services director for Dobbs House, Inc., announced that meals will be served to the patients and their immediate families so that all may enjoy the holiday together.

The two stated that what began last year as "an experiment is this year a proven success."

The noontime meal, featuring a gourmet buffet of baked ham, roast turkey and roast prime rib with all the trimmings, will be served in the patient lounge on the second floor.

"For those patients who cannot leave their rooms for medical reasons, the dietary employes will serve them and their guests in the rooms," said Miss Spencer.

Patients who have no relatives may invite close friends to the festivities.

Woman hurt in Chino accident

CHINO — Patricia Ann Hargrove, 26, 505 W. Ralston St., Ontario, was treated at Chino General Hospital for a fractured left elbow Friday night after her car and another collided in the Philadelphia and Central avenues intersection.

The second car was driven by Ysabel S. Munoz Jr., 15, 1646 Farman Place, Pomona. Police said he was not hurt.

A living tree helps ecology

NEW YORK (UPI) — Are you ecology-minded? If you are, join many other homeowners who are turning to live Christmas trees for the holiday. A live tree is one with roots. You use it for Christmas indoors and then plant it later for enjoyment for years.

Get recommendations from your local nursery on varieties suitable for your area. Some of the more popular choices are Scotch pine, Douglas fir, balsam fir, blue spruce, black spruce and Eastern red cedar. Be sure there is enough room on your grounds to accommodate a growing tree of the kind you select.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Ralph Gould, 2 years ago today God called you home leaving us with broken hearts and so all alone as each year goes by. We know someday we will be together again in his home in the sky.

Firemen solve it with water

DOVER, N.H. (UPI) — Four fire trucks responding to an alarm found, instead of a fire, a 10-year-old boy with his tongue stuck on a signpost. James Land got into the predicament Wednesday while waiting for the school bus in 10 degree weather. When the bus arrived, the driver didn't know what to do, so he pulled the alarm.

Firefighters solved the problem by pouring a glass of cold water on Jimmy's tongue, separating it from the metal post.

Hospital rehab unit earns certification

WEST COVINA — The Queen of the Valley Hospital's physical therapy department has been certified as an outpatient rehabilitation treatment center for the central section of East San Gabriel Valley.

This will allow the hospital to treat outpatients covered under the state Medi-Cal program on a long term basis. These patients were previously referred to the County-USC Medical Center.

The state health department approved the certification after an extensive survey of the hospital's available services and facilities.

Patients who suffered spine injuries, strokes, complicated bone structures or had amputations are most likely to be referred to the center by private physicians, officials said.

A team approach will be used in rehabilitation. This will involve more than physical and occupational therapy, they added.

"When an individual has suffered a severe disability, expertise from a number of health sectors is often required," explained Frances Laterza, department director.

"Within our hospital we have individuals and departments skilled in continuing care, social, financial and spiritual counseling who can be most helpful in the rehabilitative process."

Two families given brighter Christmas

POMONA — Two Pomona Valley families will have a brighter Christmas because of police officers, merchants and General Telephone Co. employes.

The families, each with only one parent, have a total of 17 children. They faced a bleak Christmas until workers at the telephone equipment production center learned of their plight.

In less than three weeks, more than 100 utility employes contributed two truckloads of household furniture, three bicycles, clothing and canned goods.

Pomona police supplied two boxes of new toys and local merchants provided new bedding and clothing.

Sheri Koon, a General Telephone Co. clerk, spearheaded the drive. The families were selected with assistance of local school officials.

Both families will also enjoy Christmas turkey dinners — complements of telephone workers.

CHP officer honored for long service

CLAREMONT — Elwyn Richter, assigned to the California Highway Patrol office here, has been presented a certificate marking 25 years of service with the State of California.

His state employment includes nearly three years as a correctional officer at the California Institution for Men at Chino and 22 years as a highway patrolman.

Capt. W. C. Jones, area commander, gave him the certificate Tuesday during a briefing session. It was signed by Gov. Ronald Reagan and CHP Commissioner Walter Pudinski.

Since joining the patrol in 1951, Richter has served at the Pomona, El Monte, Baldwin Park, Mariposa and Claremont offices.

He is presently assigned to special services and is in charge of inspecting two trucks and ambulances, processing abandoned vehicles and investigation auto thefts.

Richter, of Downey, plans to retire next March.

B of A report on U.S.

Economic growth forecast

LOS ANGELES — Despite growing shortages of energy and industrial materials, a Bank of America economic study foresees moderate real growth in the economy in 1974 and no recession.

The forecast, entitled "Focus on the U.S. Economy: 1974," hinges on two basic assumptions.

The first is that Middle East oil production and exports will return to pre-conflict levels in the first quarter of 1974.

Should this not occur then the possibility of a domestic recession would increase, the report says.

The second assumption is that government programs to allocate available supplies of petroleum products will favor agriculture and industry.

"Given these conditions, gross national product in current prices should advance in 1974 by somewhat more than $100 billion or 8 per cent," the study says.

"About three-fourths of the gain will be due to inflation and about one-fourth will be a real increase in goods and services."

Possible shortage of basic minerals hinted by Morton

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton says the United States may soon have a shortage of basic minerals such as iron ore and bauxite and should take steps to become less dependent on foreign supplies.

He told a news conference recently that much of the nation's supply of basic raw materials is imported and that supplying nations, taking a cue from the Arabs and their oil, could jack up prices or take other actions to curtail shipments to the United States.

"We can avoid this, but it will take a hard look and some drastic actions," Morton said. He said the nation must try to build up its inventory and production of basic materials to make it less dependent on foreign suppliers.

The U.S. Geological Survey released a study report last May saying that the country's known deposits of mineral raw materials "are seriously depleted and future supplies must come from subeconomic deposits or from potential resources yet to be discovered."

Home-rule bill OK'd for D.C. Miss Teen Ager

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate passed, 77 to 13, and sent to President Nixon recently a home-rule bill for the District of Columbia.

Residents of the nation's capital will get the right to elect their own city government for the first time in nearly a century under the bill which Nixon is expected to sign shortly.

Although the bill provides for an elected mayor and a city council, Congress and the President retain control over such key functions as the city budget.

The bill won House approval Monday by a 272-74 vote.

America and the future of man

Ultimately, public puts all power behind the law

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the 13th of 20 essays by leading men in the world's academic community. The writer of this essay is professor of law at the University of Chicago. Herein he discusses the role of law in a modern society.)

By PHILIP B. KURLAND

(Copyright, 1973, Regents of the University of California

Law is a means to an end. Its function is to provide rules for the governance of a society.

It is not, however, the creator of society; it is only the creature of society. For law does not determine its own content. Its content is determined by those to whom the society entrusts the lawmaking powers or by those who have imposed themselves as lawmakers on that society.

A system of laws, therefore, can be no better than those who make the laws. The resulting rules may be judged good or bad. But good or bad, the rule of society by law affords the only viable alternatives yet discovered to a rule by force.

Law is, then, a set of rules provided by the governors of a society to control individual behavior within that society. These governors may be the elected representatives of the people, as in a democracy; they may be self-imposed, as in a dictatorship; they may be inheritors of that function, as in a monarchy.

A rational system

Any of these forms of government is capable of utilizing law as a means of rule. But, ordinarily, when we refer to the rule of law, we refer to the promulgation of laws by a rational system rather than through arbitrary imposition by fiat.

The rule of law, as we know it, is implied in Dean Roscoe Pound's dictum: "Civilization involves subjection of force to reason, and the agency of this subjection is law."

Obviously, however, much of the behavior of individuals within a society will not be controlled by rules established by government. Certainly as a society becomes more and more complex and interdependent, the formal rules of law will be directed to more and more of its members' activities.

Nevertheless, no society however complex—at least short of George Orwell's horrific if prescient description in "1984"—can survive in the absence of mutual understanding of what is proper behavior though not dictated by law.

Without such mutual regard for appropriate behavior, what might be termed civility, society will be as riven as if it were without law.

Barbarism vs. civility

If the alternative to the rule of law is the rule of force, the alternative to civility is barbarism. And to the extent that America is threatened by chaos, it is due as much to the decline of civility as it is to the decline of the rule of law.

Law, to be effective, must represent the consensus of the society that it purports to govern. A society fragmented by differences, as this country is today, makes consensus difficult to attain. And the effectuation of the laws becomes that much harder. There must, if the rule of law is to be maintained, be at least a consensus that law is to be obeyed.

This does not mean that the law should be free of criticism, nor that the law cannot be changed. Indeed, where the mechanism for peaceful change is not provided within the system, that system can hardly claim to come within the rule of law.

But change mechanisms provided within the system cannot be equated with active obstruction or defiance of the law, whether by the lowliest individual or the highest official of the land. Both must be equally bound by the rules properly promulgated.

Our system of law is different from all others, including those of other democracies—both in details and in fundamentals. The fundamental objective of the American system is the preservation of the freedom of each individual consistent with the freedom of all other individuals in the society. Other societies have similar aspirations but the American system has been based on written consitutions which purport to control—by a higher rule of law—who shall make the rules and what rules might appropriately be made.

What's the difference?

It is not the rule of law that distinguishes the United States from so many other systems, but the constitutional limitations on the rule of law that put certain matters beyond the reach of any branch of government and restrict lawmaking powers to particular branches of government.

The American Constitution was based on the knowledge through experience that power corrupts the processes of government and threatens the freedom of the individual. Power, the Constitution writers believed, should, therefore, be dispersed rather than concentrated.

Consequently, the Constitution divided the functions of government in what was then a unique federal system between the nation on the one hand and the states on the other.

The national government was to be one of specified, limited powers, delegated from the states or the people.

History has largely destroyed this original concept of federalism, in part because the several communities that were the states became a single community that is the nation, largely through the technological revolutions in transportation, communication and the production of goods.

In part the demise of federalism has also been due to the failure of the states to assume the responsibilities that are necessary concomitants of power, and to the grasp for authority by the central government, which secured powtr through the use of the income tax as the primary source of revenues.

Concentrated powers

Within the national government, the Constitution provided for the dispersal of power through a division of authority among three branches of government, the legislative, the executive and the judical, and a series of checks and balances that each could assert against the others.

Because of their unhappy experience with the British Crown, the writers of the Constitution attempted to provide a strong legislature and a weak executive. But once again history has tended to thwart the intentions of the framers.

Since the Civil War, and more rapidly since the presidency of Franklin D. Roosevelt, power has been moving from the legislative branch to the executive. Today the president claims and exerts powers of lawmaking that are certainly inconsistent with the notion of Congressional primacy.

The shift has come both because of the unwillingness of Congress to assume responsibility and the eagerness with which the executive has grasped at all power that comes within its reach.

Increased concentration of governmental authority in the national government and, within the national government, in the executive branch, increase importance of constitutional provisions which inhibit all parts of government from infringing liberties guaranteed to the people. The Bill of Rights forbids a congeries of actions to the lawmakers of this country, whoever they might be.

But the necessity for interpretation has resulted in the Supreme Court of the United States becoming the penultimate arbiter of their meanings. (The court is only the penultimate authority because the last decision belongs not to the court but to the people, either by way of constitutional amendment—a seldom-used device—or by non-acquiescence in Supreme Court judgment, which fortunately has also been comparatively rare in American history.)

Solons, not judges

Thus, the Supreme Court, too, has become an important lawmaker, because as Bishop Hoadly (the 18th Century philosopher) had it: "Whoever hath an absolute authority to interpret any written or spoken laws, it is he who is truly the lawgiver to all intents and purposes, and not the person who first spoke or wrote them."

In part, too, the lawmaking role of the Supreme Court is based on the common-law tradition by which courts, in the course of their dispute-settling function, created rules to govern decisions in later cases. In part, also, this is due to the necessity, if we are to be a constitutional democracy, of placing somewhere the ultimate authority as to the meaning of the Constitution.

And, since the Bill of Rights is largely a limitation on the powers of the majority and its representatives, the authority seems best placed in those who are not directly responsible to the electorate for their decisions.

This does not or should not mean that the justices of the Supreme Court are free to make of the Constitution whatever their personal predilections would command. In the words of Justice Felix Frankfurter: "'Law alone saves a society from being rent by internecine strife or ruled by mere brute power however disguised . . . The conception of a government of laws dominated the thoughts of those who founded the nation and designed its Constitution, although they knew . . . that laws have to be made, interpreted and enforced by men. To that end they set apart a body of men, who were to be depositaries of law, who by their disciplined training and character and by withdrawal from the usual temptations of private interest may reasonably be expected to be 'as free, impartial, and independent as the lot of humanity will admit.''

They are not perfect

Such a demand on human frailties could not be expected to be perfectly met. It has not been.

Much that the Supreme Court has done is little more than personal choice of proper rules for government, rules that the Constitution had properly placed within the competence of the democratically-chosen Congress rather than the lifetime officials whose selection was by the president with the advice and consent of the Senate, but whose independence from both other branches inheres in the office as described by the Constitution.

In this day when reason has become suspect and emotion admired, law as the epitome of reason based on experience is in danger. The danger was described by C. P. Snow in his novel "Sleep of Reason" in a way that all who lived through the holocaust of Hitlerism and Stalinism can understand perfectly.

"Put reason to sleep, and all the stronger forces would be let loose. We had seen that happen in our lifetime. In the world: and close to us. We knew, we couldn't get out of knowing, that it meant a chance of hell."

We abandon the rule of law, if we do, not with "a chance of hell" but with the certainty of it.

Christmas is... a home for a warm puppy or frisky kitten

PETS ARE LIKE FRIENDS

Of all the animals available for adoption at the Pomona Valley animal shelter, 6-year-old Karen Lodder of La Verne finds a favorite in this short-hair, eight-week-old cat. The shelter, on Roselawn Avenue and West Mission Boulevard, has 36 cats waiting to be adopted at Christmastime.

POMONA — If this Christmas season turns out to be like the one last year, plenty of dogs, puppies, cats and kittens at the animal shelter will find permanent homes before Christmas.

Following publication in 1972 of a story and pictures on the number of cats and dogs available for adoption, 33 were adopted in a single day before Christmas, with only one returned later.

The Humane Society of Pomona Valley's shelter, on Roselawn Avenue at Mission Boulevard, presently is looking for permanent homes for 176 dogs and 36 cats.

Animals at the shelter either were picked up as strays or taken there by previous owners.

"We would like to see every placeable animal in our shelter get a good home, for when they come to us, it's their last chance," said Bruce Richards, executive director of the society.

But Richards says he does not want to see animals given away as gifts and then have the new owners later reject the pets.

He suggests that persons thinking about giving an animal to someone consider whether the new owner will want and welcome the pet, whether he can afford the costs of keeping a pet, whether the owners are aware puppies need housebreaking and go through a chewing and digging stage.

"If you still want to get someone a pet for Christmas, then we hope you will consider one of our homeless pets," said Richards.

"We have them in all sizes, breeds, colors and ages. Some have already received all their medical shots, and a few are already altered."

Business hours at the shelter are Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

TWIN AFFECTION

Sarah Kren, staff member of the Humane Society of Pomona Valley, cuddles 10-week-old male and female puppies, both from the same litter. Twins are a mix of hound dog and German shepherd and can be adopted from the animal shelter.

HE'S ONE OF THREE

But all his brothers are gone. This 10-week-old short haired golden tabby is the last of a litter of three to be adopted. He peers through a window as if to ask, "Is anyone out there who wants to take me home?"

ACTION LINE

To ask help in solving problems with which you have been unsuccessful, write to Action Line, The Progress-Bulletin, P. O. Box 2708, Pomona, Calif. 91766. Sign your full name, address and phone number and include copies (not the original) of receipts or other documentation possible. If your letter is published, only your initials will be used.

Rule book doesn't cover this hazardous crossing

I am writing to see if Action Line can help us keep our children from getting hit by cars.

We live on Buchanan Drive. Our small children must cross McKinley Avenue to go the back, less busy way to Lincoln School on the other side of Garey Avenue.

Twice last week and once the week before our children were nearly hit in the crosswalk by idiot motorists trying to make the light at Orange Grove Avenue.

Several times in the afternoon a lady who lives at the corner has gone out to help the first and second graders cross because the cars won't stop.

We have called the police department and asked for a policeman to be there from 2 to 3 p.m. We have called city hall to ask that school crossing signs be put up and yellow crosswalks be painted.

In each case we were given the runaround. It seems that a child must be hit or killed before anything can be done. — Mrs. A. W., Pomona.

Buchanan comes to an end at McKinley and the crosswalk you refer to leads to a church.

Pomona follows the guidelines adopted by the League of California Cities. The policy on school routes is that a crossing guard may be placed where 200 or more vehicles make a right turn at an intersection, controlled by a signal, in the period of an hour. School crossing signs and a school crosswalk may be provided only within 1,400 feet of the nearest boundary of the elementary school, as set forth by the California Vehicle Code.

We obtained this information from Forest P. Wallick, chief of police, who pointed out that Buchanan Drive does not fall within either of the two categories.

We also talked with Eugene Domeno, principal of Lincoln School. He will ask the Parent-Teacher Association safety chairman to work on the problem. He remarks that there are other corners in the city where visibility is worse.

I asked supervisors at the company I work for why we couldn't work a 10-hour day four days a week during the energy crisis.

That way more electrical energy could be conserved and several thousand persons wouldn't have to drive to work the fifth day.

Their reply was that any company that has government contracts must pay overtime for anything over eight hours. Is this true? — H. L., Chino.

The law varies with different types of contracts, reports Mrs. Caroline Robison, assistant area director of the Wage and Hour Division, U.S. Department of Labor.

Under one type of contract which is in wide use, the firm is required to pay time and a half for work over eight hours a day or 40 a week, whichever overtime is greater.

Mrs. Robison will give you more details if you write to her at Box 81, Whittier, 90608.

Midnight Masses and candlelight communion celebrate Christmas

Christmas, the most joyous of all the seasons of the year, will be celebrated in various forms at church meetings and at family gatherings Monday and Tuesday.

Catholic parishes along with many Protestant congregations will celebrate the traditional candlelight Communion rituals on Christmas Eve. Masses and church services are also scheduled by many congregations on Christmas Day.

Music will be featured at most services and some congregations will conclude the traditional Christmas Eve services with bell ringing ceremonies.

Many families will plan activities Monday evening so that the evening will conclude with the participation in one of the many religious services offered at churches throughout the Pomona Valley.

Some fortunate people will enjoy a four-day holiday and for others the holiday will begin at noon Monday. Most people will have Christmas Day off.

Upland City Hall will be closed Monday and Tuesday. San Dimas, La Verne and Montclair city halls will close at noon Monday and will be closed Tuesday. Claremont City Hall and the Parks and Recreation Department will close Monday at 1 p.m. and on Tuesday.

Monday will be a regular work day for Chino and Walnut but both will be closed Christmas Day.

There will be no trash pickup service in any area cities on Christmas Day and trash pickup will be delayed one day because of the holiday.

The County Board of Supervisors will not hold its usual meeting Monday because of the holiday and area city councils will bypass scheduled meetings for the holiday.

Capt. W. C. Jones of the California Highway Patrol, warns holiday drivers that extra patrols will be on duty with a watchful eye toward the drinking driver.

Religious services are scheduled at the following locations:

POMONA — The traditional candlelight Christmas Eve service will be conducted Monday at 7:15 p.m. featuring the four choirs of the Pilgrim Congregational Church.

The service will feature carols and the Christmas story, directed by Frank Cummings, minister of music.

"The First Mass of Christmas" will be presented at midnight Monday with a candlelight choral service at St. Joseph Catholic Church.

Other Christmas Day Masses will be celebrated at 8, 9:30 and 11 a.m. and 12:15 and 5 p.m.

The Chancel Choir of the Westmont United Methodist Church will present the cantata "Born a King" Monday at 7 p.m. at the church. Ron House will direct the service.

A family candlelighting service will be held at 7 p.m. and a carols and candle service at 11 p.m. Monday at the First Lutheran Church. "International Christmas" will be the theme of the 10 a.m. service Christmas Day. The Rev. Norbert J. Boer, pastor, will officiate at all services.

CHINO — St. Margaret Catholic Church will celebrate the Las Posadas Children's Mass at 7:30 and the Las Posadas Concelebrated High Mass at 11:30 p.m. Monday. Christmas Day Masses will be celebrated at 8, 8:45, 10 a.m. and noon.

A Christmas Eve Communion service will be celebrated Monday at 11 p.m. at the Chino United Methodist Church.

MONTCLAIR — Christmas Eve Masses will be celebrated Monday at 7 p.m. and midnight at Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic Church. Christmas Day Masses will be celebrated at 8, 9, 11 and 12:15 p.m. No evening Mass is scheduled.

Public acts to conserve energy

POMONA — The call to conserve electricity is apparently being heard.

A "measurable" reduction in the amount of electricity used has been reported since Edison Co. officials announced the need for a cutback due to a shortage of fuel.

Vincent Martin, district manager, said Edison Co. now has enough fuel to supply all its 2.5 million Southern California customers provided:

— The suppliers of fuel meet their commitments.

— There can be a 10 per cent reduction in use by customers.

— The company is not directed to share its fuel with other departments of water and power.

"We use about 60 million equivalent barrels of fuel a year to make electricity," he said. "We have firm contracts with suppliers to supply 57 million barrels of fuel.

"If the customers do reduce their useage by 10 per cent, the other three million barrels of fuel will not be needed."

Martin credited the turning off of Christmas lights, a mild winter, and other conservation measures as prime reasons in less electricity being used this year as compared to the comparable period last year.

"Turning off the Christmas lights has helped measurably," he said.

Other conservation measures include turning off unused lights and reducing the number of lamps.

"We have proven throughout the Edison system we can cut back by 14 per cent," said Martin.

"We have removed some lamps. We turn out lights when we leave our offices. And the air conditioning systems have been placed on time clocks so the equipment doesn't operate at nights and on weekends."

The Edison Co. customers used 53 billion kilowatt hours for the 12 months ending last October, he noted. This was an average use of one billion kilowatt hours per week.

The utility is seeking to reduce that useage by about half billion kilowatt hours per month, added Martin.

A need for conservation is reflected by the addition of 45,000 new homes and 1,000 more commercial and industrial buildings during the past year.

"The best we can figure is to expect a four to five per cent increase in kilowatt hour useage because of these new connections," he noted.

Carving of ex-Montclair man displayed in Alaska

MONTCLAIR — The woodcarving work of James Schrock, formerly of Montclair, was recently displayed at the University of Alaska's William R. Wood Student Activities Center in Fairbanks.

Schrock's hand-carved "Eagle Figure" is a five-feet-tall rendition of a form used by the Tlingit tribes of southeastern Alaska coupled with flower designs reminiscent of California pop art.

Schrock, 27, is an Athapaskan Indian born in the central Alaskan town of Tanana. He and his brother, Jay, were raised in Montclair by their foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Schrock of 5525 Palo Verde St.

Schrock is currently a student in the university's Extension Center in Arts and Crafts, in which he enrolled in 1971 after attending Chaffey College.

"Eagle Figure" was begun in that same year and Schrock worked on it intermittently for two years. During the period he also illustrated six books for the Koyukon Bilingual Foundation and carved the mahogany doors for the entrance of the new Anchorage Supreme Court Building.

Christmas—the right kind of disruption

The reason we have the Christmas Rush is simple. We all keep trying to maintain our regular schedules of work, employment and daily activity — and then add to our carefully arranged hours the celebration of Christmas.

It won't work. How can you lead a normal existence of cleaning, grocery shopping and commuting while addressing Christmas cards, buying a tree, and singing in the "Messiah"? Christmas is an interruption, just the one we need.

The Yule season brings other elements, and they are most intruding. The memories of childhood and youth, the recall of family and old friends. The reminder of another time and place. In 1900, Robert Louis Stevenson wrote in Scribner's Magazine: "And in the midst of winter, when his life runs lowest and he is reminded of the empty chairs of his beloved, it is well he should be condemned to this fashion of the smiling face".

Stevenson blended sorrow and joy, past and present when he came to Christmas. Yet he welcomed the disruption, even with the hard memories of a broken family, for life must have its lift in "lowest" December.

This famous writer was asking his readers to believe that "gentleness and cheerfulness, these came before morality" and he wrote from a room and life surrounded with sickness. And the major point of his Christmas article was the recall of a poem by W.M. Henley (1888) perhaps the only poem that many will read this year:

A late lark twitters from the quiet skies;
And from the West, where the sun, his days work ended,
Lingers as in content,
There falls on the old gray city
An influence luminous and serene,
A shining peace.

Christmas helps us to discover a different arrangement for our lives, some new parcels of hope, some fresh words like "joy" and "peace". And they improve with use.

Washington press corps: a paper tiger?

Has the press always been "out to get" Richard Nixon? Is it guilty of "malicious, outrageous, hysterical" attacks on the President under the all-encompassing theme of Watergate?

Just the opposite is true, contends columnist and author Jim Bishop. "History," he says, "will show that in 1972 the American press was browbeaten into submission by Nixon."

There were 143 days, he notes, between the June 17th break-in at Democratic National Committee Headquarters in the Watergate apartment complex and election day. His review of the leading publications during that time span shows that hundreds of newspapers were so busy defending themselves against White House attacks on their integrity that Watergate was buried as a "caper."

"In spite of unremitting White House flogging," 93 per cent of all American newspapers, entranced by China trips and Soviet wheat deals, endorsed Richard Nixon for a second term. Watergate was dismissed as a minor obscenity which had been uncovered by two novice reporters of the Washington Post. The White House press corps "bought" the official line that it was just a "third-rate burglary."

Of 433 political writers in Washington, only a dozen were assigned to uncover "the writhing slime under the lid of Watergate." The Associated Press, with 65 reporters, assigned no one. United Press International, with 51, turned its back on the story.

This was hardly the demeanor of a tigerish press, says Bishop. Rather, it tended toward derelection of duty.

"Those of us who regard ourselves as reporters of discernment and conscience helped make Richard Nixon," he concludes. "Those who think the press destroyed Nixon have it backwards. He destroyed himself."

Another deflating assessment of the supposed power of the press comes in the form of a book, "Reporters and Officials: The Organization and Politics of Newsmaking," just published by Lexington Books.

The news that appears in major daily newspapers is less a sampling of what is happening in the world than a selection of what officials think, or want the press to report, is happening, claims its author Leon V. Sigal, a research associate of the 20th Century Fund.

For example, officials and agencies of the U.S. government accounted for nearly half of all news sources for page-one stories in the New York Times and Washington Post between 1949 and 1969, he says.

"Whether the topic is the military balance in Europe or poverty in Appalachia, a skyjacking over Miami or Soviet missiles launched from beneath the sea, it is likely to break into the news when it appears on the desks of senior American officials and not before then," says Sigal.

And what the newspapers say about it, he adds, "will reflect to a considerable extent what officials say about it."

Study backs higher gas prices

WASHINGTON — Private government studies, bearing out President Nixon's apprehensions, have concluded that gasoline rationing not only would create an "administrative monstrosity" but would deteriorate into a black market system.

Instead of paying higher prices to legitimate dealers, customers would wind up paying black market operators, the studies warn. Already, hundreds of thousands of barrels of fuel are available on the black market at prices substantially higher than the Cost of Living Council has authorized.

The government studies cite the World War II experience, when crime syndicates did a brisk black market business and ration stamps were widely counterfeited. Yet World War II was a time of intense national patriotism.

Without these patriotic pressures upon the consumers, suggest the studies, the black market would flourish. Ration stamps would also be easier to counterfeit on today's offset presses.

In place of rationing, the President's energy advisers favor higher fuel prices with a development tax that would divert excess profits into the search for new sources of energy.

SECRET TESTIMONY: Senate Watergate investigators are digging into charges, made behind closed doors, that President Nixon and his brother have secret bank accounts with fugitive financier Robert Vesco in the Bahamas.

The allegation of the financial link with Vesco was made by John Meier, a former consultant to billionaire Howard Hughes. Meier was once a neighbor, friend and occasional business associate of the President's brother.

A transcript of the secret session quotes Meier as saying: "I was told by Don on numerous occasions that both Don and his brother Richard — I don't know if Ed was mentioned — had accounts with Vesco in the Bahamas. That was in 1971 and 1972." Ed is the President's other brother, who carried a $200,000 cash donation from Vesco to the President's campaign committee last year.

Later in the interrogation, the transcript quotes Meier as saying: "I also had conversations with Donald about Vesco, his brother Richard and the accounts in the Bahamas. These discussions also involved Howard Hughes and Vesco."

Son works for Vesco

Donald Nixon's son, Donald Jr., went to Europe to become an aide to Vesco at Investors Overseas Services in July 1971. Young Donald is still employed by Vesco.

During the meeting with the Watergate committee staff, Meier was asked if young Donald, also a friend of Meier's, knew about the bank accounts.

"I don't know," Meier said. "Donnie seemed to be a nice young man whose political beliefs were closer to Robert Kennedy's than Richard Nixon's."

The Bahamian government recently refused to extradite Vesco to the United States to face only the least serious of four federal indictments against him.

Vesco could not be reached at his Bahamas Commonwealth Bank and sources close to him said he is now in Costa Rica, a nation that not only gives him shelter but also has granted him a diplomtic passport. Vesco could not be reached in Costa Rica.

NO COMMENT

The White House said it does not comment on charges stemming from the Watergate Committee and a spokesman told us: "I think that will be our situation."

The President's brother, however, responded angrily to the statement. Switching the call to a speaker phone so his wife, Clara Jane, could "take this down," he termed the testimony "completely false and completely a lie."

"I never had any account outside this country," he said.

Mrs. Nixon was equally angered. "I don't know why everybody is trying to get Don Nixon," she said. "He was never involved in any campaigns."

"You keep quiet, Clara Jane," Donald said. He then called investigations into his financial affairs "witch hunting," and asserted: "I've never done anything improperly or dishonestly. I never took a dime from anyone."

HUGHES APPEARANCE: Howard Hughes, the bizarre billionaire recluse, has signed an affidavit promising to appear as a witness in his suit against a number of former business associates.

The secretive Hughes, who is believed to be living at the Inn in the Park in London, has not been seen in public in years. Since surreptitiously leaving his hotel hideaway in Las Vegas in 1970, Hughes has reportedly lived in the Bahamas, British Columbia and Nicaragua.

More recently, the Hughes organization has taken an entire floor at the London hotel and posted armed guards at the entrances.

In his suit against his former colleagues, Hughes has alleged that he was overcharged millions of dollars by his associates in the purchase of gold and silver mines in Nevada.

As part of the suit, Hughes' lawyers have filed the affidavit, in which Hughes promised he will make himself available for questioning by the defendants.

The Hughes papers are in the hands of U.S. District Court Judge Aldon J. Anderson in Salt Lake City.

In his affidavit, signed in London, Hughes said: "I shall be available to appear for deposition therein, and shall appear upon proper notice in accordance with and as required by the orders of the court."

A clerk for Judge Anderson told us she did not know if the signature on the affidavit had been checked for authenticity.

Oddly enough, the Hughes document was filed at the time Chester Davis, a lawyer who is now running Hughes' far-flung operations in the United States was fighting subpoenas for Hughes executives to appear before the Senate Watergate Committee.

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES: CBS correspondent Daniel Schorr may soon be covering the Watergate trials from the inside. He has received a summons for jury duty from the U.S. District Court presided over by Judge John Sirica. . . . The sizeable crowd that congregated on the White House lawn to greet Romanian President Nicolae Ceausecu wasn't there by accident. Many were government employes who were brought in to ensure that the Communist leader had a respectable welcoming party.

Gossip for today

All I know is what I read in the newspapers—and if their reports are true, this still just has to be the greatest of all possible nations despite some of the unfortunate things that are happening in our country today. How could it be otherwise? Among our many blessings we now have:

1. A reducing belt with a warning device on it that toots when you relax and let your stomach hang out over your belt buckle.

2. A soft drink can with a self contained chilling system.

3. A suggestion from the Agricultural Research Service that the meat shortage can be alleviated by artificially inducing cows to have twins.

And when it comes to making this the best of all possible nations, due credit should also be given to our legal experts.

1. A Colorado Supreme Court has ruled that it is not a crime for a person to wear a U. S. Flag sewn to the seat of his pants.

2. A Federal court in New York is ruling on the distance a photographer will be allowed to approach Jacqueline Onassis.

Then, under the heading of dramatic new breakthroughs for improving national health:

1. The government has ordered the country's bakers to double the iron content of white bread.

2. The American Medical Association reports that coffee may be better and a lot less expensive than drugs in calming restless children.

And finally, to offset our financial ills brought about by the devaluated dollar, some government experts are wisely urging that the $2 bill be reissued and once again put into circulation.

So, as anyone can easily see, this country's so full of such wonderful things I'm sure we should all be as happy as kings. Certainly we can look forward to a much better fate than that recently predicted by Lord Rothchild for the British Isles. He says that by 1985 the English will be the poorest and drunkest people in the world.

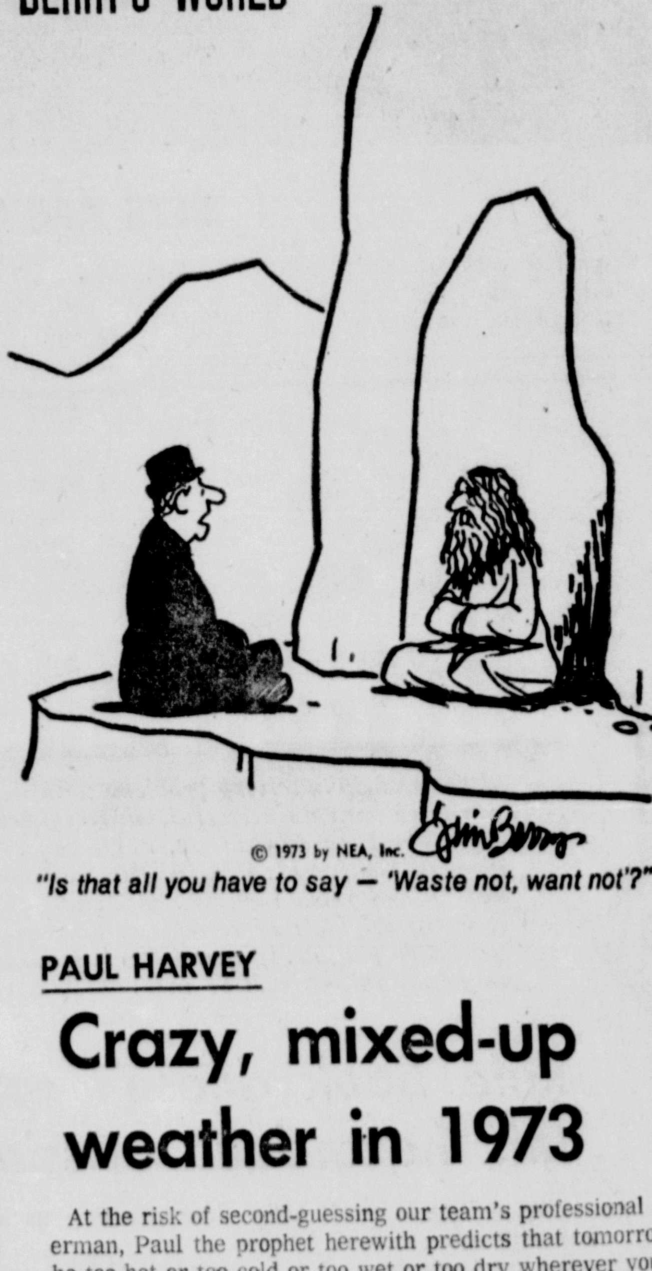
BERRY'S WORLD



"Is that all you have to say — 'Waste not, want not'?"

PAUL HARVEY

Crazy, mixed-up weather in 1973

At the risk of second-guessing our team's professional weatherman, Paul the prophet herewith predicts that tomorrow will be too hot or too cold or too wet or too dry wherever you are.

World weather-watchers, with an assist from our Skylab crew, have revised their long-range forecast. An International Conference on Radiation and Remote Probing of the Atmosphere drew a hundred scientists from 50 nations to the University of California.

There they evaluated present evidence and concluded that whatever is happening to the world's weather it's not our fault. Also, that there is no more dust in the atmosphere now than 2,000 years ago. And that with radiation-sensing satellites we are now capable of detecting changes in the world's climate which would have been imperceptible a few years ago, but "man's activities show no evidence of changing his world's climate."

This contradicts the environmentalists who have blamed recent floods and droughts on manufacturing, open burning and automobiles.

But with all that we can learn from these supersensitive satellites plus human observation from Skylab, the only safe prediction for the world's future weather is that it will "fluctuate."

This year in the semiarid region below Africa's Sahara, millions are threatened with starvation due to the most prolonged drought on record. But remember, we've kept records on tha area for less than 50 years.

The edge of that parched desert is apparently creeping south some 30 miles per year, turning range land, farms and towns to sand.

Droughts have been altogether as severe this year in Russia, India and China — yet Pakistan is hungry this year because of flooding more vicious than in modern memory.

Our own Great Plains have had a severe drought every two decades since before the UnCivil War. But during the past [illegible] years our whole hemisphere has been cooling off.

We've had some crazy, mixed-up weather in 1973, including an unprecedented drenching of the plains states. If the weather clock were on time, the Mississippi River would have dried up this year instead of overflowing.

So, though the consensus of scientists now seems to be that man is not to blame, as climatologist Dr. H. H. Lamb puts it: "We are seeing the beginning of the greatest shift in world climate since the 18th century."

Where man's motorcars and smokestacks and land misuse appear of little consequence in altering weather patterns and cycles, nonetheless vast changes are under way, changes which may stretch out over many centuries.

Perhaps it is the tilting back and forth of the earth on its axis which alters our juxtaposition to the sun. But if you want to buy into the stock market on the basis of the prognosis of the weather chartists of what's in store for the United States the next few years, you'll buy stock in soda pop and air conditioners and irrigation pumps. And if you buy real estate in Northern states before their winters moderate, your great great grandchildren may really have something.

ANCIENT ART — This Persian gold bracelet of the 10th-11th centuries is one of the works in an exhibition of Islamic art now being held at the county Museum of Art. Some 500 paintings, textiles, bronzes, ceramics and works of calligraphy, metal and glass are on display through March 3 in the Hammer Wing. The exhibit covers the years 700 to 1900.

Gallery displays gift of Chinese ceramics

LOS ANGELES — A collection of Chinese ceramics, the gift of the late Nasli M. Heeramaneck to the county Museum of Art, is on display in the Far Eastern section of the Ahmanson Gallery through March 3.

The comprehensive exhibit of 60 works of art traces Chinese ceramic production through many centuries, from a large Neolothic mortuary urn to the porcelains of the Ch'ing Dynasty.

Since the New Stone Age, ceramics in China have been the most enduring medium for making objects of practical utility which were often creations of great beauty. In the Far East the artistic genius of the Chinese found in ceramics a natural outlet for aesthetic expression. For more than 2,000 years they have made high-fired porcelaneous wares of unsurpassed excellence and ceramic glazes universally admired for their sumptuous textures and enchanting colors.

The Heeramaneck gift contains a number of important masterpieces of Far Eastern ceramics, according to George Kuwayama, senior curator of Far Eastern art. Among these are monumental funerary sculptures from the Han and T'ang Dynasties, with court ladies and magnificent horses rendered in careful detail.

Of special interest is the "Kneeling Lady," which has the characteristic smooth, almost abstract modeling and fine features of Han tomb sculpture. The famed Sung Imperial wares called Ting, Chun Kuan and Lung-ch'uan are also represented by deep green northern celadons, Chun wares of the palest delicate blue, white Ting porcelain with clear-cut designs and dramatic dark green Lung-ch'uan porcelain. The popular wares of Tz'u-chou are represented by group of ceramic pillows embellished with a variety of decorative designs.

A 48-page illustrated catalog by George Kuwayama will be available in the Museum bookshop for $3. Free guided tours are offered Thursdays at 12:30 p.m. The exhibition can be seen Tuesday to Friday 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and weekends 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Admission is free. The museum is at 5905 Wilshire Blvd.

A free lecture on Chinese celadon porcelains, given by Robert Griffing Jr., will be presented Jan. 27 at 2 p.m. in the Leo S. Bing Theater.

Enlighten your mind

By JEAN ADAMS

IN THE DARK: (Q.) I am photographer on my high-school newspaper staff. Each day I come into contact with several good-looking girls in the dark room. I get the feeling that they want me to do something obscene with them.

Outside they are really nice kids, but something happens to them in the dark. What should I do?—Tempted in Texas

(A.) Because this seems to be happening over and over to YOU, I believe that it is all in YOUR mind, and not in the minds of the girls in the dark with you.

Even if one should make a pass of some kind at you, remember that as a student news photographer you are in training to be a professional, and should behave in the manner of a pro. A doctor or a lawyer or a journalist would conduct himself professionally. So should you.

BAD GRADES: (Q.) My parents have told me I am not going to get anything at Christmas because my grades are bad. They say I don't try. I DO try. I sit near the front so I can see the teacher and the board better and I study in the afternoon because at night I get eyestrain. Please help me.—Unhappy Christmas in Florida.

(A.) It appears to me that you may need glasses. This might solve your problem. You should have an eye check by your ophthalmologist and a check on your general health by your family doctor.

No matter what the trouble is, your parents should not discipline you by withholding Christmas gifts. If discipline is needed, it should be in some other form. Show this to your parents.

'Gypsy' headlines subscription series

LOS ANGELES — The Theater Guild subscription series at the Shubert Theater will offer five musicals, starting with Angela Lansbury in "Gypsy" in April.

The fifth musical on the card is "Good News," a popular hit of the '20s. It will star Alice Faye and John Payne.

"Irene," starring Debbie Reynolds; "A Little Night Music," with Jean Simmons, and "Pippin," with the New York Company are the other shows of the Theatre Guild's second season at the Shubert.

"Good News" is the latest offering of producer Harry Rigby whose success first with Ruby Keeler in "No, No Nanette," — and then with Debbie Reynolds in "Irene," marked the golden return of the 20's musicals.

Abe Burrows, whose credits as writer or director encompass such works as "Guys and Dolls," "Silk Stockings" and "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," is directing "Good News" for which he has also written a new adaptation of the book.

The score, which contains such tuneful numbers as "The Best Things in Life Are Free," "The Varsity Drag" and the title song, has music by Ray Henderson and lyrics by Buddy DeSylva and Lew Brown. Other standards by the same composers such as "You're the Cream in My Coffee" and "Button Up Your Overcoat" are being included.

"Good News" also marks the re-union of Miss Faye and Payne, Hollywood motion picture musical co-stars.

"Gypsy," is the new production of the Arthur Laurents-Jule Styne-Stephen Sondheim Broadway show. Miss Lansbury's performance in this longrun sellout at London's Piccadilly Theater has been hailed by critics.

"Irene," in which Miss Reynolds has been playing to capacity audiences on Broadway, was directed by Gower Champion, with musical numbers staged by Peter Gennaro. In the title role, Miss Reynolds once again demonstrates the versatility that has been the hallmark of her career in films, television, nightclubs and now the Broadway stage.

"A Little Night Music," in which Miss Simmons will be making her musical stage debut, is the richly melodic, polished and sophisticated presentation that has been accorded, among its many theater citations, both the Tony and New York Drama Critics' Circle awards as this year's Best Musical. Suggested by Ingmar Bergman's film, "Smiles of a Summer Night," the production, for which Hugh Wheeler wrote the book, is the latest in a string of Harold Prince (producer-director) and Sondheim (composer-lyricist) award-winning musicals.

"Pippin" is an extravaganza in which the son of the French emperor, Charlemagne, experiences the realities of life. Bob Fosse, winner of an Oscar for "Cabaret" and an Emmy for "Liza with a Z," also won two Tony Awards for his direction and choreography of this Broadway hit.

All five musicals can be seen on the Theater Guild Subscription Series. Subscribers select their seat locations for the entire season, guaranteeing themselves the best seats, prior to any mail orders, parties, clubs or box office sales.

Subscribers receive their tickets by mail, well in advance of performance date, and have the privilege of exchanging them if they cannot attend their regular subscription performances. Tickets may be exchanged by mail.

Theater goers can get details from Mrs. Kay Huber, Theater Guild Manager, at the Shubert — 2020 Avenue of the Stars, Century City, Los Angeles 90067, (213)556-1613.

MSAC opens new year in artful style

WALNUT — The first of the new year's art exhibitions at the Mt. San Antonio College Gallery will open with a reception at 8 p.m. Jan. 4.

The exhibition will feature the drawings of Margaret Nielsen and the sculpture-combines and watercolors of Scott Grieger. Miss Nielsen's pieces employ a form she calls "fantastical." Greieger's sculpture-combines present an unusual approach with this medium, and his watercolors have been called "a parody on past art work."

Regular gallery hours are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Mondays through Fridays to Jan. 25.

The gallery will present "Black Artists — 1974" Feb. 1 through 23; "The Fourth MSAC Biennial: Painting and Drawing" March 6 through April 4; "Words and Images" April 15 through May 9, and the 28th annual Student Art Exhibition May 16 through June 3.

Terminal work delays opening

GRAPEVINE, Tex. (UPI) — The new 17,500-acre Dallas-Fort Worth airport is now faced with the job of getting ready for commercial air traffic.

The $700 million facility was scheduled to open Oct. 28 but airport board members said unfinished terminal facilities may delay regular traffic until January.

Erma Bombeck

Attention: All Christmas newsletter writers.

You can't see me, but I am waving a white flag, which means I am ready to negotiate a peace settlement. Last year, when I wrote an anti-newsletter column, I really got ripped off by readers who said, "You are just jealous of other children's achievements." (You think making license plates in an institution isn't an achievement?) Another one wrote, "All right, Bombeck, the only reason you want to stamp out newsletters is that your name starts with a "B" and you have no consideration for those of us who come later in the alphabet and don't get the warm, chatty note but a simple, "Hi, More later. Merry Xmas."

But the one that got through to me was a lady who pointed out that this column is a yearly newsletter of trivia and nonsense. You know something? She's right.

And to show you what a sport I am, today's column will be devoted to actual excerpts from some of the hundreds of Christmas newsletters I received last year from other families.

"Dear Friends, This past year wasn't one of our best years. Stan and I both had surgery. Also, my father who is almost blind and has a malignancy was with us recovering from one of his 'routine' surgeries. However, Stan and I still manage to keep going in our puny ways. He goes to doctor of ulcers and I go every three weeks for vitamin B-12 shots. Supposed to be anemic and have low blood pressure, but nothing keeps me down. Our very best for a joyous holiday season."

Dear Gang: The— have a new addition this year. We bought a watchdog and she's been wonderful: bit three children trick or treating, sex-molested a prize-winning poodle and chewed up $3,000 worth of clothes and a Christmas tree."

"Dear Friend: Another Christmas finds the — family in an absolute mess. The year held all sorts of surprises like the breaking of the sewer system while reinforcing our sinking foundation."

"Christmas 1973: Fred is in his 4th quarter of — and just produced a prize-winning 16 mm film. He earned the money for the movie working in bike repair and composed part of the film's music. He is also doing a macrame wall hanging and sings in the choir.

"Happy Holidays: Ceilia is 13 now and is back on gamma globulin injections for her blood deficiency. She is hopeful the orthodontist will remove her dental braces. Her stamp collection is expanding. Grandma renewed her driver's license in September and was required to take only the written and visual test."

In other epistles, we learn that Marlo and Erica got their ears pierced, Eleanor and Vic carpeted their porch, the snowman melted and they met Cardinal Cook (not in the same day) and Dwayne got a new job in an organic fertilizer factory.

Have a Merry Christmas — Happy Hanukkah — Chinese New Year — Weekend away from the kids — (Check one).

Los latino-americanos o mexico-americanos abarcan el 13 por ciento de los empleados municipales regulares, mas el 16 por ciento de la poblacion de la cuidad, y 16 por ciento de trabajadores en Pomona.

De acuerdo con el informe de Septiembre, de las 765 personas trabajando tiempo completo, 610 eran hombres y 155 eran mujeres.

(Desde el informe de 1969, habido un numero de cambios en cuanto a como se toma periodicamente este reconocimiento.)

El reconocimiento de Septiembre tambien pone en lista a 179 empleados por horas, de los cuales un estimo de 50 por ciento tenia posiciones permanentes a medio tiempo.

Del total de 179, 118 eran anglo-americanos, 41 eran negros, 15 eran de extraccion espanol, 4 eran orientales y uno era indio americano.

El informe de 1973 muestra que de 236 jovenes empleados para trabajar durante el verano, 15 eran anglo-americanos, 117 eran negros, 103 eran latino-americanos y uno indio americano.

Un informe de la ciudad que fue hecho publico en 1969 clasifico a 566 de los 667 empleados regulares de la ciudad como caucasicos, 17 como negros y 75 como latino-americanos y 9 come "otros."

Este mismo informe pone en lista a 205 empleados por horas o al dia, incuyendo 164 caucasicos, 23 negros, 12 latino-americanos y seis "otros."

Para cumplir con los requisitos del estado y federal, el gobierno de la ciudad esta actualmente trabajando en un Programa de Accion Afirmativa para aumentar las oportunidades de empleos en el "City Hall" para las minorias y para las mujeres.

For Sunday, Dec. 23

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Follow your impulses today, especially generous ones. You'll know instinctively the right thing to do for one you love.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You will profit in the long run if you put the needs of your mate or sweetheart above you own at this time.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Although your mind is able to grasp facts quickly, today it will be even more so. Quick decisions will be your best.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You'll feel better if you can get out in the fresh air for a little mild exercixe. Even a brief session will be beneficial.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You don't want to be around people today who take things too seriously. The youngster in you will be happier with others who think fun.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Toward afternoon you may get some drop-ins you weren't planning on. Better have some snacks set aside.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Someone you haven't heard from for a while wants to get in touch. He has some last-minute plans to share.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Conditions that have an effect upon your basic security continue to hold promise. This will enhance your attitude and optimism.

SAGGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll be rather restless! Don't get into a situation where you'll feel too pinned-down. Have your exit lines ready.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You can rely on your intuition today. It will help you perceive things more clearly. Trust the little guy inside.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Those you'll find most enjoyable are people who express new ideas you can learn from. Conservative traditionalists will bore you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You could be in for a surprise when one you thought you could never impress hangs on your every word and praises your ideas.

Your Birthday
Dec. 23

Don't discuss your plans prematurely this year. Just quietly pursue your goals. When things are far enough along others will see for themselves your amazing progress.

For Monday, Dec. 24

ARIES (March 21-April 19) The demands placed upon you today by others will be rather severe. Do your best, but remember, it's impossible to please everyone.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Give of yourself without expecting anything in return. Then you'll be able to appreciate more fully whatever anyone does for you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't let your impulsive generosity lead you into debt. It will later be difficult to get out from under.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You and your mate will be overly sensitive as to how each treats the other. Don't wait for him to make the initial move.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Poor preparation could make more work for you than necessary today. Plan carefully. Find the best way to handle things.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Normally you're self-disciplined. Today, you could let your guard down a little too far. Be moderate in your activities.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Family responsibilities will be much heavier than usual. Approach them philosophically. Make them a labor of love, not a chore.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You could easily misinterpret remarks of others and respond with hostitlity. Be patient. Above all, be forgiving.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're going to have to keep a very tight rein over your finances at this time. It's not a good period to assume obligations.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be tolerant of the wishes of others. You'll be a much bigger person if you make concessions to maintain harmony.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you're attending a social function today don't overindulge and then insist on driving. Let someone else drive or take a cab.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You could be a bit too flirtatious at the office party and later regret it. Don't let temptation overpower your common sense.

Dec. 24

You'll set very demanding goals for yourself this year and they will require much self-sacrifice. Be sure your aims are worth the effort.

Allow new pet time to get acquainted

By DR. FRANK MILLER

EASY DOES IT when it comes to taking proper care of a new pet. Remember your home is a new and potentially overpowering environment for that new family member. Be sure the surroundings are as right as you can make them before you bring the pet home. Allow plenty of time for it to familiarize itself with its new surroundings and become secure in them before piling on new situations. Appropriate confinement insures success in the introduction process, not only for puppies but for birds, kittens, rodents, reptiles and, of course, fish.

Preplanning prevents possible problems. For example, plan to confine the new puppy to a small, easy-to-clean area until you are satisifed it is already housebroken or you help it accomplish this feat. Don't make unreasonable demands on your new pet or expect it to know what is right or wrong before it has been taught the difference. This will take time.

Don't force your attention on your new pet be it goldfish or Great Dane pup. In most cases, if you are patient the animals will demonsteate soon enough their desire to make friends. (The more exotic the animal the more time it is likely to take for this getting-acquainted process.)

DEAR DR. MILLER: First it was my seven-year-old spaniel. He has been drinking heavier and heavier lately and I have wondered about it. Now his three-year-old son is doing the same thing. At this point, they are both drinking like fish. It would be a real problem if they didn't have a doggy door where they could come in and out as they wanted to. It does make me curious, though, as to how you would account for their drinking habits?—T. A.

Dear T. A.: Both may be hitting the water bowl heavily lately because of some dietary change. There could be a possibly higher percentage of salt or even sugar in their diet which would stimulate them to drink more. It could also be that the youngsters is merely mimicking his father; he might just be drinking to keep up with his "old man." Your senior spaniel could, at his age, have an organic problem which causes his excessive thirst. Most commonly this would be a kidney condition, less frequently a hormone imblance and-or a pancreatic disturbance with a related diabetes syndrome. Diet lists, urine samples and the dogs themselves should all be checked out by the doctor.

Would-be helpers 'meanest he met'

WARRENTON, Mo. (UPI) — When two men pulled alongside O.W. Williams in a pickup truck recently during a snowstorm, Williams expected them to help him get his stalled car moving again.

Instead, the men pushed his car into a deep ravine and stole his snow scraper.

"Those are the two meanest men I ever met," Williams said.

Rams, Cowboys duel in Dallas showdown

DALLAS (UPI) — The playoff-tested Dallas Cowboys and the surprising Los Angeles Rams tangle today to decide one team in the NFC championship game and to decide what kind of holiday season the clubs will have.

"Half of us are going to have a sad Christmas," said Cowboy coach Tom Landry on the eve of the contest, "and the other half is going to have a very merry one."

Excellent weather is forecast for the game at Texas Stadium, where temperatures are predicted in the 70s. The contest will be televised on channel 2 at 1 p.m. A pre-game telecast begins at 12:30.

"Dallas comes into the playoffs as one of the hottest teams in pro football," said Los Angeles coach Chuck Knox. "Their defense has been playing fantastically well.

"They have been in the playoffs year after year (this is the eighth straight), they have been to the Super Bowl, they have won the Super Bowl and they have had one All-Pro after another.

"You walk down the street and ask people to name some Dallas Cowboys and they can name them all. People have a hard time naming many of our players."

Two Ram players well known to Dallas fans, however, are quarterback John Hadl and flanker Harold Jackson, who teamed for four touchdowns in the regular season meeting between these two clubs—a 37-31 triumph for Los Angeles.

All week replays of the Hadl Jackson show have been shown on Dallas television stations.

"That last game seems to have gotten the attention of everybody," said Landry. "But the strength is still their running game. You don't expect to stop their running game. You just hope to slow it down."

Larry McCutcheon, who gained 1,097 yards despite missing two games, and Jim Bertelsen (854 yards) make up the consistent Ram running attack which does so much to set up the accurate passing of Hadl.

The Cowboys will counter with Calvin Hill (1,142 yards) and Walt Garrison (440), both of whom carry injuries. Both, however, will start.

But Dallas hopes could ride chiefly with its suddenly stingy defense and the recently on target throwing of Roger Staubach.

The Cowboy defense has allowed only one touchdown in the last three games and Staubach has hit more than 70 per cent of his passes over the same stretch.

That same three-game period coincides with the time that Landry has returned to calling the plays himself.

"Roger has accepted my calling the plays," Landry said. "He does things that are best for the team."

Los Angeles, playing with few peaks or valleys all season, finished with its best record in history—12-2. Dallas wound up 10-4, having to win the last three games to ensure a playoff berth.

The Rams bring the NFC's No. 1 offense and defense into the game while Dallas ranks No. 2 in offense and No. 3 in defense.

Tarkenton is a winner in his first playoff game

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI)—Fran Tarkenton played 13 years of professional football before he finally got into his first playoff game Saturday.

He wasn't about to waste the opportunity with the kind of conservative, play-it-safe strategy you usually associate with pro football playoff games.

"They can't say we went out there and sat on the ball. We came out throwing at the start and we were throwing at the finish," Tarkenton said after he led the Minnesota Vikings to a 27-20 NFC playoff victory over the defense-minded Washington Redskins. Minnesota will now meet the winner of Sunday's Dallas-Los Angeles game on Dec. 30 for a berth in the Super Bowl.

Tarkenton made the Viking strategy obvious the first time they had the ball when he threw a long bomb on a third-and-one play from the Minnesota 22. John Gilliam was in the clear but the ball skidded off the end of his fingertips.

"I really felt bad about missing that one," Gilliam said. "We hadn't used that play all year. Usually I go out of the game on a short yardage situation like that. But we figured they'd be looking for the run in that kind of situation and we worked on it during the week."

Gilliam, who also dropped a sideline pass in the first half, redeemed himself in the fourth period when he burned reserve back Speedy Duncan on touchdown catches of 28 and six yards.

When the Vikings failed to get a first down in the first period, the critics were wondering if Tarkenton was again going to fail. But he took charge in the fourth period after the Vikings fell behind 13-10 and directed the 71-yard touchdown drive in eight plays that put the team ahead to stay.

"I've been called a loser and I've been called a scrambler," Tarkenton said. "The only thing I want to be known as is a winner."

The Vikes trailed 7-3 at halftime and credited Carl Eller's emotional halftime outburst for spurring them on.

"Eller didn't write on the blackboard," Oscar Reed said. "He punched it, tossed it around and kicked it. Man, he was really worked up. He told us to get off our dead behinds and start playing football."

That's what the Vikings did in the final period when Tarkenton's two touchdown passes turned the game around.

Tarkenton's first touchdown pass to Gilliam, who couldn't hold on to a pair of important tosses in the first half, climaxed a brilliant 71-yard drive in eight plays to wipe out a 13-10 Washington lead.

On Washington's next offensive play, Nate Wright picked off a pass by Billy Kilmer—the Washington quarterback who played an excellent game considering the fact that he got out of the hospital on Thursday.

Wright returned the ball 26 yards to the Washington 8, and two plays later, Tarkenton came up with the kind of patented "Scrambling Fran" play that has given him his reputation. Trapped behind the line of scrimmage, he darted to his left, reversed his field, and then started running to his right as his receivers moved frantically in the end zone. Tarkenton then hit Gilliam in the right corner of the end zone for the touchdown.

That made it 24-13 and proved to be the difference after Washington's Ken Stone blocked a punt and Kilmer fired a 28-yard touchdown pass to Roy Jefferson with 5:28 remaining in the game.

Fred Cox kicked a 30-yard field goal with 1:40 remaining to give the Vikings their final victory margin of seven points. The Vikings had been favored by eight.

A Tarkenton scramble on his second touchdown pass was the kind of play that used to drive Coach Norm Van Brocklin wild in Tarkenton's first stint with the Vikings. It was Van Brocklin who first hung the tag on Tarkenton as an exciting player who would blow as many games with his unorthodox play as he would win with them. But now Tarkenton has led the Vikings to 13 wins in 15 games this season.

F. Robby, Wills in run for Yank job

NEW YORK (UPI) — Frank Robinson, Dave Bristol, Eddie Stanky, Maury Wills, Bill White, etc.—all the familiar names—have returned to the forefront as candidates for the New York Yankee managerial job in the wake of Joe Cronin's turnabout decision last week that made Dick Williams still property of the Oakland A's.

With Williams having been snatched from beneath their Christmas tree and replaced by a stocking full of coal by Cronin and A's owner Charles O. Finley, the Yankees now face a decision of either (1) finding a new manager to replace the departed Ralph Houk or (2) compensating Finley with some prize players.

While Finley has previously demanded players such as all stars Bobby Murcer and Thurman Munson as payment for the rights to sign Williams, in recent weeks he "softened" his asking price to the two prize Yankee farmhands, outfielder Otto Velez and pitcher Scott MacGregor.

It would now appear the Yankees, if a lesser compensation with Finley can't be agreed upon, will have to find a new manager while Williams sits out the two remaining years on his contract.

Robinson, Wills, White and current Yankee Coach Elston Howard would all give the New Yorkers a glamour image of having hired the first black manager. Wills and Howard are known to be interested, but prying Robinson away from the California Angels could possibly open up a new can of Williams-like worms.

PGA plans new format

NEW YORK (UPI) — A new plan of "designated tournaments" in which certain leading professional golfers will be obligated to compete will be started in 1974 by the PGA Tournament Players Division, Commissioner Joseph C. Dey, Jr. announced Sunday.

The number of these tournaments would not exceed ten in one year and will be put into effect gradually. Only two or three of the designated tournaments will be employed in 1974 and more in subsequent years as first-class courses are available.

These tourneys will be scheduled only on outstanding courses, with not more than two held on consecutive weeks.

Vegas visit: Poly rolls snake eyes

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

LAS VEGAS — Cal Poly's basketball team returns to California today like most visitors enjoying a trip to the gambling spa.

It lost.

Actually, lost is a rather tame word.

The Broncos must feel like the roulette wheels were spinning, spinning, and spinning all night in suffering a 110-61 humiliating defeat to Jerry Tarkanian's Nevada-Las Vegas quintet before a sellout crowd 6,207 at the Las Vegas Convention Center Saturday night.

Poly was never in the game. Tarkanian, who has recruited almost as many prep All-Americans as there are showgirls in Las Vegas, has his young Rebels rolling. UNLV has won seven in a row since the opening loss to Texas Tech.

The cards were stacked against Poly all the way. For one thing, the Broncs were dead tired after a long drive here Saturday morning following Friday night's close win over North Dakota St. Adding to Poly's woes were lack of help from top Poly scorers Horace Aubrey and LeRoy Williams.

Aubrey saw only limited duty because of a sprained ankle suffered Friday against No. Dakota while Williams got into his usual foul problems, playing only 18 minutes because of his ability to draw personals.

At least Poly coach Don Hogan wasn't a total loser. Aware of the social significance of playing in Las Vegas, the dapper Bronco mentor stunned everyone—especially Tarkanian—by wearing his snazzy tuxedo on the bench.

"It didn't help," Hogan laughed after the game. "We've had it. We're dog tired and I'm glad we're through playing the likes of Long Beach St. and Las Vegas. Judging by comparative scores, you'd have to say Las Vegas is the best of the three, but we contributed a lot to their success tonight."

Tarkanian, who is building an empire here to prove that there can be other sports in Las Vegas besides rolling the dice, added, "our defense was just super tonight. I'm impressed our team played so hard in the second half after having such a big lead. Some of my previous teams would have let down in that situation."

Rebel assistant Dan Ayala, the former Poly head coach, shook his head in saying, "Poly had it tough tonight. I felt sorry for them."

Freshman Frank Prince from Pomona High led the Broncs' "attack" with 11 points while Alphonso Adair contributed 10. Rickey Sobers and Jimmy Baker shared the UNLV scoring honors with 18 points apiece.

The Rebels shot 53.4 per cent while Poly hit on only 38.7 with UNLV also holding a 57-38 rebounding edge.

Hogan is thankful Christmas is here but would be much happier if Santa Clause could leave a pair of 6-10 players. "It's Christmas time," the dapper coach said. "We should get in the spirit of receiving because we've been giving long enough."

Bruins overwhelm St. Bonnie

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Top-rated UCLA put six men in double figures Saturday night and the Bruins demolished previously unbeaten St. Bonaventure 111-59 for their sixth win of the year and 81st in a row over four seasons.

Junior forward Dave Meyers led the Bruin onslaught with a career high of 16 points while Keith Wilkes and Ralph Drollinger had 14 each.

All-America center Bill Walton, playing only 22 minutes, had 13 points and 17 rebounds for the Bruins and guards Pete Trgovich and Andre McCarter added 10 apiece.

Center Glenn Price paced the Bonnies' attack with 21 points while forward Essie Hollis had 14. St. Bonaventure suffered its first loss in seven starts.

UCLA's 111 points was a season high, eclipsing the 110 points scored Friday night against Ohio University. All 14 Bruins who played scored.

The Bruins broke it open midway in the first half by outscoring the Bonnies 35-4 in an 8½-minute span.

UCLA hosts the third Bruin Classic next weekend.

Anderson, Williams lead SC

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Dan Anderson and Gus Williams each scored 16 points Saturday night as 10th-ranked University of Southern California toppled Ohio University 80-68 in a ragged intersectional basketball game.

Williams tallied 10 of his points in the second half and Anderson hit for 12 of his in the first half.

But Bill Brown, Ohio's 6-5 senior forward, was the game's to individual scorer with 25, 17 in the second half.

USC scored only one field goal in the first 5½ minutes of play, a layup by Mike Westra, who wound up with 15 points.

Both teams started slow and the score was tied 4-4 after six minutes of play.

After the score was deadlocked at 10-10, 7:53 into the period, George "Big Daddy Time" Green led a Bobcat rally that put Ohio ahead by 8 points twice, 20-12 and 22-14.

USC came to life to outscore the Bobcats 23-10 in the final 6½ minutes of the first half to take a 43-33 lead at the intermission.

The Trojans outscored Ohio 12-6 in the first 7:33 of play in the second half to tace a commanding 57-39 lAD.

Ohio could never get closer than 8 points of USC the rest of the game.

USC now has a 6-1 record and Ohio is now 2-4.

Vermeil keeps seven coaches

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Dick Vermeil, UCLA's newly named head football coach, has announced he will retain seven of Pepper Rodgers' assistant coaches for the 1974 season.

Vermeil, finishing out the season as an assistant coach with the Los Angeles Rams, was named as Rodgers replacement a week ago. Rodgers took the head coaching job at Georgia Tech after a three-year term at UCLA.

UCLA officials said Vermeil will keep Lynn Stiles, Terry Donahue, Jerry Long, Dick Tomey, Billie Matthews, Jim Criner, and Carl Peterson on his staff for next year.

BUCKEYES VISIT DISNEYLAND — Ohio State football coach Woody Hayes, with linebacker Randy Gradishar, pose with Mickey Mouse as team took a rare break in Rose Bowl practice.

Troy seeks 5th Rose Bowl win

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Appearing in the Rose Bowl for the sixth time in eight years, University of Southern California will be out to make it five straight victories for the Pacific-8 over the Big Ten when the Trojans face Ohio State on New Year's Day.

"Of course, I like our chances," said USC coach John McKay. "I definitely think we can win. But this Ohio State team seems a lot better than last year's."

A year ago, McKay's Trojans won the national championship and capped off a perfect 12-0 season with a 42-17 romp over the outmanned Buckeyes in the Rose Bowl.

Because of the Pac-8's recent success against the Big Ten and the Big Ten athletic directors' decision to go with Ohio State over Michigan, there is strong pressure on Buckeyes' coach Woody Hayes to turn it around for the Midwest against the West Coast.

Hayes, whose team was ranked No. 1 in the country most of the season, promises it will be different in 1974.

"This time we will not fail you," he said in Columbus before enplaning for Los Angeles. "We've been given a second chance."

Hayes does have the players to break the Pacific-8's four-game Rose Bowl winning streak and his Buckeyes have been installed as slight favorites.

Ranked third in the final UPI coaches' ratings behind national champion Alabama and Oklahoma, 9-0-1 Ohio State placed four men on the All-America first team this year.

Picked from 9-1-1 Southern Cal, rated seventh, were senior flanker Lynn Swann, junior linebacker Richard Wood and senior defensive back Artimus Parker.

Miami, Ohio beats Florida in Tangerine

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Fullback Chuck Varner scored on a three-yard plunge and David Draudt booted three field goals Saturday night as Miami of Ohio climaxed a perfect season with a 16-7 victory over frost-bitten Florida in the Tangerine Bowl.

The win ended the best season in Miami's 85-year history at 11-0. Florida finished at 7-5.

The Gators and the 17th-ranked Mid-America Conference champions fought a rugged defensive battle in the first half, only to see Florida fall apart offensively in the third period.

Draudt's 26-yard field goal in the first quarter gave the Redskins a 3-0 halftime lead, and Miami blew two scoring opportunities just after halftime before striking for ten more points on Draudt's second kick of 45 yards late in the third quarter.

The Gators scored with 2:15 left in the game on a one-yard run by running back Nat Moore, but an on-side kick attempt fizzled as Miami went into a time-consuming ground series that was interrupted by Varner's surprising 34-yard spring to the Gator 15, which set up Draudt's final field goal of 27 yards.

The second half started with an interception by Dan Rebsch that gave Miami the ball on the Florida 29. A fumble ended that threat, but the Gators promptly returned the ball on an interception by John McVay, which gave the Redskins a shot from their own 34.

Miami marched to the Gator nine, but a 17-yard clipping penalty and a five-yard sacking of Redskin quarterback Steven Sanna by Gator tackle John Lacer forced the Redskins to punt.

Moore raced 33 yards to midfield on the next series but a fumble set up a 45-yard field goal for Miami by Draudt.

On the next kickoff, Larry Brinson fumbled at the Florida eight, setting up the final touchdown.

From the start, bitter cold was a major factor as temperatures dropped from freezing at the kickoff to the low 20s by the final gun.

Prep roundup

Walnut, Garey tourney champs

Four local teams competed in the finals of tournaments outside the valley area Saturday night.

Walnut won the Laguna Beach Tournament championship with a 57-51 win over host Laguna Beach while Ontario lost a bid for seventh place via an 82-51 drubbing at the hands of Norwalk.

Damien's bid for a third place finish in the Pius X tourney was unsuccessful as the Spartans fell to St. John Bosco, 69-53, and Garey captured the Holiday Classic in Las Vegas with a 70-65 win over Western.

Lance Parrish turned in last minute heroics to provide Walnut with its slim victory over Laguna.

The Mustangs led by 10 points most of the game only to have Laguna take the lead 48-46 with 2:52 remaining in the fourth quarter. The teams exchanged baskets with the tourney hosts holding a slim 51-50 edge.

Parrish then scored on a driving layup to regain the lead, 52-51, with 48 seconds left. Seventeen seconds later, the Mustang guard added a three-point play to give Bill Murray's 'Stangs a four-point cushion. Center Steve Will iced the game with a pair of free throws to give Walnut its 57-51 final.

Mustang forward Kirk Christ led all scorers with 23 points while guard Marcello Maurin tossed in 10. Will finished with 11 points.

Dave Kisselbach paced Laguna Beach scoring with 14 points while Mark Rathbun chipped in 13.

Christ was selected Most Valuable Player of the tourney with Maurin being named to the All-Tournament team.

Norwalk tallied 33 points in the fourth quarter to dump Ontario, 82-51.

The Jaguars were outplayed by their taller counterparts, as Norwalk guard Scott Shelley pumped in 22 points, 14 of them in the last period. Joe Jefferson led Ontario with 17 points.

Damien was outscored 42-24 in the second half as the Spartans lost a 69-53 contest to St. John Bosco for third place in the Pius X tourney.

Despite the loss, forward John Pignotti scored 19 points with Brian Krueger adding 10 points.

Delbert McDonald, with 19 points, Bill Evans, with 18 points, and Gary Carpenter, with 16 points, lead a balanced attack as Garey downed Western 70-65 to win the Holiday Tournament at Las Vegas.

Carpenter was selected for the All-Tournament team.

Santa Anita racing starts Thursday

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI) — Santa Anita launches its 75-day season Thursday with the $30,000 Palos Verdes Handicap at six furlongs featuring sprint stars Ancient Title, Briartic, Kick of Cricket and Zulu Tom.

Despite President Nixon's call for a voluntary shutdown of gas stations on Sundays, the track willl stick with Sunday racing programs.

However, Santa Anita has announced a program designed to encourage its patrons to conserve on fuel. Racegoers traveling to and from the track by bus will get a discount on general admissions and free parking will be supplied for cars occupied by four or more adults.

The meeting, which runs through April 8, will feature six classics of $100,000 or more, the first being the $100,000-added Charles H. Strub Stakes for 4-year-olds at a mile and one-quarter Feb. 9.

The $25,000 La Habra Stakes for 3-year-olds will be held at six furlongs next Friday with the $50,000 California Breeders' Champion Stakes for 2-year-old California foals set at seven furlongs next Saturday.

Berry leads Kings in wild win over Stars

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Bob Berry scored twice as the Los Angeles Kings used four power play goals to beat Minnesota 5-2 Saturday night for their first win over the North Stars in nearly four years.

The bruising contest was enlivened by four major fights and 127 penalty minutes meted out by referee Andy Hellemond.

The Kings ended a jinx that had seen Minnesota post 17 wins and 4 ties over Los Angeles since the Kings beat the North Stars and goalie Cesare Manniago March 28, 1970.

Only the first goal of the night, Frank St. Marseille's 100th career goal, did not come as a result of a power play.

In addition to Berry's two goals with Minnesota shorthanded, Tom Williams and Sheldon Kannegiesser, also beat Manniago on power plays.

Both of the North Star goals, Lou Nanne's in the first period and Murray Oliver's in the third session, came with Los Angeles minus a man.

Berry's first goal in 14 games broke a 1-1 tie at 12:03 of the first period. His second tally came a minute and a half into the final period and put the match away at 4-1.

Los Angeles' Phil Hoene was handed a game misconduct only 20 seconds after the opening faceoff when he joined in a fight between teammate Don Kozak and Minnesota's Barry Gibbs.

In the third period, the North Stars' Bill Goldsworthy drew a match misconduct for kicking Bill Lesuk while they were wrestling on the ice.

Kings' defenseman Terry Harper was also ejected on a game misconduct with 1:40 after brawling with Dennis Hextall.

SMU coach on probation

DALLAS (UPI) — Southern Methodist President Dr. Paul Hardin said Saturday head football coach Dave Smith had been placed on probation by the school for violation of NCAA rules and was "subject to immediate dismissal" if he violated any other regulations.

Smith admitted last week he approved cash payments to members of his specialty team this season as bonuses for exceptional plays.

Earlier this month, Hardin told Southwest Conference officials of the violations and league officials are now investigating Hardin's reports.

"He has been reprimanded and advised that the contract, reached by him, is no longer in affect, and that he now has a one-year contract."

Teacher vs. pupil in AFC playoff

MIAMI (UPI) — An apprehensive teacher takes on a confident, self-assured pupil in Miami's Orange Bowl today when the world champion Miami Dolphins play host to the Cincinnati Bengals in a first-round AFC playoff game.

"Paul Brown's greatest asset is his ability to teach," said Shula, whose Dolphins were 12-2 this season and captured the AFC East title. "Once you learned something from Paul Brown, you never forgot it."

Brown, who led his Bengals to a 10-4 record, including six consecutive victories at the end of the season for the AFC Central title, will find out for certain today how much Shula has retained.

A sellout crowd of more than 80,000 fans will watch the nationally-televised game, but the south Florida area will be blacked out since there were still tickets unsold at the 72-hour pre-game deadline. The game has no special monetary value, with players receiving only a regular one-game salary.

Both teams are well balanced but mistake-proof Miami seems to have the edge in experience. Oddsmakers think so, too, and have established the Dolphins as eight-point favorites.

Miami offers a powerful running attack led by Larry Csonka and Mercury Morris, a brilliant tactical quarterback in Bob Griese, possibly the game's most dangerous receiver in Paul Warfield and an opportunistic defense headed by end Bill Stanfill and safeties Dick Anderson and Jake Scott.

That defense could be weakened, however, by the absence of tackle Manny Fernandez, listed as doubtful with a thigh injury. He will be replaced by Maulty Moore.

Balance is also the keynote for Cincinnati. Ken Anderson, the quarterback matured late this season and combined with wide receiver Isaac Curtis for a devastating long-range punch. Rookie Boobie Clark and Essex Johnson both came very close to the 1,000-yard mark this season and double as dangerous receivers. A defense headed by tackle Mike Reid and middle linebacker Bill Bergey takes a back seat to none.

"I'm happy Paul is in the playoffs," Shula said. "I think he did one of his best jobs of coaching this season. He stayed with his young players and he's going into the playoffs with a team on the rise.

"Anderson has a better understanding of the tools he has to work with and defensively, Bergey always has been outstanding. They're sound everywhere you look and they have tremendous team speed. Let's face it, when you get down to just eight teams, everywhere you look there are great football teams.

Anderson came on strong in the final six games as the Bengals averaged 28 points a game to overtake Pittsburgh and Cleveland in the AFC Central race. He and Curtis were awesome in the crucial last two games, combining for five TD passes.

"A lot of people said that Kenny Anderson didn't have it as a pro quarterback," Brown said. "Now those same people are climbing on his bandwagon. He's pulled games out for us time after time. He took command and won for us in a difficult situation, when we really had no one else. He has unusual poise for a guy his age."

Anderson, a 24-year-old, four-year veteran from little Augustana College in Illinois, feels the sudden development of Curtis as a wide receiver gave the Bengals the spark they needed.

"Isaac has great physical equipment to start off with," Anderson said, "and when he learned what the game is all about, he became awesome. He had trouble reading defenses earlier in the year, getting to the open zones, but once he got the knack of it, he was out of this world. Before, he had to think —now he reacts.

"I'm very confident going into these playoffs," Anderson added, "A Super Bowl situation for us doesn't sound out of place at all. It takes three wins and I feel we can play on a par with any team at any time."

While the Bengals surged to win the AFC Central title, no one was more shocked than Nick Buoniconti, the Dolphins' star middle linebacker.

"We played them in pre-season and I didn't give them a chance," he said. "I thought they were at best a 7-7 team. Anderson was confused and Clark and Curtis weren't even playing. But the last four games, they've shown as good an offensive team as there is in the NFL.

"I don't know of a team that can put the ball in the end zone as well with the possible exception of the Jets when Joe Namath is healthy.

Pioneer wins junior high tourney

CLAREMONT — Pioneer Junior High gained a come from behind victory over Upland Junior High 37-34, to win the championship of the El Roble-La Puerta Christmas basketball tournament held at El Roble Junior High.

Pioneer trailed from the outset but gained the lead in the final two minutes of the contest.

Co-host La Puerta captured the consolation championship by beating Ramona Junior High of La Verne, 23-17.

The two-day tournament was a first annual affair that also included eighth grade teams from Magnolia and Ramona Junior highs of Chino, Alta Loma and El Roble.

Pioneer topped Magnolia and El Roble to get into the title game Saturday. Upland defeated Alta Loma and Ramona of Chino.

The eight-team tournament was a final tune up for the league schedule which begins Jan. 14. Each team in the tournament is a member of the junior high alignment.

Raiders nearly perfect 33-14

Pittsburgh blasted

OAKLAND (UPI) — The name of the game is pass, run and defend, and the Oakland Raiders did all three with near perfection Saturday in an overwhelming 33-14 victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers in the opening round of the AFC Playoffs.

The Raiders, who meet the winner of today's Cincinnati-Miami game for the AFC championship on Dec. 30, dominated the Steelers from start to finish as 46-year-old George Blanda booted four field goals, Marv Hubbard ran for two touchdowns on one-yard dives and Willie Brown scampered 54 yards for a score with a pass interception.

George Atkinson and Phil Villapiano also intercepted passes as the Raider defense shutoff the Pittsburgh running game and forced quarterback Terry Bradshaw to throw most of the time while on the run. Bradshaw did wind up with 167 passing yards, 25 more than Ken Stabler, but the Raider running backs, led by Hubbard, churned out 232 yards to Pittsburgh's 65, and that made the difference.

Everyone, including Raider Coach John Madden and Steeler Coach Chuck Noll, agreed Brown's interception and run for a third quarter score was the turning point of the game.

At that point, the Raiders led by 16-7 and the Steelers seemed to be moving the ball near midfield when Brown stepped in front of Preston Pierson on a sideline pass play, tipped the ball into the air and then ran the distance for a 23-7 edge. The Steelers never recovered after that.

"That was the play," said Madden, "that turned the game in our direction and forced Pittsburgh to open up a little more, and then when we got another interception a few minutes later (Atkinson) and we were in good shape."

"They beat the hell out of us, it's as simple as that," said Noll. "Their line (defense) blew us out and their backs ran through tackles. Not very much about the game was worth a damn as far as we're concerned. I thought we had a chance early in the fourth quarter when we got close (14-26) but they took the ball right down there and our defense wasn't able to stop them."

The score did not even begin to tell how much the Raiders dominated the game. Hubbard scored his first TD the first time the Raiders got the ball in the game and with the Oakland defense completely bottling up the Pittsburgh offense, the closest the Steelers got was a 10-7 deficit at halftime.

The Raiders scored a touchdown and two field goals on three pass interceptions and did not make a single mistake en route to the victory which atoned for a loss to the Steelers in the opening round of the 1972 AFC playoffs.

Blanda, who celebrated his 46th birthday last summer, booted field goals of 25, 31, 22 and 10 yards, and the only time he missed was on a 49-yard try late in the game when the Raiders were merely playing out the clock.

Pittsburgh quarterback Terry Bradshaw, harassed throughout by the Oakland front four of Tony Cline, Otis Sistrunk, Art Thoms and Horace Jones, rarely had a chance to set up on passing plays. However, he accounted for all the Steeler points with a four-yard throw to Barry Pearson with 1:55 left in the second quarter and a 26-yard toss to Frank Lewis with 9:12 remaining in the game.

Hubbard's first touchdown and Blanda's initial field goal staked the Raiders to a 10-7 lead at the half and Blanda followed with two more field goals and Brown ran 54 yards with his pass interception in the third quarter for a 23-7 margin.

Blanda nailed his fourth field goal in the third minute of the final quarter and then, with the Raiders conceding short passes, Bradshaw passed to Lewis to close the gap to 26-14, but that score proved academic when Hubbard, carrying the ball on every other play, marched the Raiders to the Pittsburgh one with less than two minutes remaining. He then dived over for the final score.

Happy to trim the market

By JOHN F. SIMS

BEIRUT (UPI) — Beyond the Arab oil war against the West lies an apparent paradox—the Arab oil producers say they will be happy to see industralized nations reduce their dependence on oil and seek alternative sources of energy.

The use of the so-called "oil weapon" in support of the Arab nations who fought Israel in the October war has dramatically illustrated a problem the United States and other western nations thought they would have to face only in the 1980s.

The boycott and production cuts introduced by the Arab oil producers—intended to pressure the West and Israel into a Middle East settlement on Arab terms—have thrown into sharp relief relations between oil producers and oil consumers.

If there is a Middle East settlement that satisfies the Arabs, will they then resume deliveries at a level to suit Western demand?

Arab oil experts say deliveries will resume, and even rise. The real question remains: at what price?

In the latter question, the Arab oil producers are joined by the other international oil sources.

"Prices have to increase in order to slow down the use and stop the wastage of oil,' said Abderrahman Khene, secretary-general of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC).

"I am personally of the opinion that the price of crude oil has to be increased to the same level as other sources of energy, such as nuclear power and coal gasification, in order to lighten the present burden on oil,'' Khene said.

Dr. Nicholas Sarkis, head of the Arab Center for Oil Studies, takes the argument one step further: "The European countries, with their taxes on oil products, have been making more money out of Arab oil than the producing countries.

"For years now coal has been a subsidized product in Europe,'' he said. "This means, in effect, that the Arab oil producers were subsidizing European coal. This situation had to change."

And it has changed.

The OPEC countries—Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Iraq, Iran, Libya, Venezuela, Nigeria, Indonesia, Abu Dhabi, Qatar and Bahrein — recently have increased crude oil prices by amounts varying between 17 per cent and 90 per cent.

A barrel of Arabian light oil—the markao crude used as a basis for calculating all other crude prices—has risen from $1.80 in 1970 to more than $5 today.

With the United States and Holland under embargo, and other countries suffering cutbacks, the lust for non-Arab oil has driven prices as high as $15 a barrel for a recent shipment of Nigerian crude.

"Just a few months ago, in a lecture, I predicted the price of oil would reach $10 a barrel by 1980,'' said Dr. Nadim Pachachi, a former secretary-general of OPEC and now a Beirut based oil consultant.

"That price has already been surpassed in limited cloud of cigar smoke in his overheated office. "These prices are not, of course, a true reflection of market values—but they are a warning."

In the past, oil prices were fixed in negotiations between the oil producers and the seven major oil companies. But recent decisions by the producing countries have swept away this regulating procedure.

"In the future, oil prices are going to be fixed by the market, just as for any other commodity," Pachachi said.

The market value of oil will be fixed when Iran in the near future accepts bids for the crude lifted from its now 100 per cent Iranian-owned fields.

Saudi Arabia is seeking a revision of its accord with Aramco — the American-owned consortium that operates 95 percent of the Saudi Fields—to obtain a 51 percent interest in the company immediately instead of in 1982, as previously agreed.

"All this oil up for bids on the open market is going to show us where prices are going," Pachachi said. "But you can be sure of one thing—they are not going down."

The industrialized nations face real problems until the supply of Arab oil is fully resumed. Japan and West Germany already are prepared for a "zero growth" 1974 because of energy shortages, and western economists who had predicted a business slowdown next year now say the oil cuts could push the situation further—into a fullscale recession.

Such a development would hit the developing nations hardest. They will not only find it difficult to pay increased prices for the oil they need, but they will lose again because of decreased demand for their raw products. Additionally, countries with balance of payments deficits are going to fall further into deficit because of the sharply increased outflow of cash to pay higher oil prices.

"The long term answer is alternative supplies of energy," Pachachi said. "But there is no way coal gasification, or shale oil processing, or even nuclear power can have a significant effect within less than five years."

The Arab oil producers are hoping the higher prices they want for their oil will force the United States and Europe into a speeded-up search for alternatives.

"Oil is a wasting asset," Pachachi warned. "It would not be very wise of the Arab producers to continue supplying cheap energy to the West to the detriment of their own futures. The Arab countries do not get an oil depletion allowance from the United States."

Weekly stocks roundup

Wall Street's only storm outside

By LEE MITGANG
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stock prices were mixed on the New York Stock Exchange this week in the dullest trading in months.

With investors apparently hibernating in the wake of an East Coast winter storm that shortened Big Board trading by an hour on Monday, the Dow Jones industrial average rose 3.08 to 818.73.

The only significant move in the average this week occurred Tuesday, when an implied relaxation in the Federal Reserve's tight money stance, and hopes for a quick end to the Arab oil embargo, sparked a technical rally in which the Dow climbed 18.37 points.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index gained 0.25 to 93.54. But the NYSE index fell 0.60 to 49.68.

Declines outnumbered advances, 968 to 814, among 2,000 issues crossing the tape.

Volume for the week totaled 89,245,880 shares compared with 95,013,364 a week earlier, and with 83,869,260 the year before.

The market's unaccustomed peace and quiet drew widely different reactions from Wall Street's analysis.

"Investors seem to be backing away from emotional extremes," Monte Gordon of Dreyfus Corp. commented. He said Wall Street may be beginning to take the prospects of an economic downturn more in stride. Hopes are running high, he said, for a settlement of the Middle East situation, and an end to the Arab oil embargo.

Ronald Cooper of W.E. Hutton said while end-of-year tax selling has been heavier this month than usual, the market could be bracing itself for one last rally before the close of 1973. He pointed out pension funds and other institutional traders normally pour money back into the marketplace in the final sessions of the year.

The improvement might be only temporary, Cooper cautioned. "With so many economic uncertainties to worry about," he sees a good possibility the Dow industrials could plunge back to the 750-800 level in a test of the recently-established 1973 low of about 781.

On the other hand, Robert Amster of Rosenkrantz, Ehrenkrantz, Lyon & Ross contends the market's problems, including the energy crisis, inflation, and a probable business slowdown next year, are hardly closer to resolution than they were two months ago when the Dow began its record tailspin of some 200 points.

The confusion is worsened, he says, by the apparent inability of the Nixon administration to meet these problems.

"There's no way this market has bottomed out," Amster said, predicting a monumental new slide similar to the one that occurred between October and December.

Wherever the market is headed in general, though, many analysts agree the whirlwind that has engulfed glamor issues is likely to continue. In the past three or four months, institutional favorites such as IBM, Burroughs, National Semiconductor, Polaroid, Xerox, Corning Glass, Upjohn and Avon Products have lost as much as half their market value. Reasons cited include uncertainty over the group's likely growth record next year, and the vulnerability of multinational corporations to the shaky economies of Britain, Japan and other major markets.

ARA Services dropped 21¼ to 85½. The reason was familiar: analysts were taking a second hard look at the glamor issue's growth prospects for 1974.

American Telephone & Telegraph Co., the volume leader, advanced 2⅜ to 50⅜ on 811,100 shares. The company's stock responded to news Tuesday of an 11.6 per cent increase in earnings for the three months ended Nov. 30. Also helpful were signs of easier money market conditions, since the Bell System often takes to the bond market for corporate financing.

Westinghouse Electric was second active, dropping 6⅞ to 24⅜ on 778,100 shares. It lost ground rapidly Friday after the company said it would report fourth quarter earnings only half as high as the same period ast year.

Gulf Oil was third, off ⅛ to 20⅜ on 738,900 shares.

U.S. Steel gained 4½, and Bethlehem Steel 4⅜. Industry analysts said investors apparently are hopeful the Cost of Living Council will permit a further rise in steel prices.

Domestic oil stocks and oil field service issues rose sharply. Halliburton rose 13, Getty 11, Standard Oil of Indiana 7⅞, and Amerada Hess 5⅜.

Missouri Pacific, up 5¼, paced the higher rails. Missouri Pacific said after the close Friday earnings for the first 11 months of 1973 should come to $29.8 million, against last year's $16.1 million.

Chemicals, falling sharply the last two months, recovered some ground. Monsanto gained 5⅞, DuPont 3½, and Dow 2¼.

Motors moved lower, while airlines, aircrafts and papers were mixed in fractions.

Wall Street Briefs

NEW YORK (UPI) — The use of car pools can bring big insurance reductions for those who give up driving to and from work daily, John P. Kennedy, a vice president of Fireman's Fund American Insurance Companies, said Monday. The reductions can run from 15 to 40 per cent, Kennedy said. But to obtain the "pleasure rate," the car poolers would have to agree to stick to one car, whose owner would have to pay the full rate. The owner of this car could collect for his costs from the other pool members without legally changing his insurance status, Kennedy said.

TODAY'S Women

FUN FOR EVERYONE

Cecil Cochran, better known as "Cecil the Clown" entertains Beth Wilson, 10, and Wayne Smiley, 11, as Mrs. Rosalie Patton, member of senior citizens group, and Assisteens Kathleen Shacklett and Gail Anderson, right, wait to present gifts to youths at Assistance League Christmas party.

For all ages

A sharing experience

Sharing is the name of the game at Christmas and when a project develops spontaneously and encompasses all age groups, it's even more rewarding to those involved.

The annual Christmas party for children who receive lessons at the Hearing and Speech Center of the Assistance League of Pomona Valley was a combined effort of the Assisteens, a senior citizens group, a clown, a Santa Claus and league members.

This fall, the Assistance League opened its center on North Palomares Street for the use of senior citizens who reside in the vicinity. While some of the men and women played cards, listened to music or chatted, a small group congregated in the corner to create craft items. They decided to make bright felt Santas by covering bottles.

Once the Santas were completed, the group offered them to the Assisteens, daughters of the league members, who filled them with candy to give to the youngsters attending the holiday party.

The 40 guests at the party were highly entertained during the afternoon by Cecil Cochran, better known as "Cecil the Clown", who presented a puppet show.

Santa arrived later to distribute goodies for the children. The Assisteens played hostesses and helped entertain the children, their families and guests from the senior group.

And the league members? They are beaming at the success of the whole thing.

Holiday spirit

In evidence at hospital

Recipient of much of the spirit of the Holiday Season in Pomona Valley this year is Casa Colina Hospital for Rehabilitative Medicine in Pomona.

Many organizations and individuals of the area are contributing talents and gifts in order that the disabled children and adults undergoing rehabilitation at the facility may enjoy the holidays.

Pomona's Temple Beth Israel Sisterhood has donated an electric menorah to Casa Colina and are arranging a special Chanukah celebration for the Jewish patients at the hospital.

The Assisteen Auxiliary of the Assistance League of Upland, a philanthropic group of 30 teen-agers, has spent many hours wrapping gifts donated by individuals, groups and business firms of the valley. According to Mrs. Lenore Hersh, the hospital's recreation therapist, the gifts are being stuffed into large, gaily decorated Christmas stockings designed and made by the group.

A Christmas party is planned Monday afternoon for distribution of presents with Jess Noriega in the role of Santa, aided by the Assisteens. During the party Mr. and Mrs. Desmond Dan Dare of San Dimas will lead the patients in singing carols, and Mrs. Gloria Burton of Valinda will sing.

A Christmas Eve church service, led by the hospital's chaplain, the Rev. Joseph Brown, will follow the yule party.

Since early December, choirs and entertainment groups have brought holiday festivities to Casa Colina. A group of Cal Poly students majoring in recreation held a tree-decorating and caroling party and decorated hospital windows in themes of the season. Chairman of the group was Shelly Hoover.

The Camp Fire Girls of La Verne, Wa-Ca-Ci-Ni, also held a tree-decorating party and donated decorations for a wing of the hospital. The group also presented a Nativity play for the patients.

Christmas trees were contributed by Scripps College; Claremont YMCA, Pomona; and Armstrong Nurseries, Cucamonga.

Entertainments and choral programs have been given by the Claremont High School Chamber Singers; the Judy Torrez Dance Group, Brownie Troops 245 and 448; Diamond Bar Blue Birds; Pomona Community Chorus, directed by Ray Woods of Garey High School; La Verne's Bonita High School Chamber Singers; American Christian Academy of Pomona; La Verne-San Dimas Junior Women's Club; Upland High School Aberdeens and Casa Colina Candy Stripers.

Organizations interested in helping with patient recreation throughout the year by sponsoring parties and other activities may contact Mrs. Hersh.

FOR CHANUKAH

Modern family front in turmoil

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Item: Father of five skips and starts a new nest with his mistress and their child 3,000 miles away. Without benefit of divorce, without any new marriage license.

Item: Mother of nine leaves home, taking two young children under five. To bill and coo in a new nest with her lover. No divorce, no new marriage.

Add to these items: People breaking up marriages and families legally, through divorce. Approximately four of every 10 couples married in 1973 will not live happily ever after. They will divorce after, on the average, seven years of conjugal bliss and bitterness.

Marriage dissolution could be the number one subect on the family front in 1974 and perhaps the number one subect of the decade.

That point was made by numerous authorities launching new U.S. Senate subcommittee hearings on "American Families: Trends and Pressures." The hearings, under the chairmanship of Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D.-Minn., will move to the front burner in 1974.

The institution of legalized marriage, what's more, is being questioned by young persons. Cohabitating without a marriage license is a growing trend on college campuses—so much so that social scientists at Cornell University's College of Human Ecology now put out a Cohabitation Research Newsletter, reporting on studies on that subect at colleges nationwide.

Research in this area cannot be as exacting as research in physics. But it is evident that many students on the trial marriage trail are themselves progeny of the soured marriages of their parents. They have seen the toll of marriage on the rocks, they have tasted its bitter harvest—bickering, hurt and hate. They are not going to seal a conjugal deal themselves unless they con be reasonably sure it will work out. In the interim, cohabitation on campus or off. It stems from a search for an emotional mooring and mistrust of marriage.

In the year ahead, inflation and the energy crisis will affect families that don't break up. The Census Bureau estimates there are 46.3 million husband-wife families and 8.1 million of some other type. The latter category includes 6.6 million families headed by a female. . .

The Census Bureau defines a family as a group of two or more related persons who live together in a house or apartment. Two out of every three of the husband-wife families have children or a relative living with them.

Inflation-continuing will mean families having increasing difficulty even robbing Peter to pay Paul. It will mean further taking in of the belt and it will mean more and more mothers out of the home working to help pay the bills. Most mothers who work are helping pay bills and otherwise provide for their families, including in many cases, dependent parents.

Federal agencies estimate over 40 per cent of all wives are in the labor force. Among those with children under six years of age, 30 per cent are working outside the home— making adequate daycare facilities a number one priority on the family front again in the year 1974 and every year thereafter until enough are established.

The energy crisis, cramping vacation and other pleasures driving, may inject more togetherness on homefronts everywhere — especially on weekends. For families accustomed to being on wheels much of the time, for family members used to going separate and distant ways, the new togetherness may be a plus or a minus. Either it will make the family stronger—discovering one another's company as something pleasant. Or—it will make the family weaker, exposing sources of friction and leading to arguments and, perhaps, eventual breakdown of communication.

The energy crisis carries the seeds of financial disaster for some families. If a fuel-dependent industry must shut down, paychecks stop. In an energy-dependent society such as America has become, there are solid signs many paychecks will be disrupted in the new year.

Dr. Urie Bronfenbrenner, a professor of human development and family studies, College of Human Ecology, Cornell University, doesn't see much to cheer about on the family front. He told the subcommittee on children and youth:

"The situation is especially critical for the families of black Americans. Of all black children, over half (53 per cent) live in families below the poverty line; the corresponding figure for whites is 11 per cent.

"Of all black children, almost half (44 per cent) have mothers who are in the labor force. The corresponding figure for whites is about a quarter—26 per cent.

"Of all black children, over 30 per cent live in single-parent families; the corresponding figure for whites is seven per cent.

"The census does not provide comparable information for other groups living under duress, such as American Indians, Mexican Americans, whites living in Appalachia and so on. If and when such data become available, they are likely to show similar trends."

All isn't rosy with intact families, the well-off economically ones—black or white. Dr. Bronfenbrenner, considered by his peers the nation's number one authority on the family, said:

"Among these families, research shows parents are spending less time in activity with their children." (A trend is to children's hotels, places where well-off parents may park their children when they want a week in the sun or a month at sea.)

The authority sees the family needing all kinds of help—from the neighborhood, from the world of work, and from social and political institutions at the local, state and national level.

"The family," he said, "is the most humane, efficient and economical system for 'making human beings' known for man."

Catalog is tool for feminists and Male Chauvinist Pigs

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — The niftiest book since the Whole Earth Catalog may be just what to ask Santa for—if you're a feminist, an anti-feminist or even a Male Chauvinist Pig (MCP).

"The New Woman's Survival Catalog" tells a woman how to get a $35 divorce, how to whip an attacker, how to manage her money, her life, her lover, her gynecologist and lots more.

Done in the style of the popular Whole Earth Catalog, the woman-made book published by Coward, McCann and Geoghegan really is "a tool."

The editors, Kirsten Grimstad and Susan Rennie, put it this way in an interview:

"This book is a tool for women whose rising expectations are running into the wall of partriarchal privilege: the women who are aggrieved at the discrepancy between their expectations of expanded choice and room to grow and the reality of male resistance."

Now what does that mean?

"It means help for women," said Ms. Rennie, a Ph.D., and former assistant professor of political science at Columbia University.

"Whether women wish a lowcost divorce, to file job discrimination complaints, equal pay suits, or start their own separatist venture, the catalog represents answers with aids and tools produced by the feminist movement in the battle against sexism."

Ms. Rennie at Columbia also served as assistant vice president for academic affairs—the highest central administrative post to which Columbia has appointed a woman.

Ms. Grimstad has been a preceptor in Germanic languages at Columbia University for four years. Last year she collaborated in surveying 900 women to compile an inventory of women's studies and publications and works in progress. That study was the genesis of the New Woman's Survival Catalog. Ms. Grimstad is from Milwaukee, Wis., Ms. Rennie, from Johannesburg, So. Africa.

"I have been here since 1968," she said, "and when my Mother put me on the boat she doubted that I would return. She was right."

The two editors went by car over 12,000 miles of America to gather material for the catalog. They visited such things as Know Inc., one of the first feminist presses, in Pittsburgh, Pa., and Country Women, a back-to-earth group in Albion, Calif.

How they met their deadline with the publisher and put together their manuscript in a three room apartment shared by six cats and a dog is a story of a different kind.

At times materials were piled so deep on the floor that they needed a tool (like a snow shovel) to get from here to there. And, then, at night or when they were away they had to cover everything with plastic lest the cats lick, munch, or walk on or water the raw materials.

The women were assisted in their chore by Fanette Polleck, Ruth Bayard Smith, Ms. Mark St. Giles, a typesetter. The project took just under six months. They met their deadline right on the nose.

"Not so remarkable — for women," Ms. Rennie said.

However, it was remarkable, when you consider that the women wrote, photographed, designed, typeset and pasted up the work.

The book aims to have relevance and usefulness to all women.

"After all, you don't have to be a feminist to want to prevent yourself from getting raped, to know whether that vaginal itch is worth a trip to a specialist, to get a bank loan, to have access to childcare facilities, to avoid car repair rip-off," said Ms. Grimstad.

"Rape rates are going up; rape arrests are going down. The number of women who must enter the labor market is going up; women's proportionate earnings are going down."

The catalog documents the revolution that has swept America in the last half decade. The women's movement.

"We found this revolution has reached into all of America and feel that women never will be the same," Ms. Rennie said.

"This revolution had its source in a changing consciousness largely triggered by the control women are just beginning to exert over their reproductive capacities.

"No longer confined to their stereotypical role of wife and mother, women are developing new perspectives on their needs, aspirations—and rights."

They are.

They are establishing businesses, forming their own law firms, banks, art galleries, child care centers and hospitals. They are running their own presses, organizing their own anti-rape squads and repairing their own cars.

The editors of the catalog have established a trust fund to return a minimum of 20 per cent of the royalties earned to the women's movement.

Pregame brunch

"DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: Several of us are planning a prefootball game brunch. We would like to serve something a little unusual but not too complicated. We expect about 60 people and will do the work ourselves, so if there is anything you can suggest, we would surely appreciate it.—Mrs. F. W., New Haven, Conn."

I have often thought of giving a soup buffet myself, and I think this idea would be great for you. Do a big kettle of homemade pea soup and serve it with sliced frankfurters and dark bread. If you prefer, you can have a choice of soups.

Quantity cooking is not easy for the uninitiated. I will give you two exact recipes and that will serve 50 people. If you expect 60 people and know that many of them will want seconds, I suggest that you double the recipe—but make it in two separate batches. You will need big pots.

SPLIT PEA SOUP

2 qts (3½ lbs.) split dried peas
7 qts. ham or cornbeef stock
3 onions (¾ lbs.)
1 cup butter or margarine
1 cup flour
2 quarts hot milk
Salt, pepper to taste
3 crumbled bay leaves
6 scraped carrots
12 lettuce leaves
6 tbsp. salt (or to taste, better less than more)
4 tbsp. vinegar

Pick over the peas. Wash and soak them overnight. Drain and add to water, stock and vegetables. Bring to a boil, then lower to simmer and cook slowly 3 or 4 hours, stirring from time to time until mixture is very soft. Put through a strainer.

In a very heavy pot (or in a commercial-size double boiler if you have one), stir in the melted butter and flour together until smooth. Add hot milk gradually and cook 30 min., stirring constantly until thickened. Combine with pea soup mixture. At serving time, bring slowly to a boil, adjust seasonings as necessary.

And here is a very good quantity salmon chowder made with canned salmon:.

SALMON CHOWDER

¼ salt pork cut in ¼-in cubes
1¼ cups sliced onion (10 oz.)
6 qts. boiling water
6¼ qts. diced potatoes (12½ lbs.)
1 cup pork fat
2 tsp. paprika
1¼ cups flour
7¼ cups hot milk
8 1-lb. cans salmon
6⅝ tbsp. (or more) salt to taste
Coarsely ground black pepper to taste

Cook salt pork 5 min. over low heat.Add onion. Cook gently 5 min. longer. Add water and potatoes and cook 20 min., or until soft. In a very heavy pot, or commercial-size double boiler if you have one, stir the bacon fat and the flour until smooth. Add hot milk gradually and cook 30 min., stirring constantly until thickened. Flake the salmon, removing skin and bones. Add to the sauce with seasonings. Combine with the first mixture. At serving time, bring to a boil and serve immediately. Good with pilot biscuits.

Beer and coffee go well with these soups. Apple pie (preferably homemade) is the perfect dessert.

Mills and Rosine vows read Saturday

Frampton photo

MRS. JOHN MILLS

Miss Julia Elaine Rosine and John Arthur Mills exchanged wedding vows in a Saturday afternoon ceremony at the Claremont United Methodist Church.

The Rev. James Dallas performed the double-ring service uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Rosine and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mills, all of Claremont.

The bride wore a princess-styled gown of candle-light point d'gaze lace fashioned with a chapel train. Satin ribbon accented the gown and the high collar. A cap of lace and satin ribbons held the bride's fingertip veil of silk illusion. She carried a nosegay of carnations and baby's breath.

Miss Marie Albarran was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Carol Rosine and Miss Paula Palmer.

Pat Dijar was best man. Ushers were Norman and Arthur Rosine.

A reception at the church honored the couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Mills will reside in Chino.

MRS. JUAN CRUTIRREZ

Dress to kill, not to be killed

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) —The familiar expression "My feet are killing me" can mean just that—literally.

For, safety experts are calling some of today's fashionable footwear a potential death trap.

This column has carried warnings before from the podiatry profession concerning the risks of broken bones because of pratfalls from wearing exaggerated platform soles. Podiatrists' files are filling with case histories of broken and twisted ankles, sprains and metatarsal fractures.

Now, the National Safety Council highlights another danger as winter comes and driving conditions deteriorate in most parts of the country.

"Aside from walking, current footwear fashions can be a death trap on the highway," it says. It quotes Dr. Duane R. Johnson, head of the Department of Industry and Technology at Northern Illinois University.

He says, "with platform soles, you lose your sense of touch. And a thick sole puts the foot at a different distance from the pedals.

In addition, Johnson says, the driver has to raise the leg and bend the knees more to negotiate the foot controls. Couple all that with a heel stuck in an accelerator and "you wind up with a very sticky situation.'

Other experts have pointed to the hazard of catching a thick sole or a protruding sandal on the edge of the pedal while making an emergency movement to the brake. Since stopping time is figured in fractions of seconds, a momentary hangup could mean a crash.

In Lancashire, England, the council says, driving instructors have banned platforms among their pupils.

In Sydney, Australia, the National Roads and Motorists Association has issued a warning to women drivers. "They (the exaggerated platforms, clogs, et cetera) are the most hazardous fashion since stiletto heels."

And in this country, the Insurance Information Institute adds this grim footnote —"Are you dressed to kill —or be killed?"

The council puts it another way —"If the foot is shod with one of today's far-out shoes, boots or sandals, its owner (driver) is about as efficient as a brain surgeon operating with boxing gloves."

What about no shoes at all? Not good either. Johnson says, "the length of your foot is changed and you may not get good pedal contact. The toes don't have enough power to exert adequate pressure. You can't press the dimmer switch either."

But if you insist on wearing those high rise models, keep a safe, down-to-earth pair of shoes in the car for driving. The same goes for hiking boots, sandals or anything else that's risky.

Be careful

Watch it when cleaning or adjusting storm windows. They can hurt if you lose your grip on them. One woman injured both thumbs, including the loss of a thumb nail. Time will tell whether the loss is temporary or permanent.

April rites planned by couple

An Arpil 20 wedding is being planned by Miss Deborah Ann Wheeler and John Blair Corey.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wheeler of West Covina is a 1969 graduate of Bishop Amat High School. She attends Cal Poly University where she is a member of Sigma Phi Delta sorority.

Miss Wheeler is employed by the Bank of America.

Mr. Corey is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald C. Corey of Claremont. He is a 1965 graduate of Claremont High School and attended Chaffey College.

He served with the U.S. Army and is employed as a manufacturer's representative for hospital-surgical supplies.

DEBORAH WHEELER

Newlyweds to reside in La Verne

Miss Robynn Kay Davis and Grady Frank Winkler Jr. exchanged wedding vows in a double-ring ceremony read by the Rev. Hubert Jenewein at the Wesleyan Church in San Dimas.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard M. Davis of San Dimas was given in marriage by her father. The groom's parents are the Grady Winklers of San Dimas.

The bride wore a lace gown fashioned with a stand-up collar and full sleeves. The skirt was formed of tiers of lace. A Juliet-styled headpiece, accented with pearls and rhinsetones, held her three-tiered veil.

Yellow baby roses, carnations and baby's breath were arranged in the bride's bouquet.

Mrs. Linda Kinder was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Janet Hamm and Miss Pam Nesbitt.

Jerry Torrey was best man while James Robinson and Don Stevens served as ushers.

A reception at the church, attended by 200 guests, followed the evening rites.

Mr. and Mrs. Winkler will reside in La Verne after a honeymoon along the California coastline.

Diet facts offered in booklet

It is easy to give up on a New Year's resolution to lose a few pounds. There is no doubt that dieting is hard work. And the worst part is giving up foods one loves.

But take heart. A fresh approach to that diet will make it work.

Instead of giving up favorite foods, try to "de-calorize' them. After all, it is often not the food itself but the way it is prepared that adds the unwanted calories.

More than 60 delicious and low-calorie recipes for potatoes have just been published in a new booklet by The Potato Board.

"The Potato Lover's Diet Cookbook,' authored by Barbara Gibbons is an attractive 40-page booklet offering tasty potato recipes ranging from appetizers to desserts.

The booklet includes tips on sensible versus fad dieting, the honest facts about the potato's nutritive and caloric values and some ideas that should make dieting a lot easier.

The bride wore a gown of white silk fashioned with a fitted bodice and full gathered skirt which formed a cathedral train. Lace accented the round yoke, fitted sleeves and hemline. Her cathedral-length veil of silk illusion was held by a headpiece of lace petals.

A colonial bouquet of white roses, white and blue elegance carnations and stephanotis was carried by the bride.

Miss Sandi Droogh was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Brenda Veiga and Miss Carla Droogh.

Nancy Voets was flower girl and Todd DeRenzis was ring bearer.

Serving as best man was David Murphy. Ushers were Jerome Murphy, Norby Murphy and Dennis Murphy.

John Droogh and Debbie Murphy carried the offeratory gifts.

High mortality

NEW YORK (UPI) — The death rate of infants remains higher than that of any other age group before 65 years. Infant mortality is a health problem of considerable importance, says the American Public Health Association.

A comprehensive report of a study, focusing on the characteristics of prenatal care among pregnant women from a wide range of racial, social, and economic backgrounds, has been published as a supplement to the association's journal — American Journal of Public Health.

POMONA — "Just Entertainment," an exhibition of photography by Caldwell Moise of Riverside, is on view through Jan. 17 at the main gallery of the Pomona Public Library. His principal subjects are people at a circus and at the beach.

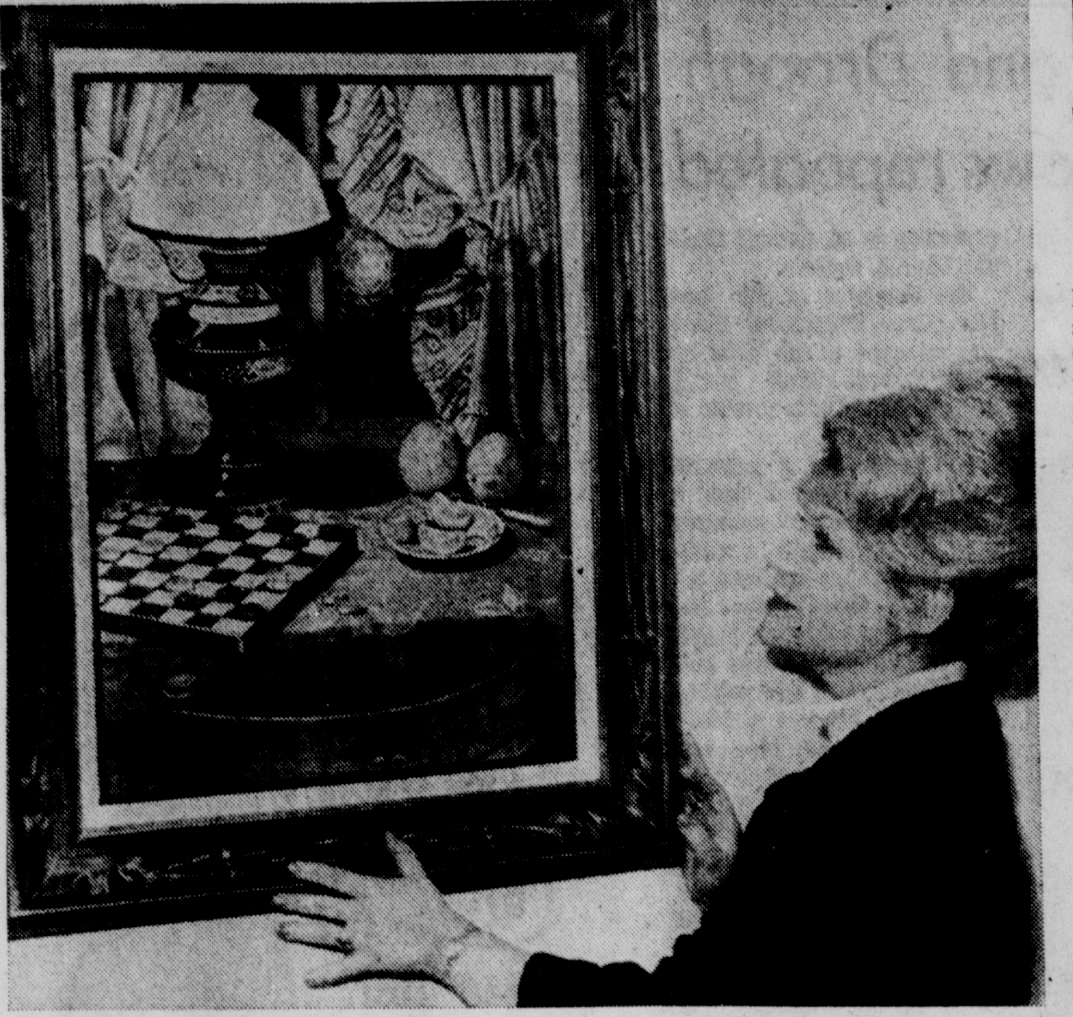
Moise's photography is simple and straightforward. He compares it to literature which he feels is primarily dedicated to the purpose of giving pleasure.

" 'Just entertainment' is not intended to be pretentious," he says. "No social problem is documented. No beautiful seascapes or portraits of famous personages are included, because I feel too many exhibits nowadays have very painful aspects. They are so deadly serious and worthwhile!"

According to Moise, the circus performers have an old tradition. They are dedicated to amazing, thrilling and dazzling the spectators. "The lion tamers hope that their acts are frightening and the clowns knock themselves out to make kids of all ages laugh," he says. "They all have one desire in common -- that everyone will take home a head full of excitement and wonder."

Moise believes that the people on the beach are really the same ones that were at the circus. "Here they are finding their fun themselves," he says. "In both places age didn't seem to make any difference in what was enjoyed."

Moise is a retired architect who took up photography as a hobby. He holds degrees in fine arts and architecture.



PRIZE WINNER — Bernadette Gravette of Pomona looks over her pastel, "A Game of Checkers," which won her the Artist of the Month award from the Traditional Artists of Southern California for December. This and 12 other works, including four other award winners, will be on exhibit at the Claremont branch of the Pomona First Federal Savings & Loan Association, 393 W. Foothill Blvd., through January and February. The one-man show is open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Parade of fantasy at Disneyland

ANAHEIM — "Fantasy on Parade" will decorate the streets of Disneyland with Christmas cheer at 2 and 9 p.m. each day Wednesday through next Sunday as part of the park holiday celebration.

Disneyland stages will also offer a variety of music from pop to big band sounds. The DeFranco Family, whose recording of "Heartbeat—It's a Love Beat" is still a top-selling hit, will perform at 8 and 10 p.m. on the Tomorrowland Stage.

Ray McKinley and his orchestra will offer four sets from 8 p.m. to midnight at Main Street's Plaza Gardens.

During the day, the Mike Curb Congregation will be showcased in a special Christmas show on Tomorrowland Stage.

Other live entertainment will be offered at the Tahitian Terrace with a Polynesian Revue and at the Golden Horseshoe with a Frontier Revue and "Class of 27" show.

The Fantasy on Parade will include such Disney favorites as Snow White, Mary Poppins, Pinocchio, Dumbo and the new Robin Hood.

Extended holiday hours are in effect Wednesday through next Sunday with the park open from 8 a.m. to midnight.

Order from P.O. Department, Philatelic Section, Ottawa 8, Ontario, Canada.

The 1974 Switzerland Catalog, the 18th edition in English, is now off the press. It shows an unprecedented number of price increases, 7424 against only 46 reductions. The price is $4.75 postpaid.

Volume III of the Standard Scott Catalog contains 1124 pages of listings for the stamps of Japan through Zambezia. Of these, more than 10 are devoted to Mongolia. For the first time stamps issued by the Mongolian People's Republic since 1946 have been included.

There are 45,415 new prices, of which Persia leads with 2853, Switzerland with 2788 and Yugoslavia with 2520. There are 2465 price changes for Japan, nearly everything higher. Also Spain indicates a continuing demand with 2380 price changes.

Volume III sells for $9. The U.S. Specialized Catalog, priced at $8.25 will be published in Mid-January.

On January 1 the Franklin D. Roosevelt Philatelic Society, Box 150-G, Clinton Corners, N.Y. 12514 will issue a set of two covers to commemorate the 45th anniversary of the first Inauguration of Franklin D. Roosevelt as Governor of New York. The set sells for $1. Include addressed and stamped envelope.

El Paso smelter

Lead level up for dwellers near plant

ATLANTA (UPI) — Discharges from an El Paso, Tex., smelter are responsible for abnormally high lead levels in residents of a four square mile area, according to the National Center for Disease Control.

The NCDC said this weekend at least 2,700 persons in El Paso were found to have high lead levels in their systems. No cases of overt lead poisoning were discovered, but studies are continuing to determine if there are "subtle, but possibly permanent neurologic or psychologic after affects," the center said.

"The problem of undue lead absorption affects persons across all of south and west El Paso to a distance of at least four miles from the smelter," the NCDC said.

"Lead emitted by the smelter and deposited in soil and dust would appear to be the major source of the lead absorbed by humans."

Forty-three per cent of persons of all ages and 62 per cent of children through age ten living within one mile of the smelter had "undue" lead levels in their bloodstreams, the NCDC said.

El Paso city officials have ordered a reduction in emissions from the ore smelter and relocated 500 persons who lived in public housing nearby, the center said.

The accumulation of lead in the soil and dust was intensified by several features of the terrain, including high aridity, the sheltering effect of nearby high mountains and frequent thermal inversions, according to the NCDC.

The concentration of metallic wastes in the air was highest immediately downwind of the smelter. soil samples produced similar results.

Samples of drinking water, milk and food were free of high lead content, the center said.

Between 1969 and 1971, the smelter released 1,116 tons of lead, 560 tons of zinc, 12 tons of cadmium and 1.2 tons of arsenic through its smoke stacks, the NCDC said.

The ore smelter was not identified.

GOP campaign chief

Jobless rate seen as big '74 election issue

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The unemployment picture will overshadow Watergate as the main issue in next year's midterm elections, Rep. Robert Michel, R-Ill., the GOP's congressional campaign chief, predicted recently.

He said his advice to President Nixon regarding the energy crisis has been: "Let's preserve jobs at all costs."

Michel spoke in a UPI "Washington Window" interview.

"If this voluntary restraint does not work and we have to move into (rationing) in order to preserve jobs," he said, "I think frankly the public will accept that."

The Illinois congressman, whose job it is to add at least 26 Republicans to the House and give the party a majority, conceded that "history is against us." The party in control of the White House usually loses about 30 seats, he said.

Michel admitted that a number of Republican congressmen probably would divorce themselves from the Nixon administration in their own campaigns.

"It's mixed," he said. You're always going to have the-wool, those who've got those who are really dyed-in-more secure districts (and) those who've got problems of one kind or another and they've got to exercise their own judgments on what's best to get themselves re-elected.

"I guess that if I were in a critical kind of situation on a vote here in the House, and particularly among the (45 GOP) freshmen ... my advice to them is 'you vote your district' even when it comes to a party position.

IRA recruiters in drive to get women guerrillas

BELFAST (UPI) — The outlawed Irish Republican Army has launched a major recruiting campaign among Roman Catholic women in Northern Ireland to fill its depleted ranks with female guerrillas, British army sources said recently.

Military sources said women, as well as children, already are playing an increasing role in the IRA bomb-and-bullet campaign.

The recruiting campaign came to the military's attention when posters calling for women volunteers appeared on walls in Catholic districts of Londonderry recently.

The posters show the silhouette of a woman carrying a modern automatic rifle under the banner, "Free Our Country," and urge all women to join the IRA's women's army.

The drive followed army intelligence reports indicating that gunbattles and arrests have depleted the IRA forces to such an extent in Ulster that they were turning to women and children to replace the lost men.

In recent weeks, army sources said, women have taken a much greater role in the IRA bomb campaigns and boys as young as 10 years old have been given weapons to fire at the army.

"It is only a question of time before one of these youngsters is killed or seriously wounded," one army source said. "Taking potshots at soldiers with an automatic rifle is a dangerous business".

In the past four years, 921 persons have been killed in violence among the majority Protestants, minority Catholics and the security forces of Northern Ireland.

Riles urges caution on 4-day school week idea

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —State school Superintendent Wilson Riles today warned educators to "go-slow" on the idea of switching to four-day school weeks to ease the energy shortage.

If four-day school weeks were adopted throughout the state, Riles said it would leave many working parents with the problem of what to do with their youngsters on the fifth day.

"And we also should be sure that a four-day week really would save energy," Riles told the state Board of Education. "What about the youngster who stays at home on the fifth day and turns on the television all day. Is that saving energy?"

Legislation permitting districts to adopt four-day weeks has been proposed by Assemblyman Leroy Greene, D-Sacramento. Pupils still would be required to attend classes for the same number of hours per week. The measure will be considered during the 1974 legislative session.

Woman's touch saves gasoline

LONDON (UPI) — The woman's touch can save gasoline, oil company official Geoffrey Sheppard said.

He said tests by the Automobile Association showed that a woman can get more miles than a man from a tankful of gasoline. "It is just because a woman has a gentler touch on the accelerator," he said.

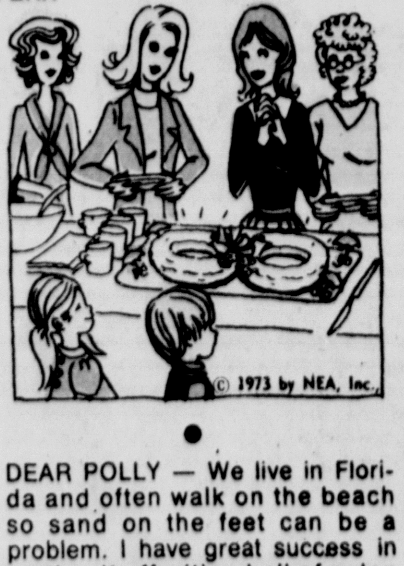
Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — Washcloths are now very expensive. I make my own for about 20 cents each. A GOOD GRADE bath towel is used to make eight cloths by sewing two rows of zigzag stitching, ¼" apart, down the middle of the towel longways. Stitch three double rows equally spaced across the width. Cut between the double rows of stitching and have eight cloths with a finished edge around each. — ELVINA

●

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, c/o this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY — For a bridal shower make two bundt cakes and then place them close together as a double wedding ring. Frost and place a decoration in the center where the cakes meet and you'll have a cake most appropriate for the occasion. Mine have rated many compliments. — FERN



© 1973 by NEA, Inc.

●

DEAR POLLY — We live in Florida and often walk on the beach so sand on the feet can be a problem. I have great success in getting it off with a ball of nylon net or even just a piece ot net, which works much better than a towel. — MRS J. Y.

DEAR POLLY — The other day a large wasp got into my sewing room. I was out of insect repellent spray and I reached for my can of hair spray, sprayed the wasp and in a few seconds he fell to the floor as the spray had stiffened him so he was unable to fly. Also, this spray can be washed off anything it touches. — NANCY F.

DEAR POLLY — One of my favorite money-saving ideas is to buy boys' knit shirts to wear with my slacks and shorts. For a reasonable price I get a good quality knit shirt (less when on a sale) that will really wash and wear. I can't find one equal in price and quality for twice the price in the women's department. They come in just about every color except perhaps pink. My size 10 converts to a boys' 18 or 20 if they run small, and boys' sizes go to 24. In most cases anyone wearing up to a size 14 could switch over. — L. M. K.

●

DEAR POLLY — It is a nuisance to dig and scratch to remove caked-on soap from a plastic dish. I simply throw mine in the wash with a load of towels. — L. L. B.

●

DEAR POLLY — When taking a cake to a picnic or bake sale there is no worry about getting your plate back if the cake is placed on the round cardboard that came under a frozen pizza and that you have covered with aluminum foil. — JWANIE

A Dream of Christmas

A Musical Fantasy

The Official Childcatcher, on the lookout for friendly children to lock away, tempting them out of hiding with his luscious lollipops, cakewalks across the screen on nimble feet. He's dancing on ancient and charming territory, one of the most picturesque spots in Europe. Historic, picture-book locations in Bavaria and the South of France provided much of the background for "Chitty Chitty Bang Bang," the musical-fantasy family-film special which will be rebroadcast Sunday at 7:30PM in color on CBS.

"Chitty Chitty Bang Bang" is the name of a magical car which transports its owner, inventor Caractacus Potts, played by Dick Van Dyke, his two children, Jeremy (Adrian Hall) and Jennifer (Heather Ripley), and a friend, Truly Scrumptious (Sally Ann Howes) to adventures on the Continent. Many of the fairy-tale sequences of the film take place in the medieval walled town of Rothenburg on the River Tauber, which represents a village in the mythical state of Vulgaria ruled by the evil Baron and Baroness Bomburst (Gert Frobe and Anna Quayle), who hate all children. Rothenburg, a town that permits no modern buildings, is set on a plateau 200 feet above the Tauber. The 13th century village with its cobbled streets provided the backdrop for a lively scene in the film in which the cavalry—horses obtained from a famous stud farm near Munich—and the wicked Childcatcher (Robert Helpann) search through the village for the hidden tots. The cobblestone streets of Rothenburg supplied a reverberation system for the cadence of the horses' hooves and the rumble of Chitty, the two-ton monster. One of Bavaria's most famous castles, Neuschwanstein, or Mad King Ludwig's Castle, as it is commonly called, was used for several sequences. The castle, with its high turrets and towers piled one on another, stands at the foot of the Alps close to the Austrian border.

'THE SUBJECT IS ROSES'

Pasadena's world famous Tournament of Roses Parade and Rose Bowl football classic have been around so long that it's almost inconceivable that no one has told their story on television before. That lack is being overcome on Christmas Eve (Monday) when KHJ-TV, Channel 9, presents "The Subject Is Roses," from 9 to 10PM, with Leslie Nielsen as host/narrator.

The one-hour historical documentary, produced in cooperation with the Tournament of Roses, traces the history of the Pasadena Tournament back to its origin in 1890, when the socially elite members of the Pasadena Valley Hunt Club decided to stage a New Year's Day spectacle.

Robert Gaylord rides the first automobile that appeared in the famed Tournament of Roses Parade in 1901.

From that beginning, the Tournament has grown to an event viewed by more than 125 million people around the world each January 1, and nearly one and one-half million spectators watch the parade from Pasadena's sidewalks.

The first football game was held in 1902. A mighty Michigan team swamped Stanford, 49–0. No western team could be found to play the fearsome easterners, so football was abandoned until 1916. During the intervening years, Pasadena businessmen became toga-clad charioteers as chariot races held sway each January 1.

The special includes footage of highlight games from 1916 on, including Cal center Roy Riegels run in 1929, when he gave away a Rose Bowl victory by running toward his own goal line! In 1920, Harvard's only Rose Bowl appearance was a 7–6 victory over Oregon, and the idea of a great football stadium was born in the minds of Tournament officers. On January 1, 1923 the Rose Bowl was ready, built at a cost of only $272,198! The special also salutes the Men in White, Pasadena-area volunteers who stage the parade and football game. This year, for example, they will put in more than 50,000 man hours of time to present Pasadena's New Year's present to the world.

Famous people have been associated with the Tournament down through the years. Grand Marshals have included Shirley Temple, Herbert Hoover, Apollo Astronauts, Dwight D. Eisenhower, Walt Disney, Richard Nixon (twice), Bob Hope (twice), and dozens more. This year's Grand Marshal, cartoonist Charles Schulz is interviewed by Leslie Nielsen. Nielsen also interviews the 1974 Rose Queen, Miranda Barone.

Filled with exclusive film clips and stills dating back to 1890, the documentary reveals backstage scenes of float construction and the many other elements that make the Tournament of Roses the only major annual event of its kind covered by two networks and for syndication.

The program, which will be repeated on New Year's Eve on Channel 9, was produced and written by Martin M. Cooper and directed by Susan Stratton. Executive Producer was Walt Baker.

'THE ROCKEFELLER FAMILY'

Television's first candid look into the public and private lives of one of America's most famous families, the Rockefellers, and the power and influence their very name wields, will be presented in a two-hour edition of CBS Reports: "The Rockefellers," Friday at 9PM on CBS.

Each of the four surviving Rockefeller brothers—Nelson, Laurance, John and David—is interviewed by CBS News Correspondent Walter Cronkite, the reporter on the broadcast, about their family and their activities and philosophies.

"Almost every American associates the name Rockefeller with wealth and power, but few people know anything about the Rockefellers themselves," observes Burton Benjamin, executive producer of the broadcast. "With the exception of Nelson Rockefeller, the governor of New York, the other members of the family have managed to keep relatively low profiles. They can walk the streets unrecognized. No one really knows who they are, what they do, how they think, what their lives are like, and what their influence is, for better or worse, in this country. In essence, these are the areas we look at in this two-hour profile."

The Rockefellers learned at an early age, the broadcast reveals, that there were two essential things to do with their money: Save 10 percent and give 10 percent. Today, in addition to being one of America's richest families, they are also among the country's foremost philanthropists. On an individual basis, each of the grandchildren of John D. Rockefeller has pursued different interests. The great diversity of these pursuits provide the core of the broadcast, as each of the Rockefeller's is closely observed:

—Nelson, 65, the politician, is the most public member of the family and generally assumes the role as its head.

—David, 58, is considered by some to be the most powerful family member. As chairman of the board and chief executive officer of the Chase Manhattan Bank, he is a great internationalist; his commercial and business relationships span the globe.

—John D. Rockefeller 3rd, 67, is the family's professional philanthropist. He is also the founder of the Population Council.

—Laurance, 63, is the family innkeeper and conservationist; there is a definite relationship between the two. His idea for conservation is the protection of scenic areas for human use; his hotels are usually located in magnificent isolated surroundings. He is also known for delving into venture capital—Eastern Airlines and McDonnell-Douglas are among his most noted investments.

—Abby Rockefeller Mauze, 70, the eldest, is responsible for Greenacre Park in mid-Manhattan. She is also active in many of the Rockefeller philanthropies.

CBS News cameras followed the Rockefellers around for one year as they filled their business and social calendars. The route was as diversified as their activities—from Shanghai to Pocantico Hills, the family estate near Tarrytown, N.Y., and from Moscow to Washington, D.C.

INSIDE the tube & OUTSIDE hollywood

by Bill Mahan

The other Sunday night I was sitting with my 9-year-old daughter in front of the TV. She was watching "Disney's Wonderful World of Color." I was reading Frank Capra's autobiography, "The Name Above the Title." I was enjoying Capra's Horatio Alger rise from a Sicilian Los Angeles ghetto to five major Academy Awards for "It Happened One Night," but I was also caught up with Disney.

At commercial, I was thinking of the parallel success stories of Capra and Disney, whose stars both rose approximately in the same decade, between the late '20s and the late '30s. Capra had been given carte blanche by Harry Cohn at Columbia Studios—one man, one film. Capra saw his pictures through from start to finish, had complete artistic control. He took full responsibility for success or failure, and Cohn was willing to bet on Capra's success.

At the end of the show I informed my 9-year-old that Mr. Disney had started out with a mouse and became an American Institution. "Was he in the encyclopedia?" she asked, sensibly. American Institutions are always in the encyclopedia. I didn't know, but we looked, and sure enough, he was, along with his picture and a picture of Disneyland.

He was, certainly, but I got to thinking that the label "nice man" is hardly ever applied to a perfectionist, because perfectionists are hard to deal with. He had his worshippers and his detractors, but the admirers were in the majority. He bargained hard, he took 90 per cent of any project presented (so I've heard) but if he took your project on, odds are that you had a winner.

It was more or less rumored in Hollywood that the tight ship would loosen considerably at Disney's death, but things went on there pretty much the same as usual, and it seems the following story is the reason:

Approximately a year after his death, a memo went around to all department heads at Disney Studios, as well as other key people involved with Disney projects. It stated there would be a special screening in one of the projection rooms at a certain time.

As those invited entered the room, they were instructed to look at the seating arrangement. Each seat that would be occupied had a name card on it. The seating arrangement was such that no one was sitting close to anyone else.

There was no announcement and everyone sat and fidgeted. The lights in the theater dimmed. Then the curtains covering the screen were drawn open and the projector started running. No music or sound effects invaded the solemn atmosphere. Then the picture came on. Walt Disney, sitting behind his desk, looked out over his awestruck employees and greeted them. He addressed them each by name, pointing and speaking directly to each one, quizzing them as to the progress of the particular project or projects they were involved in. He outlined exactly what he expected of them, and what the company's future was going to be. When he finished talking with everyone, he told them goodbye and that he would be seeing them again.

Walt Disney had found a way to stay at the helm of the company he founded even after death. I got to wondering if he and Frank Capra had ever met each other. Capra's guts and brains, Disney's vision and tenacity. American genius at its best.

It would have been fun to see those two on a talk show, arguing together against the no-risk, no-responsibility credo that dominates and is destroying commercial television. Any of Capra's old movies would run better against prime-time mediocrity, and Disney's "Wonderful World" enjoys the steadiest ratings and time slot since Ed Sullivan.

Chief Ironside decides to teach a lesson.

CHALLENGE OF ABILITIES

Lee Majors starring as Steve Austin, "The Six Million Dollar Man," is scheduled to premiere on ABC in the high adventure series as a weekly hour show starting in January, 1974 (Fridays at 8:30PM).

The series, based on the book, "Cyborg" by Martin Caidin, was introduced to television audiences last spring as an ABC Wednesday Night Movie. Two ABC Suspense Movies followed in October and November. The success of these films encouraged the development of the character as a weekly series.

This is Lee Majors fourth television series. He began his acting career as a regular in The Big Valley. The Men From Shiloh followed. Three years ago, he took on the co-starring role of Jess Brandon in Owen Marshall, Counselor at Law. It was decided that he would continue in that series while working on the TV movies for "The Six Million Dollar Man."

"The thing I enjoyed most about Owen Marshall, was working with Arthur Hill," he said. "It was not only a great opportunity to learn as an actor but it is wonderful to have the friendship of such a fine man."

Yet the challenge of his new show is more demanding than his acting skills. It also requires great physical agility as well.

Lee Majors comes well equipped to handle the role. He was a star athlete in high school and a member of the Kentucky All-State football team. He won an athletic scholarship to the University of Indiana. When he graduated from college, he had an offer from the NFL's St. Louis Cardinals but he decided on acting for his career and came to Hollywood.

What makes the role of Steve Austin so challenging is that the man is suppose to be the youngest astronaut to have walked on the moon. He is also a test pilot who crashes while testing a "lifting body." The disaster leaves him as "human scrap." An aero-medical team, at the cost of $6 million, use their skills and knowledge of bionics and cybernetics to restore his two legs, an arm and an eye lost in the accident.

Austin, in his re-made state, has a bionics arm, powered by nuclear energy, that gives him the strength of 20 men. He can now run at the speed of 60 MPH and he has the ability to see in the dark.

The elements of the character border on science fiction but are rooted in science fact. Currently, at UCLA Medical Center, these limbs are actually being developed.

According to producers Don Boyle and Sam Strangis, the direction of the hour-long high adventure shows will be to show Austin, the government agent working in areas that would be impossible for any other operative.

Richard Anderson returns to co-star as Oscar Goldman, the head of the governmental agency that sends Steve Austin on his missions.

"Steve Austin would be a trouble shooter we would send up in case the moon shot failed," Don Boyle said. "We have one story where an underground nuclear base is damaged by an earthquake and Austin is sent down to rescue survivors."

Another adventure involves Austin trying to protect a computer code scrambling expert, who is also a cross country skier.

The subject matter of the stories demands locations according to producer Sam Strangis, who plans to film the show in as wide a variety of places from Lake Tahoe to Death Valley.

"I would film it in the Los Angeles sewers if it will add to the realism of the show," Strangis said. "The way I see it, to make it believable, it has to be shot at least eighty percent outdoors."

Both producers see the key to the show as being Austin's human vulnerability.

"These extraordinary abilities of his bionic limbs are still under the control of a very human being," Strangis said. "He can make mistakes, get hurt and even be killed."

"One of the things that we will be doing is presenting some of Steve Austin's personal life," Boyle said. "We will have romances in each of his shows as well as dangers."

Guest stars are also planned for each of the episodes.

Boyle and Strangis are aware that "The Six Million Dollar Man" offers a new, unique hero for the younger viewers of TV.

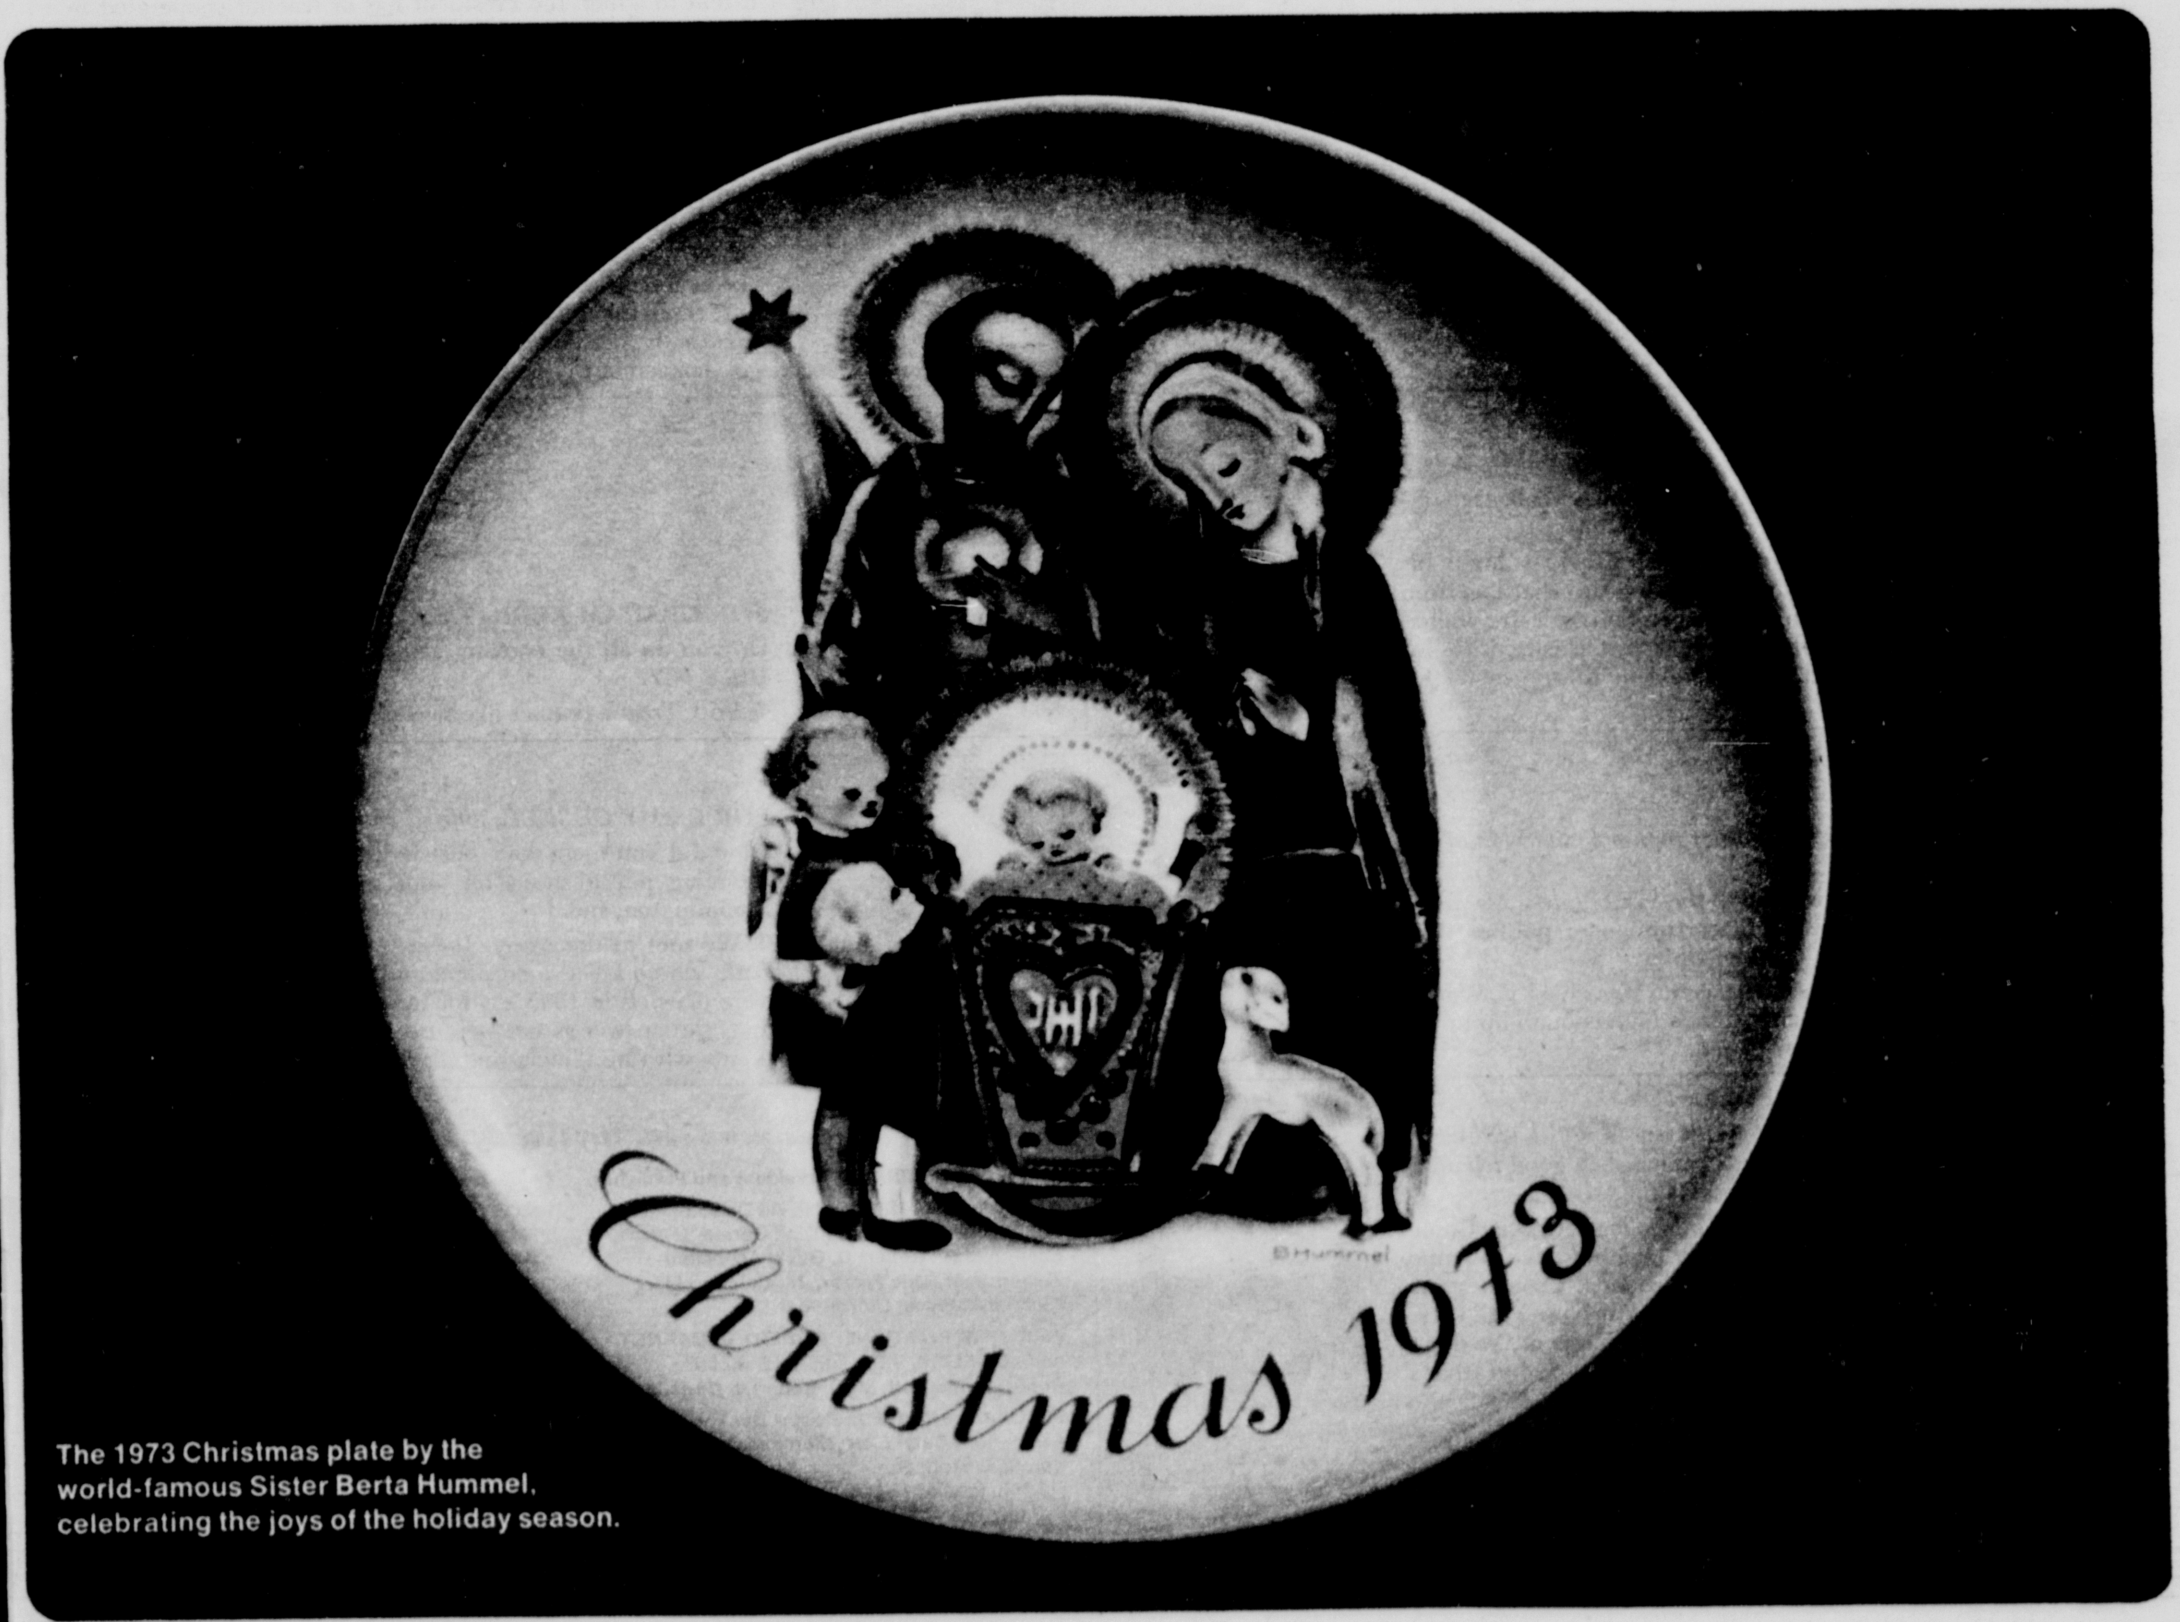
A Christmas Call To Conscience: "Our Animals Are Crying"

Quiz: How Well Do You Understand True Friendship?

George C. Scott: "I Hope My Children Never Become Actors"



The 1973 Christmas plate by the world-famous Sister Berta Hummel, celebrating the joys of the holiday season.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR SEN. GEORGE McGOVERN (D-S.D.)

You were the main target of the "Dirty Tricks" in the 1972 presidential campaign. No doubt they hurt your chance to be President. Why haven't you spoken out against them?—Robert Barney, San Antonio, Texas

● Repeatedly during the 1972 presidential campaign, I warned the voters as forcefully as I could that the Nixon Administration was the most corrupt in American history. The ITT case, the milk bribe, the crooked campaign financing, the Russian wheat deal, the deception of the American people on Indochina, the Watergate affair, and a host of other examples were cited. But to no avail. There seems little point now in my continuing to hammer on themes that are self-evident to anyone with eyes, ears and minimum comprehension.

FOR SALLY STRUTHERS of "All in the Family"*

I read that you are going to a hypnotist. Do you believe in hypnotism?—F.L., Washington, D.C.

● Yes, because I've seen it work. My father was a doctor and he used hypnotism sometimes—like when he had to find out why a little boy had emotional problems. It turned out he was embarrassed about his big ears. My father did surgery—and the child was a happy boy after that. I've been hypnotized twice. I don't remember any of it—but it worked!

FOR ARCHIBALD COX,
former Watergate special prosecutor

Some people claim President Nixon ought to be impeached for firing you. Don't you think he had the power to do that? —N.Z., Dover, Dela.

● Yes, I think the President had the power to direct the Attorney General to dismiss me. But I'd also think the House Judiciary Committee would want to look into the extent to which the President has or has not cooperated in the attempt to get at the truth.

FOR O.J. SIMPSON, of the Buffalo Bills*

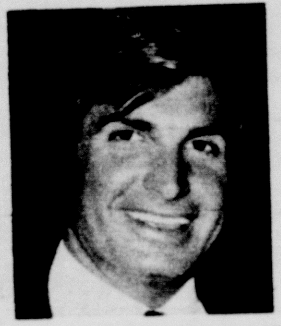
What do the initials O.J. stand for?—Susan Hammonds, Ironton, Ohio

● My real name is Orenthal James Simpson. When I started to play for the University of Southern California, the writers and fans began calling me "Orange Juice." Now they call me either "O.J." or "Juice."



FOR GEORGE HAMILTON

You used to be such a playboy. Did you ever get married? —F. R. R., Idaho Falls, Idaho

● Yes, to Elana Collins. When we met in Acapulco, we disliked each other immediately. Not just the first time, but the next three times as well. Obviously we started getting along eventually, because we went together for five years and then got married last year.

FOR KATHY LENNON of the Lennon Sisters*

How did you get started on the Lawrence Welk show?—P. Elgin, Akron, Ohio

● Diane was dating Lawrence Welk, Jr. He wanted his father to listen to us, but Mr. Welk had heard that line from so many hopefuls, he wasn't that eager. So Larry, Jr., waited until his father had the flu, then took us to his bedside for an audition. He listened, then signed us to appear on his Christmas show.

FOR GRAHAM KERR, The Galloping Gourmet*

Do you do all the cooking at home?—Mrs. J. J. Connolly, Utica, N.Y.

● I do. Treena doesn't like to cook. But she washes up!

FOR JEAN WESTWOOD, former national chairman of the Democratic party*

Doesn't the absence of women in the Watergate mess prove that women are less prone to corruption in politics than men?—Mrs. John Wood, Canton, Ohio

● No. The only reason women weren't involved in Watergate is that there weren't any women high enough up in the Republican party to be considered.

FOR EMMY COSELL, wife of sportscaster Howard Cosell*

How did you meet your husband, and doesn't his constant traveling put a strain on your marriage?—B. F. Lynch, Bloomington, Ind.

● We met in the Army. It was at Fort Hamilton in New York, where I was a corporal and he was a lieutenant. We were married in 1945. As for the second part of your question, the answer is no, because I go to 95 percent of the events with him, including all the Monday night games.

FOR JIM KIICK, running back for the Miami Dolphins*

How did you and Larry Csonka become such good friends? —Robert Davis, Colorado Springs, Colo.

● We got to know each other at the College All-Star Game in 1968. When we reported to the Dolphins, we became roommates. We had different backgrounds. Csonka grew up on a farm in Stow, Ohio; I grew up near New York City. We never planned anything. We just let it happen. We don't have anything in common except friendship, but that's enough.

A Christmas Call to Conscience: Do You Hear the Animals Crying?

By Judith Schmidt

Camera Clix

These are the lucky animals this holiday season. They have a home. There are nearly 65 million cats and dogs who do not.

> "I found your cat today. She was beside my mailbox, right where you wanted her to go—that nice little farmhouse in the country. Only trouble was, your cat couldn't see me because her eyes were pasted shut with infection, every bone showing through her dirty hide, her stomach distended with worms and by starvation."

Ding, dong, dell, pussy's in the well. . . .

And in the streets, the trash cans, on a country road, dying of disease, injury and starvation, or some sadist's whim.

Who put her there?

The American people—the pet owners discarding their responsibility, the ignorant not realizing what they do, the apathetic, the animal hater and even the animal lover—the people who cannot stand to have an animal put to sleep humanely so dump it kindly on a country road for someone kinder yet to find.

Taken from a "To-whom-it-may-concern" letter that appeared in a Pennsylvania newspaper:

"I want to tell you what happened to your cat after you dropped her off. The first few days she stayed just about where you dropped her, waiting for you to come back. Then hunger drove her on along the road, searching for food and shelter. By now she eats anything she can find, and it is a rotten, wormy, disease-laden diet. Dogs and other animals chase her and she is almost hit by passing cars.

"Exposure to freezing nights almost kills her, but your cat is tough. . . .

"I found your cat today. She was beside my mailbox, right where you wanted her to go—that nice farmhouse in the country. Only trouble was, your cat couldn't see me because her eyes were pasted shut with infection, every bone showing through her dirty hide, her stomach distended with worms and by starvation. Too weak to stand, she made a little noise at me—but it was for you, her rightful owner, to hear. She is dead now. Do you still believe that you took care of her the humane way?"

Not enough can be said on the problems facing our "second-class citizens" —the nearly 65 million homeless and unwanted cats and dogs in the U.S. Surplus breeding causes most of the evils. By decreasing the value of animal life we must recognize that we cause problems in every area imaginable, from simply a stray cat at the back door to the insidious practice of gathering up all wandering animals and selling them to unethical research laboratories. Sure—you've heard it before. But people are still allowing it to happen. And on a scale of cruelty and suffering so large it staggers the imagination.

One of the less obvious forms of cruelty centers around 100 million vertebrate animals killed each year by research laboratories. Granted, this does not apply to all research labs, and some of the animals suffer no pain and are treated humanely during experiments. But for others there are torturous experiences, including being beaten, scalded and burned so that their reactions may be studied until they die.

Millions die slow and miserable deaths from laboratory inflicted poisons, irradiation, cancer, exotic surgery and disease. Others are imprisoned for years in small dark cages in poorly ventilated rooms. Monkeys have been kept for months and years in "restraining chairs" (a steel boxlike contraption with an opening for the head, arms and legs), while often painful research is done on them.

Most of this suffering is unnecessary and inexcusable and has been deplored by eminent scientists for years. But the general public seems to have accepted the idea that anesthesia and sterility are all that lie behind the laboratory walls.

Not true.

To add more fuel, bills have been proposed before legislatures, over the years, to legalize the use of live animals, including cats and dogs, in high school science experiments. One of the arguments has been that by experimenting on a dog or a cat, the child will assume a more impersonal and objective attitude toward animals. Never mind the fact that we will be teaching our children to repress emotions of empathy and compassion. One high school student was reportedly traumatized during a diabolical experiment conducted by the biology teacher, dissecting a half-anesthetized screaming kitten in front of the class. One cannot help but wonder what psychological effect experiences like this will have on the developing child.

The only way we can save our animals is through enactment of effective federal legislation. Existing anti-cruelty laws don't work, since most states exempt research institutes from such laws. It is up to the people to demand effective legislative action.

"Effective"—that's the key word. Because lack of enforcement is as much of a problem as having no rules whatsoever. It is not uncommon for someone being charged with violating animal codes of a city ordinance to be nonchalantly escorted out of court without so much as a reprimand by an unconcerned judge. And changes of venue are frequent when a local welfare league or citizen tries to pursue a case for the animals' protection.

The cause and the responsibility rest entirely on you. If you own a female cat or dog, have her spayed, or at least resolve to keep your pet strictly controlled during the breeding season. If you do not, you are contributing to the surplus of animals and you are contributing to the cruelty and torture they must endure.

Oh, yes—one other thing . . .

Even if you never intend to have an animal set foot in your door, you should be concerned. As a taxpayer, you are paying many millions a year for animal rescue and control. Isn't there a better way to spend that money?

The animals are crying—
Do you hear?
The animals are dying—
Do you care?

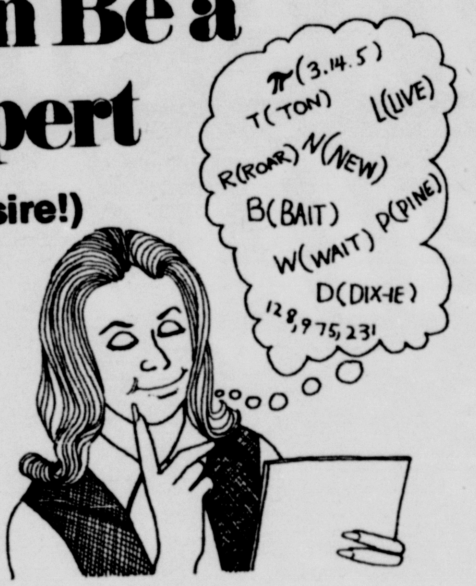
You, Too, Can Be a Memory Expert

(All It Takes Is a Lot of Desire!)



What the American Medical Association says about "photographic memories"...

Some people appear to have photographic memories. They can recite the text of last Sunday's sermon, the value of π to 326 places, or a shopping list.

How do they do it?

"Easier than you might think," says Dr. Bernard Patten, who is associated with the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Stroke at Bethesda, Md. "All memory experts use basically the same technique—they associate one object with another. Take a shopping list. If we know bread and want to remember carrots, we simply conjure up a mental picture of a loaf of bread breaking open, with carrots falling out.

"Eggs—which are next on the list—I associate with carrots by picturing a hen laying a carrot. The more vivid and ridiculous the mental picture associated with any given object," says Dr. Patten, "the easier it is to recall."

Dr. Patten continues: "Names and important numbers seem to be hardest for many people to remember. It's easy to remember a person's name if you associate that person—via a mental picture—with other things you know about him. Suppose that Neil Bottom and Peter Quince are among the people you've just met at a party. If one of those men happened to greet you a few weeks or months from now, would you still remember his name?

"Chances are, you would—if your mental picture reminds you that Bottom is a bank teller and Quince is an air controller. I find that the more I know about a person, the easier it is to remember his name and face. Also, I've found that repeating his name once or twice during the conversation helps fix it in my memory.

"Numbers needn't be hard to memorize. In fact, you can make a game of it. With the help of a 'memory alphabet'—like the one shown in the table—you can quickly convert hard-to-remember numbers into easy-to-remember words.

"The memory alphabet letters for 547, for instance, are L, R and K. With the addition of a vowel, those letters suggest the word LaRK. Likewise, you'll remember the nation's bicentennial year, 1976, if you think of the ToP KiD in a football pileup. Usually, the first word that comes to mind will be the easiest to remember.

"I imagine that George Parker Bidder, an English civil engineer who lived in the last century, used a similar memory system. Once, when he was ten years old, someone read to him—backwards—a 43-digit number. Young Bidder immediately repeated the number correctly in its forward order. And he was able to repeat it again an hour later. . . . The number Bidder memorized was 2,563,721,987,653, 461,598,746,231,905, 607,541,128,975,231."

On the back roads of Missisippi, Alabama and other parts of the deep South, there are still many thousands of families facing slow starvation. Right now. Right here in the U.S.A.

Their diets are so inadequate that hunger and malnutrition have become part of their lives. Many children of tenant farmers and seasonal workers have actually never known what it is like not to be hungry.

The NAACP Emergency Relief Fund is now in its fourth year of collecting money to buy Food Stamps for the neediest of these families. Under the federally sponsored Food Stamp Plan, $1 buys as much as $40 or more in Food Stamps. Thus your $10—an amount that buys "just another Christmas gift" for more fortunate kids—can mean $400 worth of urgently needed nourishment to help a family survive.

To contribute to this fund, please send as little or as much as you can to the NAACP Emergency Relief Fund. Contributions are tax-deductible.

Thank you. And may your Christmas dinner be a little more enjoyable this year.

Your gift can go a long way this Christmas.

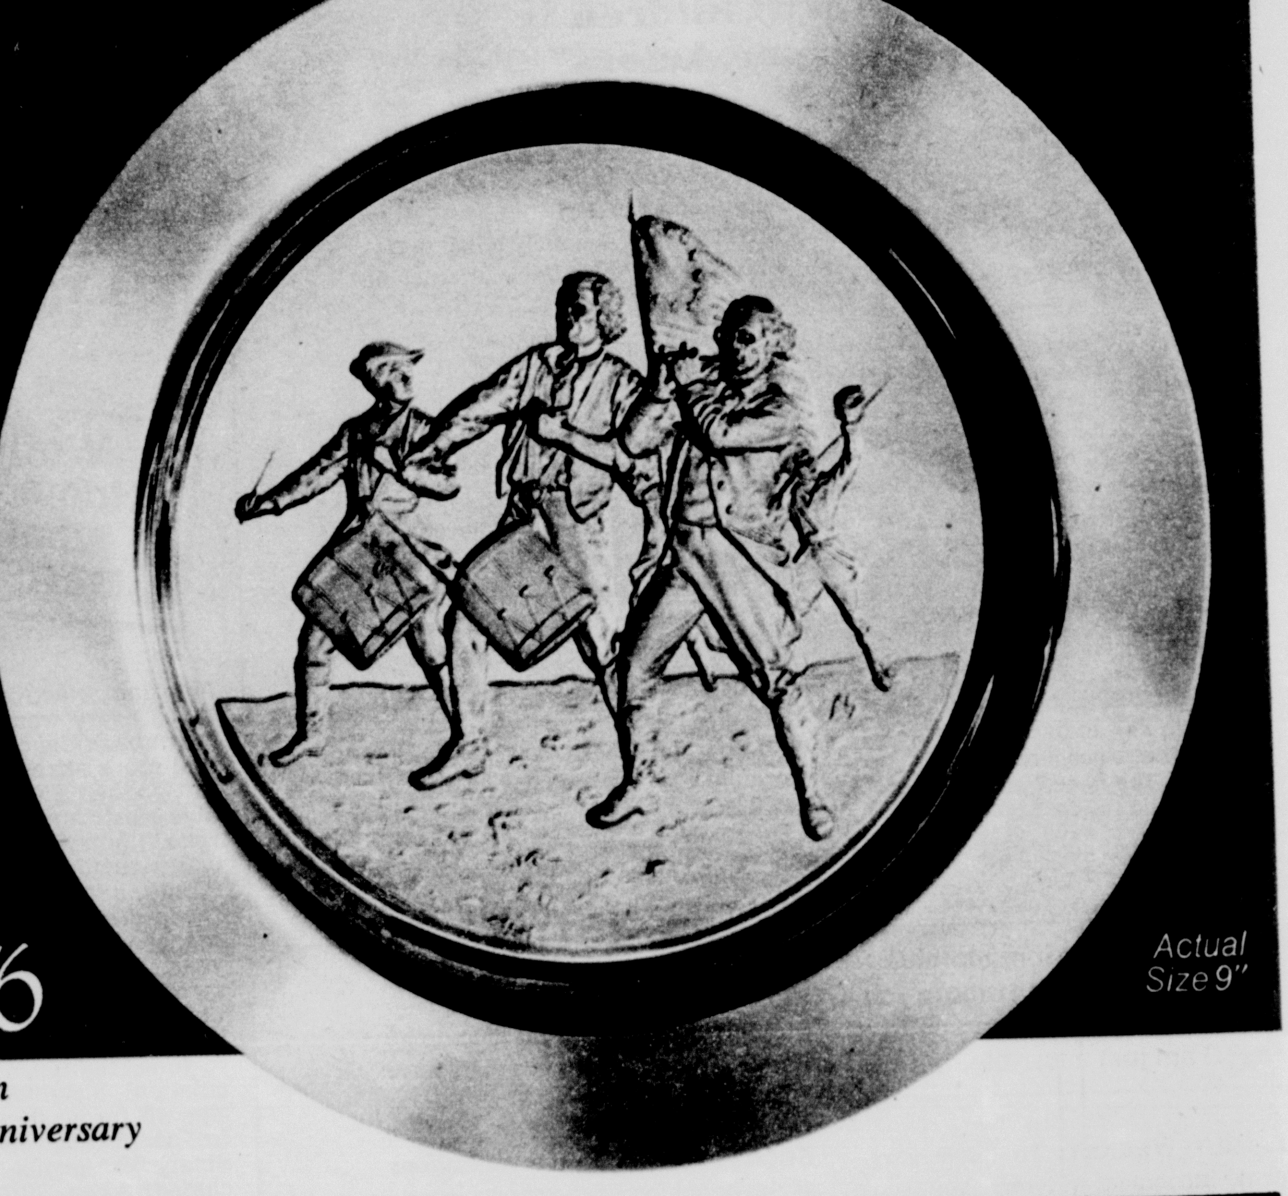
Announcing a major event for every collector and investor in precious limited edition masterpieces.

Now you may become a Charter Subscriber to the first proof quality Bicentennial Pewter Plate by The Hamilton Mint

Original Issue Price $25.00



Actual Size 9"

THE SPIRIT OF '76

First in a series of four superbly sculptured heirloom plates to be struck in honor of our nation's 200th anniversary in Solid Pewter and 24Kt Gold on Pewter

THE year was 1773 . . . and in colonial America small bands of patriots gathered together to discuss their desire for complete "freedom" from the domination of British rule. As the appeals to the Crown became more and more ignored, our young country, with its ragged bands of farmers, businessmen, students . . . almost everyone who longed for a feeling of independence, joined together in what was to become America's Colonial Army of Independence. With the first shot "heard around the world" from the slopes of Bunker Hill, America began its most dramatic moment in history. . . . The American Revolutionary War.

And now, in commemoration of America's 200th Anniversary, The Hamilton Mint has created a special series of proof-quality Pewter Plates that depict the most significant events of this important period in our nation's history. And, if you act promptly, you may become a participant in this unique and truly worthy offering.

OUTSTANDING PLATE COLLECTION

To fittingly record and commemorate the major events and individuals in the founding of our country, The Hamilton Mint has commissioned master sculptor Alfred Brunettin to create the four most significant events in our long struggle for independence: "The Spirit of '76 . . . America's ageless symbol for the fighting men of this war and all other wars since; "Paul Revere's Ride" . . . an expression of the individual's willingness to risk life or limb for the cause of independence; "Betsy Ross Creates The First Flag" . . . America's banner of freedom and liberty that has survived, almost in its original form, for over 200 years; and finally, "Washington At Valley Forge" . . . a graphic dedication to the bravery and suffering of America's first army.

Each plate in this series measures a full 9" in diameter and is struck in high bas relief to bring out all of the sculptured detail and drama of these important scenes. Created by The Hamilton Mint, America's Fine Art Mint, your plates will represent an outstanding collection of meaningful significance that you will be proud to display in an honored place in your home or office.

Your first plate, "The Spirit of '76", will be sent to you as soon as your order is received. Then, every three months you will be notified by mail of the availability of the next plate in the series. It is important to remember however, that only those individuals who order "The Spirit of '76" Bicentennial Plate now will be given the opportunity to order the remaining plates in this historic series.

PEWTER—THE TRADITIONAL METAL OF AMERICA

Because Pewter has traditionally been the metal of America's finest craftmen for over 200 years, it has been selected as the appropriate metal for this plate collection.

Pewter was not only used to a large extent in the households of Colonial America, but our first American Continental Dollar was actually fashioned from Pewter. Today, Pewter has gained an enormous revival of interest among artists and collectors because of the metal's ability to reflect the finest details of the designs that are struck into its surface and because its brilliance resembles fine silver so much.

AVAILABLE IN SOLID PEWTER AND 24 KT GOLD ON PEWTER

The Hamilton Mint's Bicentennial Plate Collection is available in your choice of Solid Pewter for just $25.00 per plate and 24 Kt Gold on Solid Pewter for only $40.00 per plate. If you prefer, you may order and pay for all four of the Bicentennial Plates now. The Four Solid Pewter plates, paid in full now, are just $90.00 complete (you save $10.00), or the four 24 Kt Gold on Solid Pewter plates are just $145.00 complete (you save $15.00).

STRICTLY LIMITED EDITIONS

A strict limit has been established by The Hamilton Mint on the quantity of Bicentennial Plates that will ever be issued in this edition. Only individuals who subscribe to the first plate in the series—"The Spirit of '76"—will be entitled to order the remaining three plates.

Each plate in the series will be individually minted by The Hamilton Mint and each subscriber will receive a registered Certificate of Authenticity attesting to his status as a collector of this limited edition series.

REMARKABLE INVESTMENT OPPORTUNITY

Even though prices in the International Metals Market have soared greatly during the past few years (and leading economists feel they will continue to climb) The Hamilton Mint has already committed for a sufficient quantity of Pewter and Gold to fully cover each subscription in this series. Therefore, you are guaranteed that these prices will not be increased for any plate in this series . . . no matter how high the price of Pewter and Gold rise in the months ahead.

In addition, collector plates have traditionally represented a fine investment opportunity. Certain limited edition collector plates, during the past several years, have soared in value from their original issue price.

To insure yourself of this opportunity to own these finely sculptured Bicentennial Plates, we urge you to send in your order today. It can only be accepted if it is received in time to be included within the edition limits.

Deluxe Version: 24 Kt Gold on Solid Pewter

The beauty of these Bicentennial Pewter Plates has been made even more exquisite and valuable with the addition of 24 Kt Gold richly layered on Solid Pewter. A limited quantity of these plates is available for just $40.00 each.

George C. Scott

liner, and that was in '64 with Colleen [Colleen Dewhurst, his third wife] and the four children. We had a marvelous time. But we stayed to ourselves. We didn't do the party thing and all of that stuff.

FW: What else do you like to do to relax?

SCOTT: Play bridge. Chess. Golf.

FW: Are you good at any of them?

SCOTT: I am average in all of them. If you want to excel in one thing you have to devote too much time to it. Besides, when it comes to sports, I was always too slow to be good as a result of an accident I had when I was in my teens.

FW: What happened?

SCOTT: I was in junior high school and was on my way to class on a cold rainy day. I was crossing the street and I was hit by a car. Luckily the boy was driving very slowly, or I would have been killed. As it was, I was unconscious for 20 minutes and woke up in the hospital.

FW: Were there any after-effects?

SCOTT: It messed up all the calf muscles in my left leg and I still have a bad right knee. At times I still have a pretty bad pain in my left leg.

FW: Any other accidents?

SCOTT: I've been thrown innumerable times by horses, and before you ask, no, it wasn't the horses' fault. I am just a terrible rider. But thank God, no other serious illnesses—except two detached retinas.

FW: When did that happen?

SCOTT: In '68 in my right eye, and '71 in my left eye. My right eye was fixed with a surgical operation, and the other one with a cold needle that was inserted into the eye and sealed it.

FW: How did you become aware of this?

SCOTT: I lost about a third of the vision in my right eye, but I still didn't pay too much attention. One day I took my youngest son for an eye examination—I was in "Plaza Suite" on Broadway at that time—and I thought as long as I was at the doctor's, he might as well look at me. He looked for an hour and then sent me to a specialist who took one look and said, "We operate right away!" I told him I couldn't do that because I was in a play, and he said, "Well, that's tough! Get out of it. NOW!" I did. If I hadn't, I don't dare think what might have happened to my vision.

FW: Do you believe in fate?

SCOTT: No. Just lucky breaks. fw

The Rams' FRED DRYER:

Actually, a Mere 220 Pounds

Defensive end Fred Dryer is such a nonconformist that an exasperated assistant coach once called him "the living end." Tall, blond and good-looking, the 27-year-old Dryer is a motorcycle buff, a surfboard rider and a lover of rock music. He often travels the country in a Volkswagen bus. He's also fond of taking trips "through the wild areas" of South America. While his confreres read the sports pages during out-of-town trips, Dryer prefers science-fiction stories. . . . Dryer's tremendous play is one of the reasons the Los Angeles Rams went from a losing season last year to a winning one this year. In the game against Green Bay, he broke through the Packer defenses twice and tackled two different quarterbacks in the end zone. Result: four points for his team. . . . Although official records sometimes list Dryer's weight as 240 pounds, he says he's never weighed more than 220 and wonders if the 240 figure was put down "to scare the opposition." . . . His stamina, speed and ability to sack enemy passers for big losses gave him a national reputation at San Diego State College. . . . One complaint: "Dryer is a good individual player, but not a team player." But his play with the Rams has disproved that.—By Barry Abramson

The Doctor Lets You In

Why So Many People Have "Heart Attacks" While Eating

You are eating in a restaurant. Suddenly, the man at the next table chokes and drops dead. Heart attack? Perhaps. But more probably it's something doctors call a "café coronary." What has really happened is that the victim choked and suffocated from food, usually meat. It happens because the victim did not chew, or chewed only partially. It can also be caused by alcohol, which slows the gagging reflex. It all sounds rather pedestrian, almost comical—but in fact, "café coronaries" are the sixth leading cause of accidental death, claiming about 2,500 victims yearly. What to look for: If the victim is able to talk, chances are it's a heart attack. If the victim cannot talk, he is probably choking. What to do? Turn the victim upside down or lean him over a chair with head low. Pound his back while using your fingers to remove the plug of food lodged in his throat. Remember: There is not a moment to lose. If the food is not removed at once, the victim can die in less than five minutes.

How Smells Affect Your Appetite

You're ravenous, dinner is in ten minutes, and you're afraid you'll overeat? Then "tune down" your sense of smell. Scientists at the University of California explain that our sense of smell largely governs our appetite. The more smell, the more taste, flavor and attraction of food. But sweet things decrease our sense of smell—and therefore our appetite! So anything sweet depresses our appetite by making food less appealing to us. This is aside from the fact that sugar quickly raises our blood sugar and alleviates hunger. But suppose you want to gain weight? Then, "tune up" your appetite: Eating a tart or bitter food or appetizer before a meal actually prevents a decrease in the sense of smell, and therefore in one's appetite. In fact, they appear to stimulate the appetite, which is how the words aperitif and appetizer as appetite-sharpeners came into being.—By Harriet LaBarre

Why the Executive Life May Not Be for You

Executive work is not a matter of brains or ability. Many smart people have become office executives—and lived unhappily ever after. You can judge your own possible reaction to executive life from the following: Johnson O'Connor Foundation researchers find that to be content as an executive you need: 1) an objective, outgoing personality; 2) ability to deal with abstract ideas; 3) a large vocabulary. The researchers warn that there are other personality types who should avoid the executive desk. Even if they manage the job well, success may cost them heavily in physical and emotional health. They are: 1) People who are happier concentrating on the work itself rather than on the people around them. 2) People with high creative ability for producing new ideas. Unless they are in advertising or some other creative field, they are often restless, bored and dissatisfied as executives.—By S. GLENDA JACKSON

"Terrorism isn't a very good way to accomplish political aims," says British actress Glenda Jackson. "You can see an example of this in the outburst of bombing in England in behalf of the Irish cause. If there were anything guaranteed to harden the British attitude and keep Ireland divided, it was the tactic of exploding bombs in London shops. Such actions have only tended to infuriate. Outbursts like these usually occur for a while, and after they stop, something else is tried. But in the meantime innocent people have been frightened, hurt and killed. This can never do a cause any good." Miss Jackson is working on her latest film, "The Tempter," in which she plays a nun.

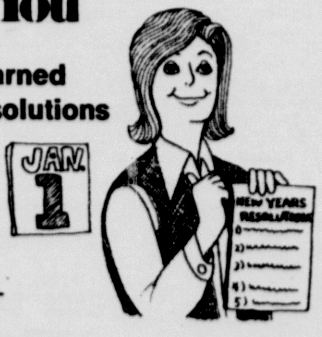
What Science Has Learned About New Year's Resolutions



If you can hold on through January and still keep your New Year's resolutions during February, you may really succeed in changing your life. The key numbers are 32 days and 51 days, according to psychologists. When most people promise themselves, "Beginning January 1st, I'm going to start doing this or doing that," their good intentions for starting a better habit last on the average only 51 days. It's even harder for most of us to keep a resolution to stop a habit. If you make up your mind, "I'm going to stop doing this or that," your willpower will last on the average of 32 days. Every day over either of these averages will be an encouraging sign that you truly are altering your habits. Of all the promises to yourself, the most difficult to keep are ones that involve smoking, physical health and your own personal behavior.

To the 56,000,000 people who smoke cigarettes.

A lot of people have been telling you not to smoke, especially cigarettes with high 'tar' and nicotine. But smoking provides you with a pleasure you don't want to give up.

Naturally, we're prejudiced. We're in the business of selling cigarettes.

But there is one overriding fact that transcends whether you should or shouldn't smoke and that fact is that you do smoke.

And what are they going to do about that?

They can continue to exhort you not to smoke. Or they might look reality in the face and recommend that, if you smoke and want low 'tar' and nicotine in a cigarette, you smoke a cigarette like Vantage.

And we'll go along with that, because there is no other cigarette like Vantage.

Except Vantage.

Vantage has a unique filter that allows rich flavor to come through it and yet substantially cuts down on 'tar' and nicotine.

Not that Vantage is the lowest 'tar' and nicotine cigarette. (But you probably wouldn't like the lowest 'tar' and nicotine cigarette anyway.)

The plain truth is that smoke has to come through a filter if taste is to come through a filter. And where there is taste there has to be some 'tar.'

But Vantage is the only cigarette that gives you so much flavor with so little 'tar' and nicotine.

So much flavor that you'll never miss your high 'tar' cigarette.

Death Row

"We have halted capital punishment for even the worst kind of criminal; yet, this year, we will execute 17,000,000 innocent animals whose only crime was being born unwanted."

--Belton P. Mouras

This is the final day. If these pets aren't adopted by four o'clock they will be put-to-sleep . . . forever.

WHY? They're surplus. Excess. They must die by four o'clock because there are more pets than there are homes. Five out of every six puppies and kittens born die in one tragic way or other. MILLIONS are destroyed in pounds; more millions are abandoned to starvation, disease and highway slaughter. And on top of the terrible toll paid in animal life, it costs you, the American taxpayer, $500,000,000 annually just to keep from being overrun by stray cats and dogs.

WHAT'S THE ANSWER? Planned pethood. Animal birth control. Until veterinary science discovers a pet "pill," the only sure way to keep pets from breeding unwanted litters is a spaying operation which some people can't afford. There's a desperate need now for low-cost spaying clinics—and accelerated pet contraceptive research.

Something must be done. The consequences of doing nothing are horrifying: bigger-and-bigger pounds to kill more-and-more animals, and restrictive laws banning pets from cities. Who wants to contemplate the future day when pets are outlawed—when man has no other animal companion but himself?

YOU can change this grim forecast. Join us to halt surplus breeding NOW.

It's almost four o'clock.

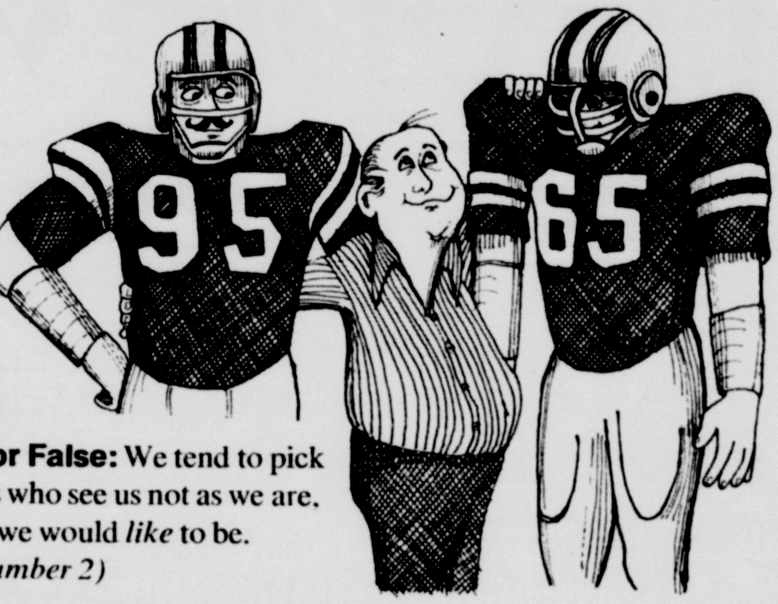
People Quiz

By John E. Gibson

Do You Know the Inner Nature of Friendship?



True or False: We tend to pick friends who see us not as we are, but as we would like to be.
(See number 2)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Just because you happen to like a person and are drawn to him, it doesn't mean he is likely to feel the same way toward you.

2. We tend to pick friends who see us not as we are, but as we would like to be.

3. Even your best friend isn't likely to tell you what others say about you.

4. An attractive girl always has the edge when it comes to making friends with the opposite sex.

5. People who are prone to depression make the most staunch and loyal friends, because they need friendship more, to compensate for the times they feel depressed.

ANSWERS

1. False. Studies have shown that people tend to sense immediately how another person feels about them, and that "most of the time we like those who like us and dislike those who dislike us." Incidentally, it's very difficult to establish a friendly relationship with someone you dislike—even though it may serve your ultimate purpose to do so. Because what you feel is likely to shine through and speak much louder than what you say.

2. False—according to a sociological study of the matter, which showed that we tend to prefer as friends others who see us as we see ourselves —not as we would like to be or, for that matter, as we actually are. As one authority observes, "We are attracted to those whom we perceive as seeing both our foibles and our virtues as we see them."

3. True. Studies sponsored by the National Science Foundation have explored this interesting question: "Is a person likely to be told (even by his best friend) what others think of him?" Findings of the investigation—which included interviews with over 100 subjects: In most cases, friends freely relay to each other what others think and say about other people—and this includes gossip, speculation and conjecture. However, the person who is the subject of these comments and evaluations is rarely told what others think of her or him. It was found that "both positive and negative information tends to be withheld from the person being talked about." So the odds are that even your best friend isn't likely to tell you some of the things you'd give a whole lot to know.

4. False. Studies at the University of Texas have shown that the attractive girl has the edge only when the man feels that he is highly esteemed by her —or "positively evaluated." Otherwise, the investigation showed, the attractive lass rates merely as an "also ran," with the sweepstakes' award going to the plain girl who the man feels appreciates him.

5. False. Psychological studies at the University of Michigan have shown that friendships with depression-prone people are likely to end swiftly and abruptly, resulting in painful disappointment. The typical pattern: an extremely warm and confiding relationship, followed shortly by a quick turn off and permanent estrangement. Persons prone to depression, it was found, "tend to form interpersonal relations combining intense intimacy with sharp separation." fw

WONDERFUL GIFTS—FOR COLLECTORS AND INVESTORS TOO; EACH PRODUCED IN A LIMITED SUPPLY—WHEN GONE, THERE WILL BE NO MORE!

Rare Limited Edition Collector Plates:

(PLUS EXTRA SPECIAL OFFER)

Marvelous Decorations and Excellent Investments as Well!

Every Limited Edition Collectors Plate on this page is for the collector with an eye for beauty and an instinct for value. Some are handmade, some hand painted and some serially numbered— each is a masterpiece from a world famous art plate maker such as Bing and Grondahl, Royal Copenhagen, Haviland and Goebel-Hummel.

Limited Edition Collector's plates can be excellent investments but you have to know which ones to buy. We think we've been pretty successful in helping our customers make the right choice. The 1969 Bing and Grondahl Mothers Day Plate we sold for $9.00 is now worth up to $285.00. We sold the 1971 Goebel Hummel Annual Collectors Plate for $25.00 and it now brings up to $200.00. The 1970 Haviland Christmas Plate we sold for $27.50 is up in price by 600% and the 1972 Haviland-Parlon Christmas Plate is up 400% in one short year. There are many other examples of price rises like the 1969 Wedgwood Annual rising from $25.00 to $175.00. In spite of this obvious investment growth potential, most of our collectors still collect these beautiful plates because they make great decorations on walls, in cabinets or on coffee tables.

1973 Haviland-Parlon Annual Plate. Rare Limoges Porcelain from France. Each serially numbered. $40.00

JULE AFTEN 1971
1971 Bing and Grondahl Annual Plate. Much sought after Danish rarity in sculptured porcelain. $25.00 (See Special Offer)

1973 Royal Copenhagen Annual. Deep cobalt blue and white porcelain from Denmark. $22.00

Hamilton Mint Bicentennial. Proof Quality Pewter Plate commemorating "The Spirit of '76". $25.00

WHY DO LIMITED EDITIONS INCREASE IN VALUE?

Each year quality companies like those represented here, produce a limited number of a specifically chosen plate before destroying the mold. Because the demand for these beautiful plates usually exceeds the supply, many "sell out" and become hard to find. As a result, prices rise. We've sold many in recent years that have increased in price by over 500%.

Plate collecting isn't a new hobby, either. Bing and Grondahl of Denmark produced their first dated Annual Plate in 1895 and have produced one every year since. That 1895 Plate sold for 50¢ and is currently worth $2,700. More and more Americans are starting plate collecting because they make great decorations, good investments and future antiques too.

SPECIAL OFFER: As an incentive for you to start your Limited Plate collection, Joy's wants to offer you the scarce and beautiful 1971 Bing and Grondahl "Christmas At Home" at an unbelievably low price! Please look at this rare plate (shown top right) which is almost impossible to obtain. When you can find one, they bring around $27.00, but to get you started in this enjoyable hobby you may buy one (limit 1) at only $8.95 when you order any other item from this ad. This offer will never be repeated and is subject to limited supply so please order today to avoid disappointment.

SPECIAL BONUS: Absolutely Free also when you order any item from this ad is our famous Joy's Newsletter that is issued monthly showing pictures and giving information on collectors items of world wide interest. A Chiropractor's Treasury of HEALTH SECRETS

Yes, Dear Friend:

How would you like to sit down with licensed Chiropractor, Dr. Samuel Homola, and ask him such vital questions about your health as:

"Can I erase the wrinkles on my face?"
"Can I get a thicker and healthier head of hair?"
"Can I strengthen my eyesight and vision?"
"Can I rejuvenate my glands and organs?"

. . . and have him give you full, honest, detailed answers to everything you want to know? Now, admittedly these things are contrary to commonly accepted medical thinking. And yet Dr. Samuel Homola says they are within the realm of possibility for the average man or woman. And he reports on all these things—and more—in "A Chiropractor's Treasury of Health Secrets".

In These Pages, Dr. Homola Says—

- "You don't have to suffer from constipation . . ."
- "You can reduce your blood pressure . . ."
- "You can get rid of that nagging backache . . ."
- You can try a secret that "will give you a 'new' pair of feet"
- "You should literally erase the wrinkles on your face . . ." with one of these secrets
- You may use this same secret "for a thicker and healthier head of hair . . ."
- You can "cope with arthritis effectively and painlessly. . . . New facts suggest new treatments for quick relief of symptoms...soothing relief for sore and swollen arthritic joints."

"Immediately following one of these methods," says Dr. Homola, "it's not at all uncommon for a patient to say that he can 'see better'."

And all these "Health Secrets" are yours for the reading. Simply fill out and mail the No-Risk Coupon—and you will receive Dr. Homola's book to read from cover to cover, without your risking a single cent!

But first I'd like to tell you more about this book, for that is the only way you will be able to judge its usefulness to you. In reporting its Contents, we make no claims—but rather invite the readers—FREE OF RISK—to examine it and discuss any or all of it with their own doctors.

In these pages, you'll discover . . .

"How To Improve Your Health And Relieve Your Aches And Pains"

Here, in Chapter 1, Dr. Homola states: "All of the home-treatments in this book can be carried out without expensive equipment or medication . . ."

"All of the various methods described in this book have been found to be safe and effective," says Dr. Homola. "Anyone can use them without fear of pain or injury."

"Every chapter outlines a complete self-help technique for a specific ailment," he promises. "If you are stricken with acute pain or illness, you should, of course, see your doctor," he says, to make sure self-help measures would help you. "In the care of certain ailments, they may be more effective than medication, in providing relief from symptoms."

In these pages, Dr. Homola reports on—

SPECIAL CARE FOR VARICOSE VEINS—The drugless treatment that Dr. Homola reports on "may be done easily and conveniently," he says, and is "an effective way to reduce swelling."

HOW TO CARE FOR HEMORRHOIDS—"Since rectal hemorrhoids or 'piles' are also really varicose veins," says Dr. Homola, this same technique "will help drain the accumulated blood" to help relieve discomfort.

A SKIN IMPROVEMENT SECRET—Dr. Homola reports on a common food substance that may prevent dry skin and brittle hair and nails. He also reports on a health secret he says "will improve skin tone". One lady who used it following her regular bath reported that her skin took on the "loving glow" of a baby.

AN APHRODISIAC—Dr. Homola reports on a certain tea that he says, "contains hormone-like (testosterone) substances that stimulate the male sex glands" and is available from health food stores . . . and also a common candy which he says is "believed to have a stimulating effect on female estrogenic hormones."

ARM & SHOULDER PAIN RELIEF—"Pain in some portion of your shoulder, arm, or hand . . . can very often be relieved" with a simple method requiring little more than some ordinary string and sand.

RELIEVING HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE—"You can . . . reduce your blood pressure and slow your heart rate," reports Dr. Homola. And he reports on a number of methods said to do this; one, for example, a common seasoning that he says "tends to lower blood pressure as well as prevent hardening of the arteries."

Elsewhere in this book, Dr. Homola reports on "How to Banish Recurring Headache," "Relieving Cramps and Gas Pains," "How to Strengthen Your Heart for Longer Life and Better Health," "How to Strike Out the Common Cold," "How to Use Home Treatment to Cure Your Backache," "How to Improve Your Health with Leg and Foot Care," "How to Stop Needless Suffering from Hernia," as well as methods said to relieve ulcers, gall bladder trouble, insomnia, anemia, and poor circulation.

There is even a method with which Dr. Homola says "you can take in a proportionately greater number of calories without gaining weight."

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Dr. Samuel Homola is an outstanding authority on the treatment of common and uncommon ailments through drugless healing. A graduate of the Lincoln Chiropractic College, he is the author of four books, including Backache: Home Treatment and Prevention, Muscle Training for Athletes, and Bonesetting, Chiropractic and Cultism, as well as over 200 articles on backache, physical fitness, and related subjects for professional and health magazines.

In addition to maintaining a full-time practice in Panama City, Florida, Dr. Homola is a staff writer for Strength & Health and Muscular Development and contributes articles regularly to such magazines as Scholastic Coach.

Dr. Homola is a well-known authority on the training of athletes, and has developed many new and original techniques for building better health.

Here's What A Medical Doctor Says About These HEALTH SECRETS

Paul-Emile Chevrefils, M.D. says in the Foreword to this book: "As a practicing physician, I recommend A Chiropractor's Treasury of Health Secrets to anyone who wants to add years to his life. Every page is based on scientific principles."

75 Photos And Drawings Illustrate Self-Help Methods Anyone Can Use!

Here Are Some Of The Many Case Histories Reported In Dr. Homola's Book:

STOMACH CRAMPS RELIEVED—"A traveling salesman who suffered from stomach cramps whenever he had a bad day could relieve his discomfort" by using a method described on p. 28, says Dr. Homola.

COLITIS & HEADACHE RELIEVED—"In another case a school teacher who suffered from colitis and headaches could relieve her symptoms" by following this same method, writes Dr. Homola.

RIDS SELF OF CONSTIPATION—Malcolm E. took laxatives regularly. He was addicted to them and felt he could not do without them. He was sleepy, tired and "bloated" all the time, and appeared to be getting worse. "I took this patient off laxatives," reports Dr. Homola, "and suggested he follow the recommendations in this chapter . . . After several weeks he was normal once again."

RELIEVES HEART PAIN—"Bill C., an attorney, was only 45, but he had already suffered a slight heart attack. His doctor actually recommended many of the measures outlined in Chapter 6 . . . and after faithful adherence to this program . . . his blood cholesterol was back to normal and he no longer had chest pains when he exerted himself."

RELIEVES LEG PAIN—Mrs. M. S., a 43-year-old supermarket cashier complained of leg pain. Yet after using a simple method Dr. Homola tells you about in Chapter 10, "all of her aches and pains were relieved with a single treatment."

RELIEVES ARTHRITIC SYMPTOMS—"A 68-year-old retired railroad man complained that he was so stiff when he got out of bed in the morning he could hardly move. And the more he rested, the stiffer he became. He relieved his stiffness, however, with a method described in Chapter 7. 'I feel much better now," he remarks, and he is able to take walks and go swimming."

STIFF FINGERS RELIEVED—"A 52-year-old cosmetics sales lady who tried this technique said that it relieved the soreness and stiffness in her fingers when nothing else seemed to help," reports Dr. Homola.

SHOULDER & SPINE PAIN RELIEVED—"A postal clerk, 38 years of age, who had to stand long hours sorting mail, complained of 'pain and pressure' in the portion of his spine between his shoulder blades. After using this method, he reported complete relief from pain," says Dr. Homola.

RELIEVES BACKACHE—When all else had failed, a 68-year-old retired business executive who had suffered a compression fracture in his spine many months earlier "was able to relieve his backache as well as his leg pain," with a method revealed in Chapter 9.

"Simple self-help mesaures," says Dr. Homola, "can save you time and money as well as relieve pain and disability. . . . Every chapter is filled with effective self-help methods."

As More Examples, Dr. Homola Reports On . . .

"HOW TO RELIEVE PAIN OF MIGRAINE"—Do you suffer from recurring headaches of unknown cause—accompanied by nausea, weakness, restlessness or irritability? Do you see a kind of hazy aura or "spots" before your eyes—just before a bad headache? When it begins, it is usually on one side of the head, with a swollen, painful artery sometimes visible on that side? If so, you may be suffering from migraine, Dr. Homola says. In these pages, he reveals simple methods migraine sufferers have used for relief of symptoms.

"A CASE HISTORY OF LEG PAIN"—"A 68-year-old judge complained of pain in his calves when he walked more than a few yards. 'I can walk about a block,' he said, 'and then my legs start aching. After I sit down for a while, I can walk another block before they start aching again.' X-ray examination of his legs revealed that the arteries traveling down the back of his knees and calves were so hard and calcified that they could be clearly seen . . . his calf muscles simply ached from poor circulation and lack of oxygen," reports Dr. Homola. By following a method reported by Dr. Homola, he relieved this condition and increased the endurance of his legs so that he could walk several blocks without trouble.

"HOW A MOTHER RELIEVES HER 'FEMALE TROUBLES'"—A 31 year old mother, complaining of pelvic trouble and painful menstruation, according to Dr. Homola, "was able to relieve her symptoms" by using a simple device that can be made easily or purchased at a store inexpensively—which "restored circulation by removing pressure" from her abdominal organs.

"HOW TO STOP NEEDLESS SUFFERING FROM HERNIA"—Charlie B. suffered from a hernia, as did Bonnie J. Mr. B., a salesman, began to experience a little soreness and swelling in his right groin, for no apparent reason. The doctor told him, "If that bulge gets any bigger, it may have to be repaired surgically." Mr. B. was flabbergasted. "How could I have a hernia?" he asked. "I haven't done anything to strain myself." Bonnie J., a housewife, also developed a hernia in the groin. "I thought only men had hernias in that part of the body." she said. "Luckily," writes Dr. Homola, "both were able to 'cure' their hernias using the simple secrets described in this chapter."

Smart Cooking

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen makes several holiday recipes. Says Marilyn, "I like to make Stollen every year and serve them at our Christmas Sunday Coffee Hour at church. The Oyster Stew—well, that's traditional at tree-trimming time."

My Favorite Recipes For Christmas

STOLLEN

Traditional yeast bread served in Germany on Christmas Eve.

5½-6½ cups unsifted all-purpose flour or unbleached all-purpose flour
½ cup sugar
1¼ teaspoons salt
2 pkgs. active dry yeast
¾ cup milk
½ cup water
⅔ cup margarine
3 eggs, room temperature
¾ cup chopped blanched almonds
¾ cup mixed candied fruits
⅓ cup golden raisins
1½ cups confectioners' sugar
2 tablespoons milk
Blanched almonds, candied cherries and citron, optional

1. In a large bowl, thoroughly mix 2 cups flour, sugar, salt and undissolved dry yeast.

2. Combine milk, water and margarine in a saucepan. Heat over low heat until liquids are warm. (Margarine does not need to melt.)

3. Gradually add warm liquid to dry ingredients and beat 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally.

4. Add eggs and ½ cup flour, or enough flour to make a thick batter. Beat at high speed 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally.

5. With large spoon stir in enough additional flour to make a soft dough.

6. Turn out onto lightly floured board; knead until smooth and elastic, about 8-10 minutes. Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top.

7. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until double in bulk, about 1½ hours.

8. Combine almonds, candied fruits and raisins.

9. Punch down dough; turn out onto lightly floured board. Knead in nut-and-fruit mixture. Divide dough into three equal pieces. Roll each piece of dough into a 12x7-inch oval. Fold in half lengthwise.

10. Place on greased baking sheets. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until double in bulk, about 45 minutes.

11. About 15 minutes before rising time is up, preheat oven to 350° F.

12. Bake stollen 20-25 minutes until done, or until they sound hollow when rapped with knuckle.

13. Remove from baking sheets immediately and cool on wire racks. Combine confectioners' sugar and milk smoothly. Pour on top of slightly warm stollen. If desired decorate with blanched almonds, candied cherries and citron. Makes 3 stollen

OYSTER STEW

24 fresh oysters or 1 pkg. (12 ozs.) frozen oysters with liquid, thawed
2 cups milk*
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
¼ teaspoon paprika
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash celery salt
Butter
Chowder crackers

1. In medium saucepan, heat oysters in their liquid just until edges curl.

2. Add milk, butter, pepper, paprika, salt and celery salt. Heat gently just until mixture is hot. Do not boil or overcook. (To keep warm for an extended period, place soup in double boiler over hot water.)

3. Serve hot in heated soup bowls. Float a teaspoon of butter on each serving. Pass chowder crackers in basket. Makes 1½ qts., 4 servings

*For a richer stew, substitute 1 cup light cream for 1 cup of the milk.

DOG ON A COLD ASPHALT ROOF
A little weird, but good for business

When Sandy, a mongrel of some fame, has to be fed, his ten-year-old owner, Wayne Ratcliffe, has to climb up on the roof of this pub in Oldham, England, where his pet lives. The Ratcliffes bought Sandy a year ago and since then he has only come down off the roof twice. "All the time he pined and whined to get back up again. We can't understand it," said Mrs. Ratcliffe. "We've tried everything to persuade him to come down and live like a normal dog, but he loves his roof." To make life more comfortable for Sandy, Wayne's father has built the dog a rooftop kennel. Needless to say, Sandy's act is good for the pub's business, but imagine seeing a dog on the roof after having a pint too many!

Ever hear of the Amazon complex? It is the reaction women have when they are deceived and hurt by men. "Usually women deal with the resulting conflict in one of two unsatisfactory ways. They may be falsely compliant in order to win love (the femininity game), or they may become hostile and vindictive. (And with so many sons of Achilles running around, it's hard to find another alternative.) A number of men would seem to suffer from an Achilles complex—believing, as did Achilles, that the only way to handle a strong, aggressive woman is to subdue her by force and/or deception." From "The Femininity Game," by Thomas Boslooper and Marcia Hayes (Stein and Day, $7.95).

SUZANNE PLESHETTE

Working women: Suzanne Pleshette says the reason she keeps working despite being married to one of the wealthiest men in Hollywood, Thomas J. Gallagher III, is because she thinks it makes her "more interesting and happier. When I first got married I didn't work for about five months. One morning my husband said, 'I want you to go back to work. Or to school. Or work for some charity. Do something. Just don't ever ask me what I want for dinner after you've fed me breakfast!' And he's right. I think a woman avoids becoming dull when she has activities outside her own home."

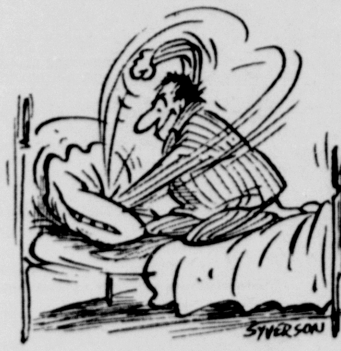
ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour



PILLOW CASE

Before I lay me down to sleep,
When first I go to bed,
I pat the pillow where I shall,
In moments, lay my head.

In fact I often more than pat,
I sock my pillow hard.
I plump it up, I beat it up.
(It's luckily not scarred.)

I punch the pillow every night
(I say "I hit the sack"),
And I suppose I should be glad
It doesn't hit me back.

The night before Christmas: a wrap session. —Frank Tyger

Teenage girl to boyfriend: "We're just like Romeo and Juliet—my father hates the sight of you."
—Lane Olinghouse

A businessman handed the hotel manager a large bouquet of flowers and said in a sympathetic voice, "It's for the switchboard operator."

The manager smiled. "Thank you, sir. I'm sure she will appreciate your compliment on her fine service."

"Service!" roared the businessman, "I thought she was dead."
—Lucille J. Goodyear

Sign on physician's door: "On vacation. In an emergency, write to your newspaper's medical column."
—Conrad Fiorello

Hairdresser to customer: "First we'll tint the gray hair black. Then we'll color the black hair blond. Then we'll put a streak of gray through the center so it will look natural." —Henry Leabo

Men: Did you ever get the feeling that life is one big Women's Lib meeting—and you're Bobby Riggs?
—Robert Orben

THROUGH A CHILD'S EYES

Kids see life differently. Send original contributions to "Child," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., N.Y., N.Y. 10022. $10 if used—none returned.

My wife and I are expecting our third child in a few months. Recently I asked our two children which they would prefer, a baby brother or a baby sister. Our 4-year-old daughter said she wanted a baby sister. I then asked our 2½-year-old son if he wanted a baby sister. No answer. Then I asked him if he would like a baby brother. This was followed by silence again. Then, with all the dignity and seriousness that a 2-year-old can muster, he looked me square in the eye and answered: "I want a bicycle." —Robert E. Long
